PLANES REFUELED AND READY TO FLY FROM TREPASSEY

Our Navy Airmen Cheered by Prospect of Good Weather Within 48 Hours.

FULL REPORTS ON WEATHER

Blind Newfoundlander Walks 30 Miles to Consult Surgeon on American Mother Ship.

Special to The New York Times.

TREPASSEY, N. F., May 12.—The NC-3 was completely refueled early this morning, and the seaplane is completely ready now, straining all morning at its cables in the almost glassy-smooth harbor, as if eager to get off on the first leg of the United States Navy's attempt at an Atlantic air crossing. The starting moment is still an official secret, with every indication that the two air liners will rise in the first entirely favorable weather after today, and there is a strong probability that they will get away and will succeed with the same clocklike precision which has marked the navy's efforts thus far.

The Commander is noncommittal, but but there is a growing impression among the officers of the little fleet here that there will be no delay to await the NC-4 if the proper flying hour comes before her arrival. Officers here have implicit confidence in Lieut. Commander A. C. Read, and still expect him to join his comrades here. They would not be surprised if he were to "hop" from Chatham to Trepassey in one jump, without stopping at Halifax, on account of his eagerness to be in the friendly race across the Atlantic. Incidentally, no official information has been given as to whether the crossing is to be a race or whether, conditions permitting, the two or three seaplanes will progress in a prescribed order.

Every member of the expedition this morning was cheered up immensely when the weather forecasts prognosticated that Yankee luck, which brought the seaplanes safely through fire and other hazards, promised to produce ideal flying weather from Trepassey to the Azores within forty-eight hours. This prospect takes no account of an impending local storm. This storm's approach is unbelievable to laymen here, for Newfoundland's weather gods today produced one of those indescribably perfect days with which they make amends for long stretches of wretched weather.

Crews Perfecting Their Machines.

Though the NC-3 and the NC-1 are now completely ready, it is not to be inferred that either of their crews or the officers and men attached to Trepassey Station have quit work. They are still going minutely over every part of the mechanism and equipment of both seaplanes, tuning, testing, adjusting, and making the utmost effort to forestall any possible failure. In addition to supervising such work, Commander Towers this afternoon called a conference of all aviation detail officers, at which there was a minute study and technical discussion of charts, of the course, the weather reports, and the official secret instructions.

So far as technical knowledge and trained foresight can guarantee, no detail of the enterprise is now left unsettled. One result through a canvass of the situation here outside of the conference is the knowledge that it is now practically certain the take-off will occur in mid-afternoon instead of near sunset, as earlier projected. The only disappointing phase of the situation here thus far has been the absence of the NC-4.

One result of the NC-4's non-arrival and the lack thus far of official information here from Washington regarding her intentions is that the destroyer McKean, which left the station on the Halifax-Trepassey leg of the flight and came here to refuel alongside the Hiscox, is still in the harbor awaiting orders whether to stand by for the NC-4's flight or to return to Boston. The McKean brought Lieutenant Tinker, acting Secretary Roosevelt's personal representative.

At the jumping off place one indication that the flight is imminent was the initiation today of a detailed meteorological study in addition to the frequent weather reports already gathered by the dreadnoughts Utah and Florida to the north of the course, the Texas and Wyoming to the south, and the Arizona off Lisbon, and by the designated and properly equipped destroyers Upshur, Walker, Meredith, Hopewell and Phillip between Newfoundland and the Azores; the Wilkes, Conyngham and Ericsson between the Azores and Lisbon, and the various others at widely separated stations. These are being sent to the mother ships at the flight bases, thus permitting an elaborate plotting and study of the weather.

Test Air Currents with Balloon.

Similar researches began here this morning when Lieutenant R. S. Barrett, attached to the naval aviation operations as official base aerographer, and W. R. Gregg, attached to the weather bureau, who is an authority on upper

Vorarlberg Citizens, by 4 to 1, Vote to Join Switzerland

BERNE, Switzerland, May 12, (Associated Press.)—As a result of a plebiscite held Sunday in Vorarlberg, the westernmost district of Austria-Hungary, on the question of uniting with Switzerland, 45,500 persons voted in favor of annexation, as compared with 11,000 against such a union.

Overtures to Switzerland will now begin, but the Swiss States themselves are to have a plebiscite on the question of taking in the Crown land.

Vorarlberg is bound on the north by Bavaria, on the east by Tyrol, on the south by the Swiss Canton of Grisons, and on the west by Lichenstein and the Swiss Canton of St. Gall. The Crown land has an area of 1,004 square miles. The population is considerably over 100,000.

MOVE TO ADVANCE CONGRESS SESSION

HAS LIBERAL SUPPORT

Wilson's Failure to Call Early Extra Session Pointed To in Support of Reform.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, May 12.—A movement to change the meeting date of each newly-elected Congress will be launched when the 66th Congress meets in extra session on May 19. Representative Clifton Nesmith McArthur, a Republican from the Portlandt, (Ore.,) district, now about to begin his third term in Congress, will, next Monday, introduce a bill to change the date.

The bill, which has been brought to the attention of a number of members of Congress who have pledged themselves to support the innovation, will provide that each elected Congress shall hold its first session on March 5 immediately following its election. At present a Congress elected in November does not meet until December of the following year, unless called into session sooner by the President.

Mr. McArthur holds that the country has grown to such an extent that two sessions to a Congress, one short and the other long, are not sufficient to properly handle the nation's business. The recent refusal of the President to call the Congress into extra session after the fourth of March, following the failure of important appropriation and legislative measures, left Congress helpless as to the matter of its own meeting. Mr. McArthur feels that legislation should be enacted to obviate the recurrence of such a condition.

Mr. McArthur's bill will provide that, in addition to the two regular sessions of each Congress, which begin the first Monday in December, there shall be a third regular session of each Congress, beginning on March 5, every two years, immediately following the Congressional election.

Mr. McArthur said to THE NEW YORK TIMES correspondent tonight that the period of enforced idleness of thirteen months between a Congressional election and the opening of the first regular session was entirely too long and that it was manifestly impossible for short sessions to transact the business of the nation satisfactorily. Under the McArthur plan a Congress elected in November would meet first on March 5 following for its first regular session. The second regular session would begin the following first Monday in December and the third regular session the next first Monday in December.

When Mr. McArthur broached his plan to some members they seemed to think a Constitutional amendment was necessary. But he assured them the change could be made by statute. The Constitution provides:

"Article 1, Section IV., Paragraph D.: The Congress shall assemble at least once in every year, and such meeting shall be on the first Monday in December, unless they shall, by law, appoint a different day."

Mr. McArthur holds that this paragraph expressly confers on Congress the power to enact legislation fixing the day for the meeting of Congress. The precedents were consulted, and it was found that the First Congress by law appointed for its second meeting a day later than the day fixed by the Constitution.

Sonnino and House Confer on the Italian Situation

PARIS, May 12.—Baron Sonnino, the Italian Foreign Minister, held a conference today with Colonel House of the American delegation. The conferees went over the Italian situation with a view to reaching a basis of adjustment before the arrival of the Austrians.

The conference took place at a luncheon at which Colonel House was the Italian diplomat's guest.

The Adriatic question was taken up today by the Council of Four in addition to other matters.

PARIS, May 10.—President Wilson remains firm on the Italian question, and the anxiety of the Italians here grows hourly more acute in anticipation of events which they dread, but see no way of avoiding. The Italian delegates are coming to the conclusion that insistence on the terms of the Treaty of London is the only card for them to play in order to retain some measure of control over the excited sentiment of the Italian people. For it is more than doubtful if the nation will be willing to take colonial compensations, such as are reported to have been offered in exchange for its claims in the Adriatic.

In American circles there still seems to exist the belief that the whole agitation in Italy is more or less factitious; that, in fact, the situation has been worked up and taken advantage of by the Italian Government in order to get past May Day without labor or Socialist troubles.

"The scheme worked," those who support this theory say. "Owing to the influence of patriotic fervor May 1 was tranquil throughout Italy. But now that the moment of anxiety is over the Italian Government will drop patriotic enthusiasm into the discard, and after a little further show of resistance to justify its game in the eyes of the people, will listen to reason and accept what we are prepared to offer."

This belief, however well founded it may appear to persons in Paris, seems to be based on ignorance of affairs in Italy. In a previous dispatch I advanced the suggestion that President Wilson had written his message to the Italian people with full knowledge of the internal political conditions in Italy, in order to strengthen Orlando's hand both against Nationalist ardor and Giolittist intrigues, and so enable him [Orlando] to accept the compromise which hitherto he had been willing, but did not dare, to accept. It was even announced at the time of Orlando's return that the French Ambassador to Italy, Camille Barrère, had offered Italy a compromise of her Fiume claims on lines similar to those of the Sarre settlement, to which Orlando felt able to agree.

Wilson Always Opposed Compromise.

But it seems to be a fact that, whatever Barrère offered, President Wilson was not a party to it, and that through-

Allied Armies Are Prepared to Advance as Foch Planned

LONDON, May 12, (via Montreal.)—Reuter's Limited learns that in the event of Germany not signing the peace treaty, which is regarded as unlikely, all military arrangements have been made for the allied armies to advance in exactly the same way as they would have done had Germany not accepted the armistice terms.

JESTED AT SLAYING MUNICH HOSTAGES

PLEAS FOR MERCY IGNORED

Copyright, 1919, by The Chicago Tribune Co.

MUNICH, May 10, (via Paris.)—I have talked with several persons who were held as hostages by the Bolsheviki and who saw the murder of eight of their number in the courtyard of the Luitpold High School. I have also examined the sworn affidavits which the survivors of the massacre made to the Chief of Police. There is no conflict in the recitals of the killing of the hostages and it has been easy to weave the story together.

Altogether, more than 500 citizens of Munich, including several women, were arrested by the Reds and held as hostages during the last week of April. The prisoners were arrested sometimes on charges, but more often purely as hostages. They were first confined in cellars or other haphazard places all over the city, but were afterward distributed among the various high schools and public buildings used by the Bolsheviki as barracks.

A blacklist of those to be executed, numbering over 100, was prepared, but owing to much confusion among the Communists only a small number were confined in the Luitpold School, of whom eleven were stood in front of a brick wall at one end of the school yard and shot down by a firing squad. Others escaped, owing to the uprising of citizens and the unexpected rush into the city by the Government troops when the news of the assassination of the hostages was made known.

Saw Companions Shot.

The first to be shot were two Prussian soldiers, still unidentified, who had been captured by the Communists a few days before, when they became separated from their company, which was attacking the Red barricade in the outskirts of Munich.

All of the hostages in the high school were marched into the courtyard and made to witness the killing of the two soldiers. When the execution was over, Willie Hausmann, a young demon of 23, who was in command of the Bolsheviki firing squad, turned to the hostages standing in one corner of the courtyard and announced to them, between puffs of his cigarette, that they would all be shot in the afternoon.

The hostages were then marched back to their rooms, where they waited for their turns to be led out to die.

At 4 o'clock in the afternoon the school house bell began a wild clanging. The hostages knew their hour had arrived. Hausmann went into the classrooms where the hostages waited and read the written order, signed by Elhofer, the Bolshevist assistant to Levien, the Russian who was at the head of the Bolshevist movement in Munich. The order was:

"Shoot your twenty-two prisoners, but first pick out the best."

Laughed Over Murders.

Tausmann laughed, lit another cigarette, and said it would be hard. At random he called out the names of nine which he chose from the list of hostages held in his hand. He selected the victims by looking off the paper, running his finger down the page and then, noting where his finger rested, marking the names with a red pencil, writing on the margin of the paper:

"The names underscored are people to be shot."

Eight men were chosen for execution and one woman, Countess Westarp. These were surrounded by Red soldiers and marched down into the courtyard, where ten Communists in uniform armed with rifles and one civilian carrying a pistol were standing laughing and smoking. This was the firing squad.

Fritz Seidel, the Bolshevist commandant of the high school, sat at one side of the courtyard at a little table with a young woman secretary. It was pay day for the Communist soldiers quartered in the high school, and Seidel was busy counting the money, which the secretary was arranging in stacks. Both conducted their work while the execution of the prisoners was carried out, only occasionally glancing up to see what was happening.

Smiling, young Hausmann took charge

EBERT DENOUNCES TREATY

German President Calls It "Monstrous" and Unprecedented

SENDS WORD TO AMERICA

Says That Germany Has Unfurled Banner Inscribed with Wilson Points.

OUTBURSTS AGAINST TREATY

BERLIN, May 11, (Associated Press.)—"Germany has seized and unfurled a new banner on which are inscribed President Wilson's Fourteen Points, which the President apparently has deserted," said Friedrich Ebert, the German President, in a statement to The Associated Press today.

President Ebert called the Peace Treaty a "monstrous document." He declared that history held no precedent for such determination to annihilate completely vanquished peoples.

President Ebert declared that the world's youngest republic in the hour of gravest peril had weighed its overseas big brother and found him wanting.

In a statement intended primarily for the American people, which he designated "a moral declaration of war upon all that remains of the old system of international politics," the President discussed with outspoken frankness the peace situation, the state of the German people and the prospect of the immediate future.

Big demonstrations against the signing of the treaty by Germany were held today in Berlin, Breslau, Dansig, Königsberg, Cassel, Bochum, and other places. The demonstrations were organized by the National People's Party.

"If this treaty comes to pass I will bring up my children in hatred," said Deputy Traub, speaking in Berlin.

Dr. Gustav Stresemann, one of the People's Party leaders, spoke in protest against the demand for the surrender of former Emperor William. If the German people complied with it, he said, they would be without shame or honor.

Gotha Declines to Mourn.

The Independent Socialist Government of the small State of Gotha has declined to abide by the restrictions for a "week of mourning" ordered by the National Government. The Gotha Government explains that it experiences no "bitter deception" through the publication of the peace terms.

Although the Independent Socialists at the outset of the discussion over the treaty adopted the viewpoint that peace must be signed at all costs, the tremendous pressure of public expression has led many of them to reconsider their view, and some have joined the multitude that is protesting against the signing.

In the name of the Independent Socialist Party, Richard Weller told the Workmen's Councils of Greater Berlin that such "a dictated peace of cruel severity" could not be a lasting peace. Therefore he demanded the assembling of a congress of the councils to determine their attitude toward the question and to appeal to the Entente proletariat to work against the peace "proposed by Entente world imperialism as embodied in the treaty."

Herr Müller, another of the Independent leaders, seized the occasion to assail again the old imperialistic régime in Germany, which he declared incurred blood-guilt by the invasion of France and Belgium and the destruction of mines and industries.

Arguing against the prevalent protests, Karl Kautsky, writing in the Independent organ Die Freiheit, says:

"Shall we sign the peace if it is not to be modified or have we any other chance? If it were a peace of destruction, a death sentence, as it is called, agreement to it would be suicide. But hard as the conditions are they do not lead to the downfall of the German people, even though they will make life terribly difficult.

"A genuine downfall, a rapid physical downfall would come, however, if we declined to sign the peace and reverted to a state of war. After a few weeks of fruitless opposition, costing millions and lives, we should be forced to capitulate."

The stipulation in the peace terms that Germany must surrender thousands of milch cows, swine, beeves and other domestic animals, to replace those lost by the Allies through the war, has created the most bitter and violent protest among rich and poor alike.

The Tageblatt describes the demand as "monstrous and impossible," and calls attention to the frightful child mortality because of the lack of milk. It declares that this is a deliberate effort to continue hunger among the German people and is "brutality not to be exceeded."

The paper asserts that the cattle to be delivered would total 2,500,000 hundred-

Austria's Boundaries Are Set by the Big Four; Italy Gets Frontier Fixed in Treaty of London

PARIS, May 12, (Associated Press.)—The Council of Four spent most of the day on the subject of the Austrian boundaries, and completed the task of defining them this afternoon in a session with the Foreign Ministers.

Such progress was made that the members of the council believe that the Austrian treaty may be completed this week. An official summary of it is being prepared, as was done in the case of the German treaty.

Although it is not so stated in the treaty, the new Austrian frontier is the one designated by the secret Treaty of London, giving Italy all the strategic heights and defensive passages.

President Wilson spent some time today with the American Commissioners, who have been considering the various phases of the treaty with Germany. It was pointed out that there were so many points of similarity between the Austrian and German treaties that an enormous amount of time would be saved by preparing the document relating to Austria at once.

WANTS AIR TRAFFIC CURBED BY LEAGUE

French Writer Fears That Germany May Abuse the Freedom of Commercial Flight.

SEES RISK TO CIVILIZATION

Says Teutons Could Redress Themselves in One Night Unless Development Is Controlled.

By CHARLES A. SELDEN.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

PARIS, May 10.—While he does not exactly suggest the annihilation of the Garden of Eden or mandatory control of heaven, a writer in the Matin today declares: "The air should belong to the League of Nations." He considers the military and naval aviation provisions of the peace treaty as merely a facade behind which is left a great menace to Europe, since there is no restriction on Germany's liberty to develop commercial aviation.

"It is evident," he says, "that German aviation cannot be simply ended altogether. We cannot pretend to exclude Germany from the great currents of air traffic which in a quarter of a century will traverse the world. On the other hand, control of the number or character of her planes would be ineffective. But the Allies must remain masters of the air until Germany gives pledges of repentance and pacifism.

"The air might be the property of the League of Nations. Such was one result to be drawn from President Wilson's principles. It was a service the League of Nations might have rendered if it had not been made merely a court room. The League of Nations, charging itself with the policing of the air, creating an international body for the exploitation of the air, and permitting Germany to participate only under its control, could save the civilized world from the greatest of risks.

"This risk remains. In a single night Germany can redress herself, if as much liberty is left her in aviation building as in her mental development. We leave peace at her mercy. An essential precaution has been omitted from the treaty. The Allies should act immediately to put it in."

Commenting this morning on the public opinion expressed in Germany concerning the treaty, the Matin says:

"What is more serious than all the protests we hear or expect to hear is Germany's determination, expressed by journals of all sorts, to sign the treaty, but not to execute it. As to that, we can and ought to anticipate events. It is the business of the Allies to act accordingly and insist upon guarantees of undoubted sufficiency."

NOSKE SEIZES LEIPSIC; SURPRISES SPARTACIDES

BERLIN, May 11, (Associated Press.)—German Government troops have occupied Leipsic. A number of the Spartacide leaders there have been arrested.

The Government forces at Weimar were transferred to Leipsic, where the Spartacides had been threatening an uprising on behalf of a Council Government.

The Spartacides and Independent Socialists are again active in Central Germany. At Eisenach yesterday they forced the Major of the district and the district director to march at the head of a parade of Radicals, carrying red flags. Afterward the officials were beaten by the crowd.

Gustav Noske, the Minister of Defense, was asked to send Government troops to restore order, and has agreed to do so. The Thuringiaf Workmen's Council at Erfurt has threatened to bring about a general strike if the troops come into the district and if those now there are not removed.

Almost unnoticed amid the excitement incident to the receipt of the peace terms and probably influenced by them, a movement in which the workers are receding from their earlier demands for higher wages and are striving to induce the Government to reduce food prices is gradually gaining ground. The latest organization to adopt this policy is the German Railway Men's Association, whose representatives, at a conference with Minister Schmidt, agreed to abandon demands for higher wages if the Government would reduce food prices.

SEEKING TO GIVE FORM TO 'ALLIANCE'

A PROBLEM FOR CONGRESS

By RICHARD V. OULAHAN.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

PARIS, May 9.—The "undertaking" by which President Wilson has pledged himself to propose to the Senate an "engagement" for the United States to come immediately to the assistance of France in case of an unprovoked attack by Germany is supplemented by a more formal document now in course of preparation. If it bears out the understanding of some of those informed, that "engagement" is to be put in a form suggesting a treaty of defensive alliance with France.

So far, from what I learned today, the "undertaking" consists merely in a letter from President Wilson to Premier Clemenceau. The President is now engaged in consulting American experts on international and constitutional law as to the form of the supplementary document. Efforts to draft this have been made, but it is admitted that difficulties were encountered. One of these difficulties arises from the fact that the "engagement"—which may be construed as a treaty obligation—apparently commits the United States in advance to employ its land and naval forces in behalf of France against Germany. Congress has sole power under the American Constitution to declare war, and the question has arisen whether the undertaking can be given alone by the Senate as a part of the treaty-making authority or whether it requires also the sanction of the House of Representatives, which is a part of the war-making authority.

There is no doubt in the minds of many Americans here that a strong sentiment will develop among the members of the House in favor of having the engagement submitted to their body. Republican Representatives in Paris recently said they would insist that any engagement of the United States to help France by force of arms should be laid before he lower house.

According to an official announcement made Wednesday night, the President has given an undertaking to submit the engagement to the Senate. Nothing has yet developed to show that there has been any change in that intention so as to include the House of Representatives. American officials connected with the Peace Commission are extremely reticent about the whole matter, as they have been ever since the statement came from French sources that President Wilson had given a guarantee in addition to the provisions of the League of Nations covenant for the United States to insure the special security of the French frontier.

How French Construe the Pledge.

As the French have construed the pledge furnished to Premier Clemenceau by President Wilson—this construction being voiced by their official spokesmen—the United States undertakes to regard the west bank of the Rhine as the French frontier, and the passage of German troops across the Rhine westward would be considered cause for the United States to come immediately to the assistance of France with armed forces. Under the terms of the peace treaty the territory lying between the Rhine and the French and Belgian frontiers remains German, but it is to be occupied for fifteen years by allied troops, and the Germans are pledged to have no armed forces, military depots, or other appurtenances of war there.

It is taken for granted that the supplementary document now being prepared will be submitted to the Senate for ratification. Whether it will bear the signatures of the French as well as the American plenipotentiaries is not known. If guarded hints from persons close to the President are a proper guide, Brockdorff Presents League of Nations Plan Calling for World Parliament.

WORKS ON COUNTER-TREATY

Germans Framing Full Substitute—Berlin Still Hopes for Changes.

PARIS, May 12, (Associated Press.)—Herr Landsberg and Herr Giesberts of the German peace delegation, accompanied by a number of secretaries, left Versailles tonight for Berlin.

Their departure is in no sense to be interpreted as a breach in the peace negotiations. These plenipotentiaries not only have the important ministerial portfolios, respectively, of justice and posts and telegraphs, but are among the most influential political leaders in Germany.

Landsberg is regarded as the brains of the Majority Socialists, while Giesberts is very high in the councils of the Catholic Party and the Catholic labor unions. Their counsel, therefore, is required by the Government in determining its attitude toward the peace conditions.

It is understood that both the Ministers will return to Versailles in case the peace treaty is signed.

In addition to Landsberg and Giesberts, General Seech, Naval Captain Heinrich, Captain Fisher Cuno, Privy Councillor, and nine secretaries departed tonight for Germany.

Germans Offer Plan for League.

The German delegation has handed to the Council of Four the German plan for a League of Nations. This plan was drawn up by Professor Schücking, and its principal feature is a proposed international parliament composed of ten representatives from each nation.

Members of the Committee on the League of Nations said that Professor Schücking's plan was in the form of a general thesis on the merits of a world parliament, which would seek to bring about the proportionate limitation of armaments of all nations alike, on sea as well as on land, and an equality of economic conditions, a sort of economic brotherhood.

"The project," a member of the committee said, "has only academic interest, as the committee will not examine or consider it, for it has no purpose to let the Germans confuse the allied project, which has unanimous support."

The Council of Four at its meeting today decided to refer the German notes on labor and war prisoners to experts for consideration, instead of answering them at once, as it did with the first two communications from the German delegation.

According to the newspapers, the basis of the second note is a labor charter inspired by the conferences at Leeds and Berne, and they argue that the purpose is to create among Socialists an opinion favorable to Germany by putting in direct collaboration the working classes and the present Government of that country.

Framing a Substitute Treaty.

The first exchange between Count von Brockdorff-Rantzau and the Allies is considered a preliminary skirmish to the main battle and as disclosing the allied position as, in effect: "Accept the treaty as it stands, or reject it, one or the other, as there is no middle ground."

This was the prevailing view in the American delegation to the Peace Conference, and in conference circles generally, after the notes exchanged had been analyzed. The head of the German delegation was also thought to accept this construction, as reports were that he was giving his chief attention to the formulation of a complete treaty, which he would present as a counterproject in about five days.

This countertreaty could be treated the same as the German plan for a League of Nations, neither of which will be considered, the only question being the acceptance or rejection of the allied treaty.

Berlin Still Hopes for Changes.

BERLIN, May 12, (Associated Press.)—The semi-official Wolff Bureau last night issued a statement that the reply of Premier Clemenceau to the note of the German peace delegation regarding the treaty "although it seems to reject a discussion, implies

Lloyd George Won't See Irish Delegates; Americans' Agitation in Island the Reason

PARIS, May 12, (Associated Press.)—It is stated here that David Lloyd George, the British Prime Minister, has reconsidered his decision to receive Frank P. Walsh, Edward F. Dunne, and Michael F. Ryan, representing American Irish societies.

The reason given is the agitation which has arisen from the visit of the Americans to Ireland.

DUBLIN, May 12.—Frank P. Walsh, Edward F. Dunne, and Michael F. Ryan, representatives of Irish societies in the United States, visited Galway Sunday and left in the evening for Westport, notwithstanding they were officially notified Saturday that they would not be allowed to go there, because Westport had been proclaimed a military area.

When the delegates reached the seaties on the outskirts of Westport, they found troops with fixed bayonets, police with carbines, and armored cars drawn across the road. Mr. Walsh, who shared an automobile with Messrs. Dunne and Ryan and Father O'Flannagan, produced passports and told the officer in charge that they were diplomatic passports which had been vised at the embassy and given to them at the request of Premier Lloyd George and President Wilson. The officer replied that he had been aware for some days that they were coming, but, as Westport was under military control, his orders were not to allow them to pass that night. The delegates then went to Castlebar, capital of the County of Mayo.

a renewed adherence to the agreement of October and November, 1918, (the armistice,) and hints that practical proposals may be made for negotiations on the draft."

The statement adds:

"That such negotiations are contemplated appears from the fact that the Allies on Saturday asked for several printed copies of the German proposals on the League of Nations and the labor charter. Premier Clemenceau's reply to the German note on the League evades the central point of the question."

Carl Legien and Ministers Landsberg and Giesberts left Versailles for Berlin, according to reports received here, after Herr Legien, who is a labor leader, had a long conference with Count von Brockdorff-Rantzau.

The belief was expressed in political circles that the three men may not return to Versailles and that the delegation there may be reorganized. No political significance, however, is attached to their leaving Versailles.

BROCKDORFF NOTES TO ALLIES.

Pleas for Prisoner Boards and Early Labor Conference.

PARIS, May 11 (Associated Press).—Count von Brockdorff-Rantzau, chief of the German peace delegation, in addressing a note to Premier Clemenceau relative to the repatriation of prisoners, asks that the details of the transfer be intrusted to commissions.

He states that the German peace delegation has "noted with satisfaction" that the draft of the treaty recognizes in principle the repatriation of German war and civilian prisoners with great expedition, and says that special commissions might carry on direct oral discussions which would include all belligerent States, it being pointed out that even during hostilities this has proved to be a most effective way of solving difficulties.

The note says that this work should be much easier, now that the war is over, and would remove differences of conception or lack of clearness on particular points, such as legal conceptions in individual countries. The German delegation, it is said, considers it indispensable that war and civilian prisoners detained or undergoing punishment for other than disciplinary offenses should in principle be included among those to be unconditionally repatriated.

"Regarding war and civilian prisoners of allied and associated powers in its hands," the note says, "Germany has recognized the same principle. It appears self-evident to the German delegation, therefore, that on grounds of fairness certain alleviations in the treatment of prisoners should be agreed upon, pending their return."

The note proceeds:

"In a one-sided manner, some feel, the stipulations have been made in favor of the allied and associated Governments. For instance, those regarding the surrender of personal property, the search for missing objects, and the care of graves might be cited. It is assumed that in these questions a demand for complete reciprocity is founded on general human rights."

The note then refers to a number of minor points and proposes that deliberations by commissions should be begun speedily to clear up preliminaries in readiness for the time when shipping and similar difficulties may be solved and the removal of the prisoners may be possible. It alludes to the importance to Germany that the prisoners shall return home under orderly conditions, insuring their reinstatement into economic life with the greatest possible dispatch, and says that this "seems only possible if everything is done to raise the moral and physical state of those returning."

Since Germany's economic position prevents her by her own strength from providing the requisite guarantees, the delegation suggests that the deliberations of the commissions might extend to the question of how far it would be possible on the part of the allied and associated Governments to help Germany in the matter, and, for example, in return for the repayment of the cost to provide the prisoners with new outfits, underclothing, civilian suits and boots, before their return.

The note concludes:

In his note dealing with labor questions, Count von Brockdorff-Rantzau says that the German Government agrees with the Allied and Associated Governments that the greatest attention must be paid to these problems.

"Internal peace and human progress depend on how these questions are handled," the note says. "The demand for social justice repeatedly drawn up in this connection by workers of all lands only partly finds indorsement in principle in this section of the Allied Governments' draft of the peace terms. These high demands have, for the most part, already been carried out in an admittedly exemplary fashion in the German Empire."

Referring to the draft of an agreement on international labor compiled by the German Government and proposed by the German League of Nations, the note says:

"In order, in the interest of all of humanity, to put these principles everywhere into practice the acceptance of the German delegation's proposal is certainly requisite. We consider it necessary that all States should join in this agreement, even if they do not belong to the League of Nations.

"In order to assure the workers, for whom these proposed improvements are destined, co-operation in shaping these principles, the German delegation considers it necessary to convoke representatives of the national organizations of the labor unions of all the contracting parties to a conference at Versailles, even during peace negotiations, to deliberate and make decisions on international labor law. It considers that it would be advantageous that the proceedings of this conference should be based on decisions reached at the International Trades Union Conference held at Berne from Feb. 5 to 9, 1919.

"We append a copy of these decisions, which have been accepted by the representatives of trades union organizations in Bohemia, Bulgaria, Denmark, Germany, Great Britain, France, Greece, Holland, Italy, Canada, Norway, Austria, Sweden, Switzerland, Spain, and Hungary. We have been charged to do this by the unions of Germany."

SCOFFS AT GERMAN MOVES.

Paris Paper Says Attempt to Change Terms 'Will Be Lost on Us.'

PARIS, May 11.—France is not in a mood to listen to Germany just now, the Journal des Debats says in concluding an article on the manifestations against the Peace Treaty by the German Government and the German press.

"The President of Germany," the editorial says, "protests against the peace terms and declares them impossible of acceptance. This attitude will be lost on us. The Germans, as usual, will yield only to force. During the time allowed them to make up their minds, they will try to persuade us to conclude peace upon such and such a basis. * * *

"It is comical, indeed, to see at a time like this the Germans seriously proposing to us a version of the League of Nations and plans for the reconstruction of Europe. They should put them all back in the cabinets at Wilhelmstrasse."

Thinks Allies Would Thus Be Forced to Soften Terms.

By GEORGE RENWICK.

Copyright, 1919, by The New York Times Company.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

BERLIN, May 11.—One of the chief subjects of conversation in political circles here is the letter appearing in the Berliner Tageblatt from Prince Lichnowsky, who says:

"My opinion is that we cannot in any circumstances accept the peace proposals or allow ourselves to be stampeded by threats. To accept these or similar conditions would not only mean permanent political and economic destruction for Germany and her people but would rob us of the remainder of that respect in which we are held in neutral, friendly, and enemy countries.

"I can, frankly speaking, see no prospect of reaching a basis of acceptable proposals, and I regard the breaking up of the Versailles conference as the only right tactics. Our opponents need peace as much as we do, and I reckon with the certainty that public opinion in the enemy countries will swing round against the politicians who, with their policy of force, rule at the present moment.

"If the negotiations break down, then there will, I think, be a resumption of the conference within no very lengthy period, and on a much more advantageous basis.

"This peace means finis Germaniae if we do not, when we sign it, hold to the thought of an early war of liberation. It is Tilsit and Brest-Litovsk in one and a mockery of that which Wilson has preached as the basis of human co-operation.

"The results which some think would follow the breaking off of negotiations, especially as regards food supplies, would at the worst be slight in comparison with the results of our signing such conditions."

COPENHAGEN, May 12.—The occupation of Leipsic by some thousands of soldiers belonging to the forces of Minister Noske was a complete surprise, says a dispatch from Berlin to the National Tidende. The Spartacides were able to make only a slight resistance. A state of siege was immediately declared, and steps were taken to restore the authority of the Government.

JAFFE SEIZED WITH FORTUNE.

470,000 Marks Found in Trunk of Fleeing Soviet Ex-Minister.

BERLIN, May 11, (Associated Press.)—A guest who was arrested at the Ulm Hotel here today while trying to negotiate 1,000-mark bills bearing the characteristics of the money which was temporarily put out of circulation in Bavaria because of the Soviet régime, was found to be Dr. Jaffe, the Bavarian Soviet Minister of Finance, recently displaced, with the other Red Ministers, by the Hoffmann Government.

FORM CONSORTIUM FOR CHINESE LOANS

American, French, British, and Japanese Bankers Organize at Paris Meeting.

T. W. LAMONT IS CHAIRMAN

Arrangement Takes Place of Pool of Powers from Which Bryan Forced Americans to Retire.

PARIS, May 12.—A new consortium for the financing of Chinese loans was organized today by American, French, British, and Japanese bankers. A reservation was made for later participation by Belgian bankers.

Thomas W. Lamont of the United States, (a member of J. P. Morgan & Co.,) presided at the meeting. Others who attended were Sir Charles S. Addis of Great Britain, M. Simon of France, and Mr. Adagiri of Japan.

The general agreement provides that, at the suggestion of the United States and with the sanction of the French, British, and Japanese Governments, the banking groups will combine their interests to make joint financial, administrative, and industrial loans to the Chinese Government.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, May 12.—The announcement in Paris today of the formation of a new consortium for loaning money to China was confirmed officially here. The old consortium will expire on June 18. Four American banks were originally included in it, but they withdrew because of theadverse policy of the State Department under William J. Bryan. Germany was excluded from the existing consortium by the war. Russia's collapse took that country out, and the strain of the war caused Belgium to retire. Japan was never a member of it.

In the new consortium, thirty-seven American banks will participate, following President Wilson's idea of a more democratic arrangement, whereby a larger number of each country's financial institutions may be represented than was the case with the expiring consortium.

American participation in the consortium results from a new policy adopted by the United States Government with respect to Chinese loans, which in effect is that, if the terms of the loan are just and the conditions fair, the Government of the United States will assure the American banks participating, after the matter shall have been submitted to the State Department, that the United States will protect the interests secured in good faith.

There is no definite loan contemplated at the present time, but J. J. Abbott, a prominent Chicago banker, representing the American group, is now in China investigating the needs of China and will report. The loan will be made by the consortium, with State Department approval, to the Government of China, or for industrial or political purposes, provided the Chinese Government approves, indorses, or guarantees the purposes for which the loan is sought. The money thus loaned cannot be employed to start a revolution, but the Chinese Government itself might use it to change its form, or it can be used for building railroads, canals, and other public utilities, for educational development, and like improvements.

TREATY PROBLEM IN CHAMBER

Deputies Will Discuss Today How to Consider the Document.

PARIS, May 12.—The Chamber of Deputies will discuss tomorrow several propositions as to how to proceed with consideration of the peace treaty. One proposal is that the Chairmen of the twelve great commissions of the Chamber have the duty of examining the treaty. Deputy Damour will move that a special commission be appointed.

It is probable that there will be no discussion of the terms of the treaty in the Chamber until the treaty itself is communicated by the Government.

SAYS AUSTRIA CAN'T STAND.

Foreign Minister Insists She Must Join Germany.

COPENHAGEN, May 12.—Dr. Otto Bauer, the Foreign Minister of German Austria, in a speech to workingmen, protested against the peace terms handed to the Germans at Versailles. An account of his speech is printed by the Vossische Zeitung of Berlin, a copy of which has been received here.

Dr. Bauer objected to the plan for making German Austria a neutralized State, and concluded:

"This small German Austria cannot exist alone. Unless we join with big Germany we shall not even be German Austria."

VISCOUNT GREY PLEASED WITH LEAGUE COVENANT

Considers Annual Meeting of Nine Premiers the Key to the Whole Situation.

LONDON, May 11.—Viscount Grey of Falloden, former Secretary of State for Foreign Affairs, says in an interview that he is delighted with the amended covenant of the League of Nations, having feared "that much less might be accomplished at the conference."

Viscount Grey considers the key to the whole organization is the annual meeting of the nine Premiers or Foreign Secretaries represented in the Council.

"So long as that meeting is regularly held and wisely inspired," he says, "so long may we confidently hope the peace of the world will be secure."

He believes that armaments will diminish as the League becomes strong and vital and produces a sense of security, and that eventually "those who now fear it does not go far enough and those thinking that it goes too far will both be satisfied." Earl Grey has the greatest confidence in Sir Eric Drummond, the first Secretary General of the League, and is especially pleased to know that Sir Eric's election was originally suggested by the American delegates.

PLAN TO INDORSE LEAGUE.

Fifteen State Conventions Arranged by League to Enforce Peace.

Dates and places for fifteen State conventions to express popular ratification of the League of Nations covenant were announced yesterday at the National Headquarters of the League to Enforce Peace as follows:

Burlington, Vt., May 21; Manchester, N. H., May 22; Portland, Me., May 23; New Haven, Conn., May 24; Charleston, W. Va., May 26; Columbus, Ohio, May 27; Indianapolis, Ind., May 28; Springfield, Ill., May 29; Kansas City, Mo., May 30; Omaha, Neb., May 31; Des Moines, Ia., June 2; Grand Rapids, Mich., June 3; Pittsburgh, Penn., June 4; Trenton, N. J., June 6, (tentative;) Albany, N. Y., June 7, (tentative.)

The league has received word from its State branches that preparations for these conventions are under way, and that special efforts will be made to demonstrate the strength of the sentiment in favor of ratifying the League of Nations covenant without further amendment. William H. Taft will speak at all fifteen conventions. Other speakers who thus far have accepted invitations to speak at some or all of the meetings are President Lowell of Harvard University, Dr. Anna Howard Shaw, Rabbi Stephen S. Wise of the Free Synagogue, and Captain Thomas G. Chamberlain, First Battalion Anti-Aircraft Artillery, A. E. F.

ALLIED ARMIES TO PARADE.

Triumphal March in Paris to Take Place on June 6.

PARIS, May 12.—A triumphal march of the allied armies through Paris will take place on June 6, according to the present understanding.

The event will take place on that date, it is believed, even should the peace treaty not have been signed at that time.

LONDON, May 12, (Associated Press.)—Huge pyrotechnic displays are to be the chief feature of England's celebration of peace. In addition to chains of bonfires on hills and heights, civic authorities throughout the country are arranging brilliant spectacles of fireworks, and the demand for fireworks for private suburban displays is already greater than the manufacturers can supply.

The police of the country, especially the London department, are strongly encouraging the fireworks plan as against an aimless wandering about the streets of masses of people in holiday mood, as during the armistice celebration week. The problem of crowds is a serious one in London. To prevent congestion of the streets, it is purposed to have five or six pyrotechnic exhibitions in parks in various parts of the city, making all the displays of similar interest so that people will remain in their own districts.

The fireworks are expected to be far superior to anything previously shown in this country, the experience of the war having led to some remarkable and beautiful developments.

One new kind gives out a light of a peculiar penetrating quality. It is so brilliant that when a demonstration was given recently before a Government committee a fire brigade a mile away thought there was a conflagration and rushed to the scene.

DRIVE AFGHANS BACK.

British Airplanes Cross Indian Frontier and Bomb Positions.

LONDON, May 12.—The news from Afghanistan, where Afghan tribesmen have been attacking British positions on the Indian frontier, was scanty, but satisfactory, over the week end.

The British drove the Afghans from Ashrasiakhel on Friday, while airplanes crossed the frontier and bombed the enemy positions at Loidatta with good results. The Afghans maintain their positions west of Loidatta.

Previous dispatches on the situation on the Afghanistan-Indian border have placed the centre of the fighting around the important Khyber Pass, west of Peshawar.

NOT DOLLAR CHASERS PRESIDENT SAYS

SENT ARMY OVER FOR THAT

Regrets So Many American University Teachers Lean to German Conception of the State.

PARIS, May 10.—President Wilson in his address today to the French Academy of Moral and Political Sciences entered a strong disclaimer of the idea that the American people were largely materialists, or dollar worshippers.

"I have had in recent months one very deep sense of privilege," the President said. "I have been keenly aware that there have been times when the peoples of Europe haven't understood the people of the United States. We have been too often supposed to have been devoted chiefly, if not entirely, to material enterprises. We have been supposed, in the common phrase, to worship the Almighty Dollar.

"We have accumulated wealth, Sir; we have devoted ourselves to material enterprises with extraordinary success; but there has underlain all of that, all the time, a common sense of humanity and a common sympathy with the high principles of justice, which has never grown dim in the field even of enterprise; and it has been my very great joy in these recent months to interpret the people of the United States to the people of the world.

"I have not done more, Sir. I have not uttered in my public capacity my own private thoughts. I have uttered what I have known to be the thoughts of the great people whom I represent. I have uttered the things that have been stored up in their hearts and purpose from the time of our birth as a nation."

It was at this point that the President made his declaration that the American people, who came into the world consecrated to liberty, were ready to cast in their lot in common with the lot of those whose liberty was threatened whenever the cause of liberty was seen to be imperiled.

"This is the spirit of the people of the United States," he continued, "and they have been privileged to send 2,000,000 men over here to tell you so. It has been their great privilege not merely to tell you so in words, but to tell you so in men and material—the pouring out of their wealth and the offering of their blood."

President Wilson alluded to his studies in the field of political science and to the attempts he had made "to put into the words of learning the thought of a nation, the attitude of a people towards public affairs."

"A great many of my colleagues in American university life," he continued, "got their training, even in political science, as many men in civil circles did, in German universities. I have been obliged at various times to read a great deal of bad German, difficult German, awkward German, and I have been aware that the thought was as awkward as the phrase, that the thought was rooted in a fundamental misconception of the State and of the political life of peoples. And it has been a portion of my effort to disengage the thought of American university teachers from the misguided instruction which they had received on this side of the sea. Their American spirit anticipated most of them, as a matter of course, but the form of the thought sometimes misled them. They speak too often of the State as a thing which would ignore the individual, as a thing which was privileged to dominate the fortune of men by a sort of inherent and sacred authority.

"Now, as an utter democrat, I have never been able to accept that view of the State. My view of the State is that it must stop and listen to what I have to say, no matter how humble I am, and that each man has the right to have his voice heard and his counsel heeded, in so far as it is worthy of him.

"I have always been among those who believe that the greatest freedom of speech was the greatest safety, because if a man is a fool the best thing to do is to encourage him to advertise the fact by speaking. It cannot be so easily discovered if you allow him to remain silent and look wise, but if you let him speak, the secret is out and the world knows that he is a fool.

"So it is by the exposure of folly that it is defeated; not by the seclusion of folly, and in this free air of free speech men get into that sort of communication with one another which constitutes the basis of all common achievement. France, through many vicissitudes and through many bitter experiences, found the way to this sort of freedom, and now she stands at the front of the world as the representative of constitutional liberty."

BRUSSELS PUTS HOPE IN VISIT OF PRESIDENT

He Is Expected to Dissipate Misunderstandings and Show Good Will of Allies.

BRUSSELS, May 12. (Associated Press.)—President Wilson will visit Brussels about May 20, according to the Indépendance Belge, which adds that his visit will "dissipate misunderstandings and establish the good-will of the Allies toward Belgium."

Several projects, it is stated, are under consideration, including the choice of Antwerp as the European commercial base of the United States.

Dr. Epitacio Pessoa, President-elect of Brazil, said before leaving yesterday that he would renew his promise to help Belgium by sending raw materials and and organizing a commercial base at Antwerp.

A demonstration, organized by several patriotic societies, has sent addresses to King Albert expressive of the Belgian people's disappointment to find the country had been "gagged and mutilated" and is obtaining neither the guarantees nor the reparation promised by the Allies. The addresses complain that indemnities provided are inadequate, and ask the King to "save Belgium from the ruin which threatens her."

STRASBOURG WANTS KEHL.

Ruined as Port Without Town Across Rhine, Merchants Say.

STRASBOURG, May 12.—Industrial, commercial and political leaders in Strasbourg and Alsace are impressed most favorably with the peace terms in so far as they concern the return of Alsace and Lorraine to France.

A number of the commercial leaders of Strasbourg are inclined to disagree with the economic clauses, particularly with regard to the town of Kehl, across the Rhine from Strasbourg. They hold that Strasbourg will be ruined as a port unless Kehl is joined to Strasbourg for fifteen years and the French have the right to establish a toll bridge across the river.

Take Possession of German Ships.

MADRID, May 12.—With a view to preventing possible acts of sabotage, the maritime authorities have taken charge of the German ships interned in Spanish ports. Six ships already have French crews and are flying the interallied flag.

SEEKING TO GIVE FORM TO 'ALLIANCE'

By RICHARD V. OULAHAN.

It will not be signed by any representative of the French Government; but there is confusion on this point, which inquiry fails to clear. The most that may be stated at this time is that the President's letter to Clemenceau apparently is to be supplemented by a formal paper which the Senate is to be asked to ratify.

It cannot be said that the undertaking brings a popular response in American quarters. Some of those who doubt the wisdom of the President's course point out, however, that the giving of the undertaking produced a marked change in an embarrassing situation. The French representatives in the Peace Conference persistently objected that the provisions of the covenant of the League did not furnish guarantees of protection satisfactory to France. The French insisted upon additional guarantees of armed aid, and made it plain that they wanted these from the United States and Great Britain—the two Governments best qualified to furnish them.

The practical deadlock in the interallied peace negotiations produced by the French attitude was connected with many other obstacles due to additional French demands. The question of reparations was one—France insisting that Germany be required to pay the full war debt of the Allies, which President Wilson contended would mean virtual serfdom for the German people for many decades. The assertion is now made that through the action of President Wilson for the United States and Premier Lloyd George for Great Britain, in furnishing an undertaking to seek authority for the employment of American and British armed forces for the protection of France, the French consent to compromise certain demands was obtained, and interallied harmony on the peace treaty was assured. Certain it is that the Peace Conference was in danger of failure through the attitude of France until Wilson and Lloyd George gave the assurances which guaranteed—as far as they were able to do—that the armed strength of American and Great Britain would be at the disposal of France should Germany make an unprovoked attack upon her.

French Really Fear Attack.

There is no doubt that real fear exists in the minds of French men that Germany will bide her time in the hope of finding an opportunity to revenge herself on France. From the very first, the French statesmen regarded the League's provision to furnish protection to a member nation against the aggression of another nation or other nations as inadequate. They demanded the formation of an international army or an interallied General Staff to insure the adequate armed force that would come to their aid if Germany undertook to go to war again. The undertakings furnished by the President of the United States and the Prime Minister of Great Britain apparently calmed their apprehension. They regard the League of Nations as an organization having much to commend it, but they prefer the assurances of American and British armed help to the possibility afforded by the League covenant that the whole world will come to their relief if Germany seeks vengeance.

President Wilson was careful, however—and this applies also to Lloyd George—to have the undertaking given to France so worded that the Council of the League of Nations would determine whether France was entitled to assistance against Germany before the United States was obliged to furnish armed help. In this way an effort was made to reconcile the apparent inconsistency of the undertaking with the underlying principle of the League. It is not doubted here, however, that the President will be criticised on the ground that he showed doubt as to the adequacy of the covenant's provisions for maintaining peace by consenting to an arrangement which commits two great powers only, and not all the members of the League, to rush to the assistance of a particular member in the event of an attack upon the latter by another particular member—each particular member being named in the side agreement.

The answer to this will probably be that not only does the Monroe Doctrine amendment to the covenant permit such side agreements, but no use of American armed forces is guaranteed, unless the Council of the League—its governing body—deems their employment necessary, until the whole armed support of the League principles can be brought into action.

BRITAIN TO SETTLE OUR WAR ACCOUNT

Will Pay $35,500,000 as Net and Final Adjustment, Secretary Baker Says.

CLAIM MATCHED BY CLAIM

Eleven Per Cent. of Cost of Producing Liberty Motors Borne by British Government.

WASHINGTON, May 12.—A "complete and comprehensive settlement" of all claims between the United States and Great Britain growing out of the military operations has been reached by the American Liquidation Commission. Secretary Baker announced today that under the settlement the British Government would pay the United States $35,500,000 as a net and final adjustment.

The claims made by the United States consisted largely of the British Government's share in the expenses of procuring spruce for aviation material, the production of Liberty engines, the proportion of American wool turned over to British manufacturers for uniforms and shipments of cotton linters, powder and distillates. It was estimated that the British should pay 11 per cent. of the total cost of producing the Liberty engines, this item alone amounting to $16,500,000.

The adjustment of the British claims is the first to be reached by the American Liquidation Commission, of which Judge Edwin B. Parker of Houston, Texas, former member of the War Industries Board, is Chairman. Other members of the board are former Senator Hollis of New Hampshire, Homer H. Johnson of Cleveland, and Brig. Gen. Charles G. Dawes of Chicago. Secretary Baker's recent trip to France was chiefly in connection with the work of the commission, which is expected to take up the Italian claims next and later the French claims.

In announcing the reaching of an agreement with the British, Secretary Baker said the method employed by the commission was so far as possible to match one claim held by a European Government against the United States with an equal claim held by this Government against the European power.

The chief debts owned by this country to Great Britain, it was explained, included cost of transporting troops and supplies, the cost of munitions and materials, including hundreds of thousands of uniforms purchased for the use of the American Expeditionary Forces, and the expenses of American troops trained in England. These expenses subtracted from the debts owned by Great Britain to the United States for spruce, Liberty motors, wool, and other materials resulted in the net debt of Great Britain to the American Government of $35,500,000.

of the shooting of the hostages. When the prisoners were assembled the schoolhouse bell began another wild clanging and over 100 Bolshevist soldiers came flocking into the courtyard, as several of them shouted, "to see the show." Other soldiers and Reds in civilian clothes went to the windows and watched from the housetops.

The victims were called out by name, one by one, and were roughly hustled over to the end of the playground and stood between two trees, faces to the wall.

Soldiers Danced in Courtyard.

The hostages stood huddled near the commandant's table while he and Hausmann wrangled over the details of the execution. Meanwhile the soldiers who were the spectators were eating and smoking, and half a dozen were dancing to the music of a mouth organ played by one of their number.

The first name called was that of Anton Daumenlang, the Police Secretary. Hausmann stepped up and told the hostages to turn over everything in their pockets to the soldiers guarding them. Then Daumenlang was marched over to a spot between the two trees and stood facing the wall. He protested that he never had done anything against the Communists, and begged, for the sake of his wife and children, that his life be spared.

The firing squad marched up to within eighteen feet of the victim. Hausmann gave the order to aim. Daumenlang began praying. When Hausmann gave the command "Fire" the rifles gave two or three ragged volleys and Daumenlang fell.

The second man killed is believed to have been Walter Deike, a German-American, but the identity of this man was not positively ascertained, because the name was not called out. When he fell, after the first volley, the civilian with the pistol, still smoking a cigarette, went up and put the pistol to the victim's head and blew out his brains. He fired repeatedly into the man's face, disfiguring him so that his identity remains a mystery.

Lieut. Col. Van Tuckert walked like a soldier when his name was called. He refused to turn his face to the wall, saying defiantly in a voice heard over the jeering Communist soldiers:

"I prefer to look death in the eye."

Now came the young Prince of Thurn and Taxis. He turned to Commandant Seidel and protested that he was not the man whom the Communists were after. A soldier in the firing squad spoke up and said:

"If that is the wrong man we don't want to shoot him."

Commandant Seidel said the Prince could stand aside for a moment.

The next name called was that of Professor Berger, artist, and professor in the Munich Academy of Fine Arts. As the old man with the long beard and gray hair walked slowly to the place of execution, those hostages who were looking on hoped the Bolsheviki would take pity on him, but the only attention that he received was in the form of shouts of "Hurry up, grandpa!" from the firing squad.

Baron Seidlitz, the landscape painter, was next called. He also refused to face the firing squad and was shot. He was trembling and crying as he stepped out and begged for the mercy of grinning Willie Hausmann.

"I've never harmed any one," he sobbed, "and why do you kill women?"

Countess Wrote Last Note.

Countess Westarp begged to be permitted to send a last letter to her mother and Hausemann let her do so. As she reached the firing squad the Countess wrote the letter on a scrap of paper, holding it against the back of one soldier.

As the Countess reached the fatal spot between the two trees, she sank on her knees and buried her face in her hands. The command to fire was given, and the merciless volley again echoed from the school house yard as the countess sank to the ground bleeding from a dozen wounds.

Hausmann went up to Commandant Seidel and said that all the prisoners told off to die had been executed. He asked what was to be done regarding the Prince of Thurn and Taxis, who was still standing at one side.

The Prince again said the Reds had mistaken him for either his father or uncle, but Seidel said roughly:

"We want no bickering here. Let this man be shot."

The young Prince then begged that no one else be shot after him and that his death be the last execution of hostages. He was ordered to take his place against the wall, but insisted on facing the firing squad. And so he died.

BERNE, May 11.—Press comment and other news concerning the peace treaty as sent here by the German semi-official news agency, suggests that a campaign has been started to incite German public opinion against acceptance of the treaty or, perhaps, which is more likely, to give Count von Brockdorff-Rantzau manufactured popular support in demands he may make for alleviation of the peace terms.

The closing of the stock exchanges in Berlin, Frankfort, and elsewhere and the Government's appeal for a "week of mourning" are taken here to indicate that there is a well co-ordinated movement to influence the German people.

Private telegrams say that all the German newspapers in discussing the financial and economic clauses to be imposed advise against acceptance. In various political circles it is apparent from the telegrams that German leaders were pleased with the speech of Count von Brockdorff-Rantzau last Wednesday, particularly with the passages relating to Russian mobilization, the delay in preparing the peace treaty and the prolongation of the blockade.

The Vossische Zeitung of Berlin expresses the belief that as a result of the handing over of German counter-propositions the treaty may be altered.

SEE NO ALTERNATIVE TO SIGNING TREATY

Coblenz Germans Resigned but Sullen, Our Army Intelligence Now Reports.

COBLENZ, May 10, (Associated Press.)—The impression gained by American officers through talking with Germans regarding the peace terms is that many of them are bitter and sullen, but are inclined to resign themselves to accept any terms, no matter how harsh these may be. No concrete plan of action has been suggested in the event that the German delegates at Versailles refuse to sign the treaty.

American officers say the common people in the occupied area have widely divergent views, but that, as a whole, they appear more or less stunned, many of them utterly crushed, while a few others are showing a spirit of bravado.

Several German officials are quoted as having said that the terms are more severe than they had expected, but although it would be necessary for the German delegates to argue against some of the conditions imposed, they felt there was little else to do but sign.

One American who had circulated freely among the civilians reported that none of them expected that Germany would accept the terms. They said they could not see how the people would be able to pay the indemnities demanded if their commerce was restricted to certain limits and all their colonies confiscated, and, in addition, Germany had to cede territory belonging to the main part of Germany proper.

They asserted, furthermore, that the internal resources of Germany alone were insufficient to permit of the payment of indemnities continuing for generations to come. Many of the people asked the question what would be done in the event that Germany should decline to accept the peace terms.

An army intelligence summary outlines in substance reports received from various German civilian groups and individuals as follows:

"Under existing conditions it is impossible for Germany ever to pay its war debts. Before the war Germany had only 10,000,000,000 marks in gold, and the demand for pounds sterling in gold or merchandise in the first two years is absurd. How are we to pay in gold, where there are no goods, if we have neither money nor credit with which to purchase materials or ships, if ours are taken by the Allies?"

Several civilians, according to the summary, expressed the opinion that the peace conditions were very hard, but still were not as severe as some had expected, and that they would rather that Germany accept them than invite the consequences of refusal.

PREDICTS COLLAPSE IN GERMAN MORALE

1,000,000 DIE OF HUNGER

Scientist, Who Is Now a Deputy, Sees His Nation 50 Per Cent. Below Normal Working Capacity.

BERLIN, May 1, (Correspondence of The Associated Press.)—"The Entente Powers unquestionably committed an irreparable mistake when they set out to subject the German people to a systematic process of soul-crushing," said Professor Emil Abderhalden, the noted physiologist of Halle University and a Democratic member of the Prussian Diet, in a statement to The Associated Press.

Professor Abderhalden, whose laboratory has been a popular workshop for visiting American medical men in peace times, is one of the newer forces of post-revolutionary politics and one of the first leaders of the German academic and scientific world to enter the arena of practical politics.

He said that if peace, including the raising of the blockade, had immediately followed the armistice, it would have stimulated Germany's energies.

"For a long time after the depressing days of the military collapse," he declared, "that iron will of determination prevailed to mobilize all the economic potentialities for the purpose of getting the nation back on its feet. Nothing, one would imagine, could have been more welcome to the Entente Powers than an orderly, co-ordinated Germany. Now it is convulsed to its very foundations. The inclination to work is lacking in the widest circles.

"No one dares think of the morrow. A new revolution is creeping through the country. Ample food shipments will be necessary to stave off the worst. What is arriving now is just about sufficient to maintain the present condition of hunger and to postpone starvation and catastrophe. Only an amply nourished people is capable of returning to a regular working schedule.

"For five months, one staggering psychic insult from abroad has followed another. Night after night this great people goes to sleep without any hope for the future and wakes up bereft of all hope. It sees only destruction ahead. Why work? Why plan?

"Today your poor German is told that the left bank of the Rhine is to go to France; tomorrow he is informed that Danzig is to become Polish, and Posen and Upper Silesia are lost forever. Now he is made to believe that the war indemnity is to be 500,000,000,000 marks; the next moment it is fixed at 1,000,000,000,000 marks. Today he reads that Germany is to be occupied by the Entente forces for fifty years, and the next day it is proclaimed that the German war prisoners are to remain as Entente slaves."

Professor Abderhalden believes that the existing chaos, with its accompanying phenomena of social excesses such as dancing and gambling, which, he says, recall the hunger catastrophe that followed the epidemics of the Middle Ages, is the worst conceivable soil for the propagation of a pure democracy which primarily demands consciousness of duty and an exalted spirit of sacrifice on the part of the individual for the common good.

"Now," he continued, "naked egotism is triumphant. But this also is a deadly germ. Unless peace and justice are soon negotiated and a swift end put to this process of soul torture, the world will behold a totally impoverished nation and a physically debased people."

Herr Abderhalden, who has been making a scientific investigation of the state of public health, declared that a study of the physical and mental condition of the German people easily explains the prevailing political, moral, and economic debacle.

He continued:

"The hunger blockade inflicted mortal wounds. Up to the present, approximately 1,000,000 persons, chiefly children, are dead as a result. The survivors on the average have lost 20 per cent. of their weight, which is equivalent to a loss of 50 per cent. of their working capacity, because of the continuance of the blockade after the armistice, and the national system of rationing.

"The mortality due to tuberculosis shows a horrifying increase. The importation of fodder should be considered at once, as the stock of cattle and hogs has shrunk to the minimum and their slaughtering weight is half that of peace times. The cattle raising industry is imperiled seriously and the whole food problem for the future is gravely complicated as the result."

KOREA ASKS BIG FOUR FOR FULL SOVEREIGNTY

PARIS, May 12.—A petition from the Korean people asking for liberation from Japan was submitted to the Peace Conference today by representatives of Korea. The petition also asks for recognition of Korea as an independent State and for the nullification of the treaty of August, 1910.

WASHINGTON, May 12.—Recognition by the Peace Conference of Korea's claim of independence was urged by Dr. Syngham Rhee, Secretary of State of the Provisional Korean Government, in a message sent to President Wilson and Premier Clemenceau, asking that the Council of Four grant an audience to the Provisional Government's representative in Paris.

"It is the unanimous and passionate desire of the Korean people to have a free and absolutely independent Government of their own choice, as it is their belief that without such a Government they cannot develop into a free Christian democracy," the message said.

"The Korean people have solemnly sworn to resist all existing authorities in Korea other than those of their own Provisional Government. The only way the Korean people can be compelled to submit to the illegal, immoral, and self-appointed authorities is by using brutal force. I regret to state to you that brutal force is now promiscuously used to suppress the independence movement of the Korean people.

"It is the hope of the Provisional Government that your honorable body will use its good offices to persuade this offending member to desist from practicing such inhuman tactics for the purpose of retaining her ill-got territory. It is a reflection on your League of Nations, and it is certainly a blot on modern civilization."

A treaty signed on Aug. 23, 1910, by Japan and Korea formally annexed the Korean territory to the Empire of Japan. The Korean Imperial Government was overthrown in 1905. The treaty of 1910 deprived the Korean Emperor of all political power, changed the name of the country to Chosön, and established the office of the Japanese Governor General. From the date of the treaty Korea became an integral part of the Japanese Empire.

AUSTRALIA LOOKS FOR INDEMNITY

W. A. Watt, Acting Premier, Says It Should Cover Country's Full War Debt.

PEACE TREATY GENEROUS

League of Nations a Gigantic Experiment and He Is Skeptical as to Its Success.

MELBOURNE, Australia, May 10.—Acting Prime Minister of Australia, W. A. Watt, commenting upon the peace treaty, declared that one of the most interesting phases of the treaty, as affecting his country, was the control of the former German possessions in the Western Pacific. The other questions of most interest to Australians, he said, were those of disarmament, the League of Nations, and the indemnity to be exacted. The League of Nations he characterized as the most gigantic experiment ever attempted by humanity.

"The treaty, as published," said Mr. Watt, "is a colossal document, and, although not yet complete in its provisions relating to the minor enemy nations, is of supreme importance to all the peoples of the world. Its scope and magnitude is, I think, a convincing answer to those critics who complained about the delay in its preparations. In view of the conflicting national interests which had to be studied and reconciled, it is truly remarkable that the statesmen of the great nations have been able to advance so far in comparatively so brief a period.

"The impression conveyed by a first perusal of the treaty is that it is drastic, but when one's memory goes back over the events of the last four years and three-quarters the view that the victorious nations have, after all, been generous to the beaten and barbaric foe gathers strength. I do not feel qualified to discuss the territorial or governmental changes, which relate more particularly to Europe. The four things that interest me most are the questions of disarmament, the League of Nations, the indemnity, and the control of the former German possessions in the western Pacific.

"As to disarmament, the provisions appear to be framed with every prospect of successful administration, provided the League of Nations becomes the universal reality which we all wish it to be. As to the League of Nations project itself, I must confess that my wishes are somewhat stronger than my hopes. The huge burdens which the peace treaty places upon the shoulders of the new organization will involve a terrific preliminary strain. Whether it will be able to withstand that strain during the first few years of its trial remains to be seen. This, of course is not a time for dogmatism on the part of anybody.

"The terms of the treaty as promulgated," he said, "leave the Government in doubt as to how Australia is likely to fare in the financial cleanup. The Prime Minister, Mr. Hughes, as Chairman of the British Indemnity Commission, has carried enormous responsibilities, and has put up a fight on behalf of the Dominion and British interests generally which, I fear, is not yet fully appreciated by Australians. No one in Australia can see what the eventual levy upon enemy nations is likely to total, and the Government is not able to judge what proportion of the immediate or deferred payments to be wrung from Germany by the Allies will be allocated to Australia, but if the bill for the war loss is not to include the full cost of the war—that is to say, if it does not include the war debt resting on us at the finish of the conflict—then Australia will be grievously disappointed with the indemnity settlement.

Mr. Watt said that as to the former German islands south of the Equator, it was his information that Australia was to get control of the bulk if not all of them under what appeared to the Government to be satisfactory mandatory conditions.

$20,000,000 LOAN FOR TRANS-SIBERIAN

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, May 12.—The American and allied Governments have decided to loan to the Interallied Commission administering the Trans-Siberian Railroad $20,000,000 for operating the line. It has not been determined what proportion of the loan each of the Governments will assume, but it is believed that the United States, Japan, and Great Britain each will furnish $5,000,000, and that France and Italy each will be invited to supply $2,500,000. The absence of guarantee excluded participation by private bankers.

By making the loan direct to the Interallied Commission, it is pointed out, the Governments evade the question of recognition of the Omsk Government in advance of the loan. It was deemed inadvisable in the absence of recognition to make the loan to the Omsk Government, and the arrangement agreed upon does not raise the question of recognition in any sense, although recognition is understood to be certain to come soon.

It was stated authoritatively today that the loan will not be made as an investment, but to assure the continued operation of the Trans-Siberian line. It is thought that the Omsk Government will be requested to refund the money after it is recognized by the Allies and America as the provisional national Russian Government.

TWO RUSSIAN COLUMNS MOVING ON PETROGRAD

British Admiral Entertained at Helsingfors by Premier Mannerheim of Finland.

LONDON, May 12.—Further reports having to do with the reputed intention of anti-Bolshevist forces to make an attack on Petrograd have been received from Helsingfors, Finland.

The Socialist newspaper published in Helsingfors says that General Rodzianko, with 3,000 Russians, will march against Petrograd from the south shore of the Gulf of Finland, while General Judenitch, with 3,000 men, will attack from the Olonetz district, on the north.

A Helsinfors dispatch to the Stockholm Svenska Dagblad, relayed here, says that twenty British warships are expected at Helsingfors, "probably to watch the Bolshevist fleet," while a Reuter dispatch from Helsingfors, dated Saturday, announces that British Admiral Cowan, on board his flagship Curacao, has arrived there and has been entertained by General Mannerheim, the Finnish Premier and Regent.

A Helsingfors dispatch to a Stockholm newspaper, relceved on Sunday, reported that Entente forces were preparing for an attack upon Petrograd with Helsingfors as a base. It was stated that 50,000 troops were expected to take part in the operation, and that French cruisers were lying in the Gulf of Finland off Helsingfors.

MAY LEAVE RUSSIA SOON.

American Troops Prepare to Return Home Early in June.

ARCHANGEL, May 10, (Associated Press.)—Tentative arrangements are being made to begin the withdrawal of American troops from North Russia early in June.

These plans have been taken up because of the public announcement of the plans of the United States Government by Secretary Baker, but no definite orders have been received by the American commander.

American troops have not been engaged on a large scale in the past month's fighting.

LONDON, May 12.—The first contingent of the volunteer army raised to relieve the men who are fighting in North Russia left Newcastle today for Archangel. Fifteen hundred men, including a machine gun company, were in the party. Two other contingents will leave during the week.

CRACOW, May 11, (Associated Press.)—Premier Paderewski of Poland, accompanied by Mme. Paderewska, received a rousing welcome from the populace of Cracow as they passed through here on their special train, bound from Paris to Warsaw.

The demonstration was in tribute to the work for Poland which the Premier had done at the Paris Peace Conference, which is considered here to have been an excellent accomplishment.

ORLANDO FACES OVERTHROW

By WALTER DURANTY.

out the controversy he had refused any compromise that would mean the hoisting of the Italian flag over Fiume. It would seem, therefore, as if the President had been misinformed by those around him and led to share the belief above referred to, that the Italian agitation was spurious.

I learn also that the President has resented the tone of dispatches about his attitude sent from here by Italian correspondents. At any rate, after having had complete freedom of speech hitherto, the Italian newspaper men were informed this morning that hostile criticisms of the President would be stopped by the Italian censor here.

The Italians themselves cannot believe that unless he had been misinformed President Wilson would allow events to take a course so hazardous for the peace of the world, toward which, according to the Italian view, they are inevitably tending.

They were much cheered by the announcement in the Paris newspapers yesterday that Ambassadors Page and Barrère were on their way to Paris from Rome.

"Now," they said, "the President and the allied chiefs will learn beyond doubt from the mouths of their own representatives how delicate is the situation in Italy, and how a single spark may ignite the powder magazine."

This morning, they say, they heard to their honor that M. Barrère had been met at Modane, the French frontier station, with instructions to abandon his journey and return to Rome; so that their sole hope of averting what they know to be grave complications lies in the possibility that Ambassador Page will be able to convince the President that conditions in Italy are such as to warrant his acceptance of a compromise over Fiume.

Col. House for a Compromise?

May 9—The Italian question seems well-nigh desperate. The best efforts of the parties concerned have been unable to find a mutually acceptable solution, and unless there comes an unexpected change at the eleventh hour there can result nothing but a rupture—this time final and definite—if not between Italy and her allies, France and Great Britain, at least between Italy and America.

The Italians say that there is now nothing save the inflexible will of President Wilson to prevent the compromise they would be able and willing to accept. Colonel House, they declare, is ready to agree to a bargain by which they should give up the Dalmatian hinterland in exchange for nominal suzerainty over Fiume under the League of Nations. But this, according to them, the President refuses. They think that the question has become a personal one with him, and that he will let anything happen rather than yield an iota from his position.

Italians here declare that they are unable to make the President see that it is wholly beyond their power to bind Italy to a bargain that would involve the alienation of Fiume.

"Your President will not understand," said an Italian diplomat who won distinction as an officer at the front, "that neither Orlando nor any other power in Italy could give an order to evacuate Fiume that would be obeyed. If the President persists in his attitude, as all signs indicate, we have only one course of action left—and only then if events at home do not take matters out of our hands—which is formally to invite France and Great Britain to carry out their word pledged in the Treaty of London. If they refuse, if they make that treaty a 'scrap of paper,' we shall know where we stand in Europe and will seek support wherever we can find it.

"But if, as we can but believe, our allies stand by their word, we shall hold them to it as regards Dalmatia. We know well that this may involve future trouble, and that there are yet other clauses in the treaty which it would be better not to insist upon. That is why many of us were willing to abandon our claims for what the treaty gave us, in exchange for sovereignty over the Italian town of Fiume. But we have no choice. Our people are just as set on having their way as President Wilson is on his.

"If Orlando tried to ignore the popular voice, there are others who would take his place. Already they are eager to do so. Their aims are contrary to the interests of the Allies, and contrary to what I belive to be the interest of world peace, but for that they do not care. The opportunity they have awaited is almost within their grasp, and they are prepared to seize it."

Giolitti Awaits his Chance.

Point is lent to this last sentence by an editorial in Giolitti's principal organ, the Turn Stampa.

"In a frenzy of anxiety and impatience," says the writer, "our people look towards Paris and Rome to see if from either capital comes a ray of light to pierce the darkness in which we are now enveloped. But all light is shrouded, all information forbidden."

The writer goes on to score the errors of Orlando in having—and this is the delicate point—returned to Paris without satisfaction after having let it be understood that he would not and could not do so. He concludes with a significant reminder that if Orlando weakens and accepts unfavorable terms, he will be doing something that the Italian people will never forget, never forgive.

The whole article is typical of Giolitti's policy during the past few weeks, of encouraging the Italian demands while subtly hinting that Orlando is powerless to gratify them, with the obvious implication that there are others in Italy who have both the courage and ability to do so.

As for Orlando himself, he broke his silence this morning, but it was not to say the one word that Italy was panting to hear. The Premier confined himself to giving to the leading Italian newspapermen an answer to the question which Italy had been asking since Tuesday: "Why did you go back to Paris if your return did not insure us satisfaction?"

The facts are as follows: Italy's absence from the conference at the moment of the presentation of the treaty to the Germans had no exact and undisputed legal standing. True, Italy asserted that she had withdrawn because she was not getting fair treatment, that she was justified in doing so, and that the Allies had agreed not to sign a peace without her. But, on the other hand, the Allies averred that Italy had thus put herself in the wrong, that it was not they who were signing a separate peace, but Italy who declined to sign a common peace.

Though the Italian Government believed itself in the right, it was forced to recognize that the point could be argued both ways, and therefore that its legal standing was not absolutely unassailable. At the time I was informed by Italians that their sole representative here, Signor Crespi, learned more or less accidentally that changes were being made without Italy's knowledge in certain clauses of the treaty to which Italy had already agreed—notably in respect to Italy's share of the indemnity, which had been fixed at 20,000,000,000 francs and had been, it was alleged, suddenly changed to only 2,000,000,000. In consequence, and in view of the assurances said to have been given by France and Great Britain, that they would stand by the Treaty of London if Italy absolutely insisted on it, they thought it better to return.

Unfortunately, they had waited long enough for public opinion in Italy to be unable any longer to countenance the idea of their ultimate failure regarding Fiume. That is the dominating factor of the situation, and unless it is now faced, the newly launched peace of Europe may be wrecked almost before it is out in the fairway.

ITALIAN DISCONTENT CONTINUES TO GROW

Irritation at Exclusion of Nation from Alliance Against Germany Is a New Factor.

ROME, May 12, (Associated Press.)—The discontent and irritation of the people are again growing because of news from Paris that Italy is not likely to get what she claims on the eastern shore of the Adriatic. The Messaggero says:

"President Wilson is obstinately obdurate in his views regarding Fiume, showing that he has not changed his mind."

Other reasons for dissatisfaction are the Anglo-Franco-American alliance, from which Italy was excluded; the asserted project that the former Austrian merchant marine will be divided among the Allies, although it is held that it belongs entirely to Italian firms; the clause in the treaty with Germany saying that the three principal Powers were sufficient to ratify the treaty—thus, it is alleged, again excluding Italy—and the reported scheme to place Ethiopia [Abyssinia] under the protection of France.

By a Ministerial decree the workers on the Italian railways receive an eight hour day, with one day off duty weekly.

PARIS, May 11, (Associated Press.)—Much comment has arisen over the fact that Italy is not included in the proposed engagement between the United States, Great Britain and France for mutual action against Germany should Germany again become aggressive toward France. It is said that Premier Orlando was ready to bring Italy into the agreement, and that he took part in some of the early discussions, although the plans were consummated about the time of the high tension which removed Premier Orlando from active participation in the Council of Four.

Because of Italy's membership in the former Triple Alliance, it is held in some French quarters, it was a serious omission not to include Italy in the new Franco-American-British engagement.

NAVY SAYS DIRIGIBLE MAY CROSS OCEAN

Official Announcement Declares Plans Depend on Test Flight of C-5 to St. John's.

AWAITS SUITABLE WEATHER

"Hop" from Montauk Point, N. Y., to Newfoundland Expected Soon —Will Carry Six Men.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, May 12.—It is possible that the navy planes which are to attempt to cross the Atlantic Ocean as soon as weather conditions permit a "jump-off" from Newfoundland will be followed closely by the navy dirigible C-5, according to a Navy Department announcement today.

The dirigible, under the command of Commander E. W. Coil, is now at Montauk Point, preparing for a trial trip ti Newfoundland as an experimental proximately 1,000 miles. A successful trip between these points probably will mean an attempt, within a very short time, to make the flight to the Azores, over much the route as mapped out for the navy planes. The official announcement read:

"The Navy Department is informed that the naval airship C-5 is ready for a start from the naval air station, Montauk Point, N. Y., for St. John's, Newfoundland, whenever weather conditions are favorable.

"The C-5, the newest of the navy's twin-engine dirigibles, will make the trip to Newfoundland as an experiment flight to demonstrate what she can do in regard to distance and how she will operate under varying weather conditions.

"The trip is made at this time and along this route to take advantage of the fact that the department has ships and personnel all along the way from the starting point to St. John's, where the U. S. S. Chicago has been sent to act as station ship for the dirigible.

"Upon the outcome of this experimental flight will depend the future plans in regard to the possibility of attempting later a transatlantic flight by a dirigible."

The C-5 is commanded by Commander L. W. Coil, U. S. N., and the present crew comprises Lieutenant J. V. Lawrence, Lieutenant (J. G.) M. H. Easterly, Ensign D. P. Campbell, Chief Machinist s Mate T. L. Morrman and Chief Machinist's Mate S. H. Blackburn.

The C-5 is a twin-engine non-rigid airship of the C class, powered with two 125-horsepower union engines; envelope No. E. 106, manufactured by the Goodyear Tire and Rubber Company, Akron, Ohio; car No. A 4126, manufactured by the Burgess Company, Marblehead, Mass. Her specifications follow:

Envelope displacement, approximately 178,000 cubic feet.
Envelope length, 192 feet.
Envelope diameter, 41 feet 9 inches.
Normal speed, 50 miles an hour.
Endurance at normal speed, 10 hours.
Useful load, 4,000 pounds.
Crew, six men.
Maximum attainable height, 8,000 feet.
Car length, 40.

Denies Knowledge of Flight.

Navy Dirigible C-5, it was reported last night, will leave Montauk Point tomorrow morning about 8 o'clock, if the weather conditions are favorable, bound for St. John's, N. F., a distance of 900 nautical miles. With this report from Montauk Point came a statement made by Lieutenant Robert Donahue, Commandant at the Naval Air Station, denying that he, nor Lieutenant Commander E. W. Coil, commanding the C-5, had been officially advised that the dirigible would sail "at all" for Newfoundland. He said that the only information that such a trip had been planned had come to him through the newspapers.

Other officers at the station declined to admit that the balloon intended to make the trip even when they had been told that a landing place for the C-5 had been selected in St. John's by officers from the balloon's mother ship, the Chicago.

The C-5 is a toy balloon compared with the R-33 or R-34, the two monster dirigibles now being groomed in England for the transatlantic flight. Five G type "blimps" would be placed inside the big British "cigars." They are 685 feet long, driven by five engines giving a total horse power of 1,250. They are equipped to carry twenty-nine ton at a speed of eighty miles an hour.

TOWERS REPORTS TO NAVY.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, May 12.—The summary which the Navy Department today received from Commander John H. Towers at Trepassey, N. F., dealing with the flight from Rockaway Beach to Trepassey Bay, the official starting point of the transatlantic flight, was as follows:

"Left Rockaway in NC-3 accompanied by NC-4 and NC-1 at 10 A. M., May 8, proceeding in formation along the south coast of Long Island; thence over Vineyard Sound to Chatham; thence to Seal Island. Received radio from NC-4 at 2:10 P. M. that they were running on three engines and might be compelled to land. NC-4 dropped astern and shortly later was lost sight of. It was believed that she had turned to land near the McDermut, which was barely visible off our port quarter.

"From Seal Island proceeded in company with NC-1 to Nova Scotia and up the coast to Halifax, NC-3 landing at 7 P. M. and NC-1 at 7:10 P. M.

"Started refueling from the Baltimore immediately and completed at 2 A. M., May 9. Made arrangements to leave for Trepassey at 8 A. M. May 8, but discovered cracked type on push propeller of NC-3 and three propellers of NC-1 in a similar condition. Obtained four hubs from Canadian air station and replaced damaged propellers with spares from Baltimore. On attempting start on the morning of May 10 the starter on pusher engine of NC-3 broke. Signaled NC-1 to proceed to Trespassey. Replaced starter and left Halifax at 8:15 A. M. Landed thirty-eight miles northeast of Halifax and examination showed starboard tractor propeller, type 8381, had cracked tip. Returned to Halifax, arriving at 10:30 A. M. Removed propeller from centre tractor engine and put it on starboard tractor.

"Left Halifax at 11:40 A. M. and proceeded to Trepassey, landing at 6:30 P. M. The total time fom Halifax to Trepassey was NC-3, 6 hours and 50 minutes; NC-1, 6 hours and 56 minutes.

"Each seaplane spent approximately forty minutes manoeuvring for landing at Trepassey under very adverse weather conditions. Winds as high at 45 miles an hour were encountered, although fairly smooth air was found at 3,500 feet. Engines functioned well on both legs. Radio telegraph maintained excellent communication. Navigation was rendered difficult by the high velocity and varying directions of winds and necessity of flying high to avoid rough air, but means are regarded as satisfactory.

"Engaged in overhauling and refueling NC-3 and NC-1 and will start for Azores when conditions are favorable."

PLANES REFUELED AND READY TO FLY

air currents, sent a propaganda or pilot balloon into the air and studied its movements. This is similar to experiments attempted by Lieutenant Lawrence Clements, the British Air Ministry's representative at St. John's. Clements's efforts failed on account of low visibility, while the trial here was perfectly successful. A southeast wind took the balloon northwest till it had ascended 700 feet. Then, while mobs crowded the decks of the Prairie and Aroostook, giving a perfect imitation of the behavior of a Times Square crowd, which spies one man looking skyward, the tiny sphere struck calm air and went up straight to 2,250 feet, when it encountered wind from the north and disappeared, traveling south at fifty miles an hour. Since the mean flying altitude of the Atlantic crossing will probably be around 2,500 feet, the experiment showed that today's wind here was unfavorable.

Light, fleecy clouds 30,000 feet up, which authorities say presage a local storm, helped to make a background for the balloon as it traveled. Incidentally, it is interesting to know that the clouds at their extreme elevation showed entirely different air currents as they moved slowly from west to east.

The surface wind this morning blew straight into the harbor, and as the "take-off" must be into the wind, the fliers hoped that this condition might prevail for several days. Commander Towers on flight here was able to photograph many icebergs floating in the ice fields and the wind brought an early cold which coated the harbor with thin ice, which soon disappeared under a sun worthy of the tropics.

The results of the successful inquiry into the upper air conditions here will be placed at the disposal of the British aviators if desired, and Barrett has sent Clements a weather service code book enabling him to take advantage of all the radio weather reports, which can easily be picked up by the British Admiralty wireless station at Mount Pearl, near the Sopwith airdrome.

Captain Arthur Crenshaw, the commander, is taking an interest in the fuel conditions of the destroyers on the leg from here to the Azores, for which he is responsible, and which depend upon the Hiscox, stationed here, for their supply, while those farther out depend upon the Maumel fuel ship, now en route to the Azores. The average time a destroyer can remain at sea without refueling is six days, and the last of the destroyers with which Captain Crenshaw is immediately concerned, though all this leg is in his flotilla, was at its station on May 10. From this one may draw ones own inference that every effort will be made to complete the Azores flight before May 16.

Storms in Mid-Atlantic.

Reverting a moment to the weather, late information tells of stormy conditions in the mid-Atlantic, with a prospect that the unfriendly winds will move toward the North Atlantic track, which must be followed if the land planes attempt a direct flight to Ireland, thus clearing the seaplane route. There is [illegible] aboard the ships of the chances of Secretary Daniels, now returning on the Mount Vernon, returning to the United States by the southerly route, catching a glimpse of the flight. At any rate, it is probable he will be able to communicate with the pioneer fliers while they are in midair, and possible as well that Commander Towers or Lieut. Commander Bellinger will reply to whatever message may be received from the Secretary.

There is an endless debate among the laymen here as to whether the NC boats are properly denominated seaplanes or flying boats, with many supporting the latter term because the craft have real boat hulls instead of pontoons. It was settled today when it was discovered that the official orders invariably used the term "seaplanes." This was reinforced by an authoritative explanation that a "jitney scout," such as flies about the harbor here, is a flying boat, while the plane which actually goes to sea is a seaplane.

Speculation is still rife among aviation officers as to who must be left behind when the crews are reduced to five each when the planes "hop off" for the Azores. Every flier is hoping and praying he will not be one of these left behind, and a bitter disappointment is in store for those who must be sacrificed.

Lieut. Commander R. E. Byrd, who visited Newfoundland last October and selected the prospective seaplane patrol base site at Cape Broyle, where the British Navy's Porte flying boat is now to start, and who flew here with Commander Towers, has been invited to accompany the Aroostook to Plymouth, England, when the seaplane mother ship weighs anchor after her chickens take to the wind.

Fishermen Come to See Planes.

There was a pathetic incident aboard the Prairie this morning when an outport man, aged 28 and born blind, having read somewhere of the splendid reputation of the American navy surgeons, walked more then thirty miles and hired a little boat here and presented himself before Lieutenant J. P. Owen, the Prairie's medical officer, and begged that he be made to see. After an examination Lieutenant Owen was forced to tell him his sight would never come back to him.

The harbor this morning was dotted with fishing vessels with sails gleaming in the sunlight, since from many miles around the fishermen have deserted the cod traps and set full sail for a view of the first aircraft that have ever visited this part of the island. They and the American sailors are deeply interested if a bit puzzled by each other and friendly relations are established on sight whenever the roving jackies encounter the Newfoundlanders about the countryside. The "gobs" regaled with stories of sea adventures, in which this whole island abounds and which do not need embellishment, even if simple fisherfolk are capable of embroidering the narratives. In return the boys in blue pass out a generous batch of information about the navy's big project, though it must be said some details they unblinkingly disclose would cause surprise among the officers if related in the wardroom.

Sailors Buy Out Little Shops.

The sailors' favorite among the village folk is the "Ham and Eggs Lady," whose cottage is the only place they have discovered where food is for sale, though the Prairie, Aroostook, Hiscox, and McKean's galleys and storerooms are fairly bursting with food, as the men's appearance proves.

They are excellently well fed, but their appetites are apparently insatiable, and now that the few tiny stores here are denuded of candy, coffee, and every other edible, a relentless hunt goes on for fresh fish.

Next to eagerness for food comes a still unabated craving for souvenirs, and one enterprising villager, who sent a rush order to St. John's, has thus far sold 200 hair sealskins at an average price of $4.50 each.

Another curious sidelight on the American sailor abroad is the cheerfulness with which when off the ships, whose canteens sell the best American brands of cigarettes far below the present prices in the United States, they unhesitatingly invest in inferior imported brands ashore, which, on account of high duties, are a very real luxury.

The Aroostook's officers enjoyed an unaccustomed luncheon today, when three of their number returned from a trout-fishing expedition with seventy-six excellent specimens of brook trout. Captain Crenshaw, with Captain J. H. Tombs, the Aroostook's commander, snatched an hour from a busy day to try their luck under the guidance of Father O'Flaherty, the local parish priest.

The mention of fish brings to mind the fact that whenever a native meets with the natural inquiry from a stranger, "Any fish around here?" he thinks he is being joshed. The reason is that fish in this country means "cod," and absolutely nothing else, and all other piscatorial animals are described only by their specific names. When THE NEW YORK TIMES correspondent told his host, "This is excellent fish," he met with the indignant protest, "This is not fish; this is halibut."

May Carry Crew of Six Men.

TREPASSEY, N. F., May 12.—The American navy's seaplanes will set out on their transatlantic flight carrying, if possible, crews of six men, instead of five, as originally planned, and with extra propellers aboard. Commander John H. Towers, chief of the expedition, announced today in a statement detailing precautionary measures adopted to insure, as far as possible, completion of the projected non-stop cruise to the Azores.

The extra men and spare parts, together with a maximum supply of petrol, would bring the weight of each plane to 28,800 pounds, the commander said, which might prove more than the 1,600 horsepower engines would lift from the water. In this event, he added, the craft, after a surface cruise in the harbor, would "taxi" back to the mother ship, discharge and drain off the excess fuel, reducing the weight to 28,000 pounds, the official full load.

The proposed enlargement of the crews and equipment were the result, Commander Towers stated, of the experience gained in the flight from Halifax, when the NC-3, flagship of the division, was delayed in her start and then forced to return to port after cruising fifty miles because of propeller trouble.

PREPARE DIRIGIBLE FIELD AT ST. JOHN'S

AMERICAN SPEED SURPRISES

Colonial Government Removes Customs and Local Restrictions for Entry of Needed Materials.

Special to The New York Times.

ST. JOHN'S, N. F., May 12.—Work on preparing ground at Quidi Vidi for the landing of the American dirigible is proceeding rapidly today and at sundown more than 100 cylinders of hydrogen gas had been carted there from the cruiser Chicago. Fixtures for anchoring the airship on its arrival were also being prepared, and the area will be a scene of busy activity tomorrow.

The surprise is growing throughout the city at the manner in which the Americans are carrying out this enterprise, and everybody wishes the American airmen fullest success. A large number visited the Quidi Vidi grounds this afternoon to observe the progress being made, and the cruiser Chicago was viewed by hundreds. Many people thought the machine was aboard the ship, and would be brought out and inflated here, and were greatly astonished when informed that it was intended to fly 1,200 miles from Montauk Point to St. John's and then cross the Atlantic from here.

The Colonial Government is affording every facility to airmen and putting aside all customs and other regulations in regard to landing of the materials required for the airship.

The British airmen now here have been considerably sharked by the announcement of the impending arrival of this machine, following upon the advent of the American seaplanes to Trepassey, and it is generally understood they will make every effort to get away from here within the next two or three days, availing themselves of the full moon and also endeavoring to reach England before the seaplanes reach the Azores, and certainly before the dirigible makes that point.

Friendly meetings have taken place between the British and American air experts now here, and all are looking forward to big events. Admiral Wood of the Chicago and his staff inspected the Martinsyde machine, and many officers and men of the ship did the same, while others motored to Mount Pearl to view the Sopwith plane.

Hawker and Grieve have decided in view of a probable early departure to abandon the idea of fixing the new wireless sending equipment on their machine. As weather prospects are getting worse tonight both parties have decided to give their machines a final overhauling and engine test tomorrow, expecting to be able to get away on Wednesday.

WEATHER STILL DELAYS NC-4.

High Winds and Rough Seas Hold Navy Plane at Chatham.

CHATHAM, Mass., May 12.—Weather conditions continued unfavorable today for the resumption of the flight of the NC-4 to Halifax and Trepassey, N. F. Rain which had fallen steadily for more than thirty-six hours ceased early in the day but the sky was still overcast and the high winds and rough sea made it inadvisable, in the opinion of Lieut. Commander A. C. Read, to attempt to get away.

The NC-4 has been repaired and is said to be ready to start again as soon as weather conditions permit.

HAIL SIMS AS HERO AT FORUM MEETING

VAN DYKE POEM IS READ

American Commander Scorns Persons Who Seek to Harm Friendship with Britain.

Rear Admiral William Snowden Sims, U. S. N., who commanded the American naval forces in European waters during the European war, was honored by a representative audience of New York men and women last night. The occasion was a testimonial given to the Admiral in Carnegie Hall, under the auspices of the Civic Forum. George W. Wickersham presided. Speeches were made by President Nicholas Murray Butler of Columbia University, and the Rev. Dr. William T. Manning, Rector of Trinity Church, while a poem, entitled "To Admiral Sims, U. S. N.," written by Henry Van Dyke, was read by Robert Erskine Ely.

Henry Clews, Chairman of the Civic Forum, opened the meeting and introduced Mr. Wickersham, who in a short speech eulogized Admiral Sims as exemplifying the highest type of the American naval officer. He referred to the now historic speech that Admiral, then Captain, Sims made in London in 1907, in which Sims said that, if Great Britain ever was threatened by an external enemy, she would find America at her side in the hour of need.

The Admiral had been, said Mr. Wickersham, "the premier liaison officer between the United States and the Allied navies." This indiscretion of 1907 was one of the glorious indiscretions that make great reputations and lead to great realities.

"It must have been a great day in the British Admiralty," said Mr. Wickersham, "when, in April, 1917, Admiral Sims, after his great prophecy of 1907, returned to London as the American commander, to take his place beside them in the struggle that was then at its height. I was in England a few months ago, and I can testify that today there is no more popular man in all the British Isles than is William Snowden Sims, U. S. N."

Dr. Van Dyke's verses in tribute to Admiral Sims were read after Mr. Wickersham's address. They follow:

TO ADMIRAL SIMS, U. S. N.

Tell us the story, Admiral, of what our fleet has done,
To land two million men in France without the loss of one,
To keep the ocean highway free, and balk the pirate Hun.

The Navy is a silent force and never likes to tell:
But now the German fleet has gone from Heligoland to hell,
So let us hear what our sailors did so valiantly and well.

I saw you first in London—'twas just two years ago,
America at last had come to face the whole world's foe;
You told me what you meant to do; and verily it was so!

And that's the spirit, brave and true, in which our sailors fight.

You'll praise the officers and crew, from the bridge unto the band,
For that is every seaman's due. And yet we understand
The Navy breeds,
The Navy needs,
Fine officers and gentlemen, like you.
To care for the good of every ship and take the high command.

Testimonial Is Read.

The testimonial address to Admiral Sims, signed by hundreds of New York's most prominent citizens, was read by Mr. Wickersham just before the Admiral was introduced. The address, with some of the signers, read:

We, the undersigned citizens of New York, feel it a privilege and the most welcome of duties to express our profound admiration for your immeasurable services in the late war as commander of the American naval forces in European waters.

The struggle in which our allies and this country engaged in defense of freedom and democracy could never have resulted so victoriously without the vital part played by the British and American Navies.

It was the great good fortune of the United States and the allied cause that our fleet abroad was commanded by one who embodied the highest personal and professional qualities. Who can ever forget the sleepless skill and indomitable vigilance with which men, munitions, and supplies were transported and convoyed across the Atlantic! Your share, Sir, in this unparalleled and incredible feat will make your country and its sister nations in the combat forever your debtors.

No words can add lustre to great deeds. But your example, Sir, as naval officer, patriot, gentleman, will long inspire other Americans to give their best to their country's service.

Tells of Harmony with British.

"If I believed everything that is said about me," said the Admiral in the course of his speech, "I would be bound, in justice to myself, to consider Nelson, John Paul Jones, and Decatur small potatoes when compared to me."

Whatever the navy accomplished, he said, was due to the equipment provided in time of peace.

"A navy," he said, "that cannot manoeuvre in peace will be unable to manoeuvre in time of war, and the navy that cannot shoot in peace will find it too late to learn when it finds itself in war."

In England, he said, the American and British services had proved that two great nations could co-operate in every detail necessary to the winning of victory.

"There was a complete elimination," he said, "of all friction. All personal ambition was suppressed, and the spirit of everybody concerned was to get along with the war and win it. The result, so far as the British and American navies were concerned, was complete harmony and confidence one in the other. If business men and diplomats could co-operate as we did, there would not be much need of a League of Nations."

Sailor Boys Won British Hearts.

The British people, said Admiral Sims, had done everything possible to make the soldiers and sailors of America happy and welcome in England and Scotland. He told of the good impression made by the personnel of an American aviation station in the South of England. Most of the men in this command, he said, were college boys.

"A fine old English home was thrown open to them," he said, "and these chaps so won the heart of the mistress of that great estate that she is going to send her boy to school in America. She will arrive next month and her boy will enter Harvard with the next freshman class.

"It is not necessary for me to refer to the hit that the 'blooming' English girls made on our boys. They were married to our American lads by the hundreds, and already I am officially informed some mighty fine Anglo-American dividends have been declared.

"One thing I like about the Britisher is his love of personal liberty. I am sure that they will never have prohibition in England." To this the audience responded with hearty applause.

English modesty, Admiral Sims said, had proved of the greatest advantage to the German propagandist in America.

"The Englishman, when he does anything big and fine, simply will not talk about it," he said. "The result was that during the war we never knew over here what the British were doing to win the struggle. Instead, our people heard those nasty contemptible little skits like 'King George will fight to the last Frenchman' and other such expressions. I give you my word of honor that in all my reading of history I have never read anything that equals the achievement in this war of that little island over there."

Allies Destroyed 215 U-Boats.

The Admiral closed with a tribute to General Pershing and to the British Grand Fleet. The fleet, he said, was "the basic structure" of the whole great allied machine that finally accomplished the downfall of Germany and her allies. The total number of submarines destroyed, said the Admiral, was 215, and in this destruction the allied submarines had proved the most deadly weapon except the depth bomb.

In his tribute to Admiral Sims, Dr. Manning said:

"The spirit of the American and British navies is the same, because the spirit of the English speaking people all over the world is one and the same. They have the same ideals of honor and decency and manhood. They have the same spirit of sportsmanship and love of fair play. As long as that spirit lives in the English speaking peoples and the English speaking peoples hold together, no outbreak of force or tyranny from any quarter will overcome them or will be allowed to terrorize the world."

Dr. Butler spoke of Admiral Sims as the highest type of American naval officer and said that "any recognition of America's part in the war would be one-sided that did not also recognize the dogged courage and perseverance of America's two great allies, Great Britain and France." The success of the League of Nations, he said, depends upon the continued friendship of these nations.

Sims Sees Godson Christened.

Rear Admiral William S. Sims and Mrs. Sims were present yesterday afternoon at the christening of Admiral Sims's godson, William Sims Gillmor, at the Church of St. Mary the Virgin, at 139 West Forty-sixth Street. The baby's father is Lieutenant Reginald Everett Gillmor, who was Admiral Sims's flag secretary during his London visit. Preceding the ceremony Admiral Sims and his wife were guests at a luncheon given by the baby's grandmother, Mrs. Hudson Spears, at her home, 135 East Sixty-sixth Street.

GEORGE GOULD SEEKS TO CUT OUT 'SCANDAL'

Will Ask Court Today to Eliminate Much of Affidavits Filed Against Him.

MAY DELAY MAIN ACTION

References to "Secret Profits" and Purchase of Mo. Pac. Bonds Among Things Objected To.

Through a petition filed in the Supreme Court yesterday by George J. Gould it was disclosed that, when the application of Frank J. Gould and his sister, Anna, the Duchesse de Talleyrand, for the removal of George J. Gould as trustee of the estate of their father, Jay Gould, is heard this morning, George Gould will ask Justice Whitaker first to pass on his motion to strike out as "scandalous" and also as irrelevant a large part of the contents of affidavits filed against him.

The alleged "scandalous matter" is contained chiefly in affidavits by Walter B. Walker, attorney for Frank J. Gould, and Philip L. Miller, counsel for the Duchesse de Talleyrand. Mr. Gould also wants stricken out as "argumentative" a statement in the affidavit of William A. W. Stewart, guardian ad litem for Mr. Gould's daughter Gloria and his own grandchildren, that Mr. Gould's retention of "secret profits" of $620,401 as the commission paid on the sale of the Western Union stock owned by the Gould estate was "improper and illegal." Mr. Stewart passes no opinion on whether Mr. Gould should be removed. Mr. Gould also objects to the affidavit of Walter F. Carter, guardian ad litem for Dorothy, daughter of Frank J. Gould, that Mr. Gould should be removed because he retained the alleged "secret profits" for eight years, or until after the order for this examination before trial had been served on him, and then said he was not ready to pay legal interest.

Objects to Walker's Charges.

The charges of Attorney Walker objected to by George Gould as "scandalous" begin with the assertion that when he began to examine George Gould before trial he "did not contemplate discovering any such condition of maladministration, gross neglect, and fraud as immediately began to be discovered." Mr. Gould asks to have stricken out Mr. Walker's statement that Mr. Gould was making a "cowardly effort to hide behind the acts of his sister Helen." He objects further to the alleged "scandalous" statement by Mr. Walker that when George wrote to Frank Gould concerning the sale of the estate's holding of Missouri Pacific stock and said, "As we stand now we are a big creditor and can afford to take chances with the rest," George Gould "disclosed his attitude of mind toward his trust."

Mr. Walker also stated that Mr. Gould's affidavit in explaining his acts is "an insult to the intelligence of the court and an effort to throw dust in the eyes of the court," by alleging irrelevant and immaterial matter," and this statement is objected to by Mr. Gould. Mr. Gould also asks the court to strike out Mr. Walker's allegation that in explaining a transaction in Pacific Express stock Mr. Gould "attempts to hide behind this alleged agency of his wife," and that "it is not a question of who got the profits," because George has been "admittedly untrue to his trust."

Among the alleged "scandalous" statements in the affidavit of Attorney Miller which Mr. Gould wants rejected from the papers is that Edwin Gould "has not been well aware of the fact that George J. Gould has shown in his management of the trust estate such a lack of personal honor and integrity as fitted him for the duties of executor and trustee," and that Mrs. Helen Gould Shepard "has not been guilty of negligence in not becoming aware of George J. Gould's want of honor and integrity in the management of the estate, and of his repeated recklessness in unlawfully committing the funds of the estate to ventures speculative and hazardous in an extreme degree."

Mr. Gould objects to Mr. Miller's statement that the payment to the life tenants of the estate of $473,547 unpaid interest in advance on $3,330,232 lent to the International & Great Northern, which was a loss, was "gross and willful fraud on the remaindermen in view of the fact that the trustees were life tenants, and was an unworthy and dishonorable action." He asks the court to strike out the statement that when the estate took $6,775,600 of Missouri Pacific bonds it increased its interest in the Missouri Pacific securities by 35 per cent., and was "gross negligence and clear abuse of discretion" when there were "safe and sound securities" in which the money could have been invested.

Mr. Gould objects finally to the alleged "scandalous" statement by Mr. Miller that his retention of $387,770 as profits on an underwriting transaction in Kansas & Colorado Pacific bonds "was a gross breach of fiduciary obligation and an unworthy and dishonorable action which alone is sufficient to require his removal."

George Gould also asks Justice Whitaker to strike out as "conclusions" statements in an affidavit of Howard Thayer Kingsbury, guardian ad litem for the children of the Duchess de Talleyrand, that Mr. Gould "exercised a dominating influence, dictated the policy, habitually subordinated the interest of the estate and his fiduciary obligations to his individual and personal interests, took profits on investments of estate funds and caused the estate to bear the burden of all the losses, mingled the estate funds and transactions with his own, and destroyed his accounts and records in which the facts would appear."

Under the court rules of practice Mr. Gould is entitled to have his objections to the affidavits referred to passed on before the papers are considered on the motion to remove him, and his action is likely to delay the consideration of the removal motion for a long period unless both motions are referred to a referee at the same time, which is not considered likely.

NEW AIR MAIL SERVICE ADVANCES DELIVERIES

Letters Sent by Chicago-Cleveland Route Will Reach Address Here Six Hours Earlier.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, May 12.—The carrier delivery of letters at Albany, New York City, and Springfield, Mass., will be advanced six hours, and the delivery at Cleveland and Boston by sixteen hours with the inauguration of the air mail service between Chicago and Cleveland on Thursday, according to an announcement tonight by Second Assistant Postmaster General Praeger.

Airplane stamps or ordinary postage at the rate of 6 cents per ounce must be used on mail and the letters marked "Air Mail." Letters also may be sent by special delivery by the additional use of a special delivery stamp.

Mail from San Francisco and the entire Pacific Coast States put on Burlington train No. 8, mail from South Dakota and Northern Illinois put on Illinois Central train No. 12, mail from Northern Minnesota and Northern Wisconsin put on Northwestern train No. 514, mail from Minnesota, North Dakota, and Montana put on C., M. & St. P train No. 18, and mail from Kansas City and the entire Southwest put on Santa Fé train No. 10 will reach Chicago in time to make connections with the air mail eastbound. The air mail from these trains will be taken direct to the air mail field. At Cleveland the air mail will catch the New York Central train at 4 in the afternoon for the East.

WARNING TO NICARAGUA.

Must Not Invade Costa Rica, Washington Tells Chamorro.

WASHINGTON, May 12.—President Chamorro of Nicaragua has been warned by the American Government against attempting any invasion of Costa Rica.

This became known today after publication of press dispatches from San José that hostile forces had crossed the Costa Rican border from Nicaragua.

Officials said, however, they had no information to show whether these forces were Nicaraguan troops or revolutionists.

Carlos Lara, confidential agent here of the Tinoco Government of Costa Rica, in a statement tonight denounced as false any representation of the revolutionary movement against Costa Rica as being composed of Costa Ricans. Not more than twenty Costa Ricans were concerned in it, he said, and he declared the others were Nicaraguans, "protected and stimulated" by the Nicaraguan Government.

The attempt at invasion he characterized as a complete failure.

the Continental Congress. This session continued until Sept. 29, 1789. Before adjourning the following law was enacted, being approved Sept. 29, 1789:

"That after the adjournment of the present session, the next meeting of Congress shall be on the first Monday in January next."

Thus the law fixed a date later than the first Monday in December, specified by the Constitution. The third session began on the Constitutional day, the first Monday in December, 1790. Apparently some doubt had existed as to whether the Constitution would require a meeting on that day, for on Aug. 10, near the close of the second session, the House Journal recorded a resolution from the Senate asking concurrence of the House in a Senate resolution providing that Congress meet on the first Monday of the following December. The House agreed to the Senate resolution.

The precedents also show that early Congresses, having by law met on a day earlier than the Constitutional day, remained in session to a time beyond the Constitutional day, that in 1797 Congress assembled on the day constitutionally provided by law, although it had already held a session that year, and that the early laws fixing the time for the meeting of Congress specified the day, but not the hour. At the last session of the First Congress a law was enacted providing "that after the 3d of March next, the first annual meeting of Congress shall be on the fourth Monday of October next."

Accordingly the first session of the Second Congress met Oct. 24, 1791, and continued in session until May 8, 1792. No attention was paid to Monday, Dec. 5, 1791, the day appointed for the assembling of Congress ordinarily. At this first session of the Second Congress, a law was enacted, approved May —, 1792, providing "that after the adjournment of the present session the next annual meeting of Congress shall be the first Monday in November next."

Many other precedents may be cited. There is even a precedent where one Congress having by law provided a time for the meeting of the next Congress; that Congress notified the President of an earlier day on a bill of the President.

"Speed with Economy"

Part of the Wrigley Co. plant at Long Island City, entirely rebuilt by us and now producing over 3,500,000 pieces of gum a day.

Last July, this client was located at Bush Terminal. Army said, "You've got to move by December, got to keep on making gum for the boys, but you can't have steel for new buildings."

Wrigley found a sixty-year-old plant—15 buildings—21 acres. We made it new in a jiffy. Did it without using materials needed by war munitions industries. Didn't use new at all where old would do—saved money.

That's why we say—"Speed with Economy."

And Not One Broken Egg

Nothing quite so strikingly demonstrates the resilience and cushioning properties of GOODRICH DE LUXE Truck Tires as a recent 32-mile trip from a New Jersey farm to New York by a motor truck carrying 800 dozen eggs.

Riding on these deep, broad-shouldered treads this truck, despite "chuck holes," reached Gotham without so much as a single egg being broken!

Such performance justifies the selection by large cartage companies of these burly cushions as the best insurance for fragile materials and valuable cargo in transit.

GARMENT MAKERS READY TO STRIKE

Revolution of Entire Industry Is Aim of Walkout Planned for Tomorrow or Thursday.

MAY MAKE IT NATION-WIDE

Workers Demand Salary System Instead of Piece Work, and a 44-Hour Week.

In an effort to revolutionize the basis of operations of an entire industry, between 50,000 and 60,000 cloak, suit and skirt makers are prepared to strike in 2,400 shops in this city tomorrow or Thursday. The General Strike Committee of the Cloakmakers' Union, meeting in the Central Opera House in East Sixty-seventh Street last night, decided that if necessary the strike would be made nation-wide, though only 30 per cent. of the cloak and suit manufacturing business of the country is done outside New York City.

Benjamin Schlesinger, President of the International Ladies' Garment Workers' Union, the parent organization, said that his plans were completed. He admitted there remained a possibility of averting the strike at a conference today with members of the Cloak, Suit and Skirt Manufacturers' Protective Association. The union, he said, would hold out for the important items in its demands, which involve a change from the system of piece work to a "week-work" or salary system, a 44-hour week and a minimum wage scale.

Manufacturers who are members of the association are said to be not so much opposed to the change as the 2,000 independent manufacturers and contractors, against whom the strike also will be waged, their opposition to the salary system in the past having been based upon misgivings as to its effect upon production.

Discussing the proposed change, Mr. Schlesinger said that a successful strike, bringing all the shops into line, would spell the doom of the "sweat shop."

"The manufacturers appear afraid of the salary system because they think the workers will 'soldier' on the job," he said. "The opposite will be true. The workers, 90 per cent. of them men, will work just as hard, but they will not endanger their health by working sometimes eighteen hours a day at piece work, just to swell that Saturday envelope.

"Under the new system the union does not expect to be able to insure employment the year around for all the workers, but if the season is lengthened even from six to eight months, it will help the majority. Long periods of dullness destroy the standards set for the workers in the industry. They will work for anything at all to keep the wolf from the door. This creates a condition which requires adjustment before each busy season.

"The manufacturers have contended that a shortage of labor would result from the introduction of the week-work plan. We argued that if such a shortage occurred, the gaps would be filled by unemployed munition workers and others. We said Americans would come in to the industry, in which at present the majority of workers are Austrian and Galician Jews."

EXPRESS STRIKE IS ENDED.

12,000 Men Vote to Resume Work Pending Adjustments.

The 12,000 express handlers who went on strike last week because of dissatisfaction over the wage award of the United States Railroad Administration, which became effective May 1, voted yesterday to return to work today pending an adjustment of their differences at Washington. About 7,000 employes of the American Railway Express Company attended a mass meeting in Madison Square Garden yesterday afternoon and heard the situation explained by their leaders and by Hugh Frayne of the American Federation of Labor and Robert E. M. Cowie, Vice President of the American Railway Express Company.

Mr. Cowie told the men that the Government would offer no objection if they joined a "respectable" labor union. In the last few days the express handlers have been organized into the International Teamsters' Union, and leaders of this organization were on the platform at the meeting yesterday. It was understood that the Government, through Mr. Cowie, conceded recognition of the Teamsters' Union as the representation of the express handlers, who include chauffeurs, wagon drivers, and their helpers in the New York district of the company.

In their demands presented to the company after the walkout the men sought a flat increase of $25 a month, time and a half for overtime, ten holidays a year, and double time for work done on Sundays and holidays. The men signified their intention of returning to work by a rising vote, which was unanimous.

LABOR BOARD ACTS IN PAPER STRIKE

Demands That Sulphite Workers' Union Stand by Award Given for War Period.

MAINE PLANT RAISES PAY

Several Other Mills Are Still Tied Up by Partial Walkout, Leaving 5,000 Men Idle.

WASHINGTON, May 12.—The War Labor Board prepared a telegram today to the officers of the International Association of Mill, Pulp, and Sulphite Workers, demanding that the union abide by the board's award, which is effective until the end of the war. This action resulted from a strike of employes of the International Paper Company at Glens Falls, N. Y., who demand increased wages.

The union has asserted that the war ended Nov. 11, and has announced that the workers were free to seek increased wages and improved working conditions. The War Labor Board takes the position that the war is not over until the Treaty of Peace is ratified and that the action of the union practically repudiates their agreement.

The award was made by the board in conjunction with the Federal Trade Commission, which investigated production costs and established a price for print paper and similar products on the basis of the wages and costs.

5,000 Union Workers Affected.

GLENS FALLS, N. Y., May 12.—There was virtually no change today in the strike situation which has tied up nearly all of the thirty-six plants of the International Paper Company throughout the country, involving approximately 5,000 unionized workers, according to reports received here.

The strike began early yesterday. In all of the plants from which word was received, the unions have permitted firemen to remain on duty to care for the fires and boilers.

Local plants which were idle were those in this city, at Corinth and at Fort Edward. At Corinth, Superintendent Walker requested the appointment of additional police to protect the company's property. The request was granted, though there had been no disorder at that time.

Union leaders said they did not look for a prolonged strike. Several meetings and conferences were to be held today, but local leaders awaited word from the New York offices of the International Company before taking further action.

BELLOWS FALLS, Vt., May 12.—The mills of the International Paper Company here were shut down today by a strike of the pulp and sulphite workers for increased wages. The strikers numbered about fifty, but their absence made necessary the closing of the entire plant employing 450 hands.

BERLIN, N. H., May 12.—Eighty sulphite and pulp workers of the International Paper Company here quit work today. The paper makers and other employes reported as usual, but because of the absence of the sulphite workers the plant was closed. Approximately 600 operatives are employed.

Maine Plant Raises Pay.

RUMFORD, Me., May 12.—A possible strike of employes of the International Paper Mills here was averted today by the granting of their demands for a wage increase of 15 per cent.

The 200 paper workers at the plant of the Continental Paper Bag Company, who quit work Saturday, demanding an 8-hour day and 15 per cent additional wages, were still out.

LIVERMORE FALLS, Me., May 12.—Although paper makers at the mills of the International Paper Company in this village reported for work today, their demand for an increase in wages having been adjusted, 300 sulphite and pulp workers remained out, and it was necessary to suspend operations. The mills here employ 700 men.

WATERTOWN, N. Y., May 12.—Following conflicting orders directing them first to strike, then not to strike, and finally to go out, the employes of four local mills of the International Paper Company walked out at 10 o'clock this morning. Five hundred men are involved in the strike. They include the pulp workers, paper makers, millwrights, and stationary firemen.

NEW LONGSHOREMEN'S UNION.

Vaccarelli Organizes Body in Opposition to the International.

Internal differences in the branches of the International Longshoremen's Union here over the dismissal of Paul Vaccarelli as Fifth Vice President after his quarrel with T. F. O'Connor, the union President, over the part taken in the harbor strike, has resulted in the formation of a new longshoremen's association. Vaccarelli is the President of the new organization, the name of which is the Riverfront Workers' Affiliation.

Officials of the longshoremen's unions declared last night that the new affiliation would take in only a few hundred workers, most of them Italians. In the strike of the marine workers, Vaccarelli, who is also an official of the Marine Affiliation and manager for the Harbor Boatmen's Union, disagreed with President O'Connor upon the attitude to be taken by the longshoremen.

BROOKLYN BARBERS STRIKE.

Bronx Bosses Grant Men's Demand for $25 a Week and Half the Tips.

Fifteen hundred union barbers struck in Brooklyn yesterday, affecting 700 shops, mainly in the Greenpoint, Williamsburg, Bushwick, and Ridgewood sections. The men demand $25 a week and shorter hours. They are now getting $20.

The strike of 2,000 Bronx barbers, which began last Friday, ended yesterday when the master barbers agreed to meet the demands of the men. In addition to shorter hours and better working conditions the barbers won a flat raise of $25 a week and 50 per cent. of all tips, which, added to the wages, is expected to make the pay average $35 a week. It was indicated that the Bronxites, who already are paying in some shops 50 cents for a haircut, would be further taxed to make up for the increased wages.

ACCUSE STRIKE LEADERS.

Court Orders Men to Explain Alleged Violation of Injunction.

Acting on the application of attorneys for Rosenwasser Bros., shoe manufacturers and Government contractors, of Long Island City, Justice Fawcett, in the Queens County Supreme Court, yesterday signed an order directing two labor leaders to appear May 23, to show cause why they should not be punished for contempt of court for alleged violation of the injunction issued by Justice Scudder, Nov. 15, prohibiting them from calling a strike at the Rosenwasser plant.

The men cited to appear were George Moran of 1,800 Crotona Park, the Bronx, who until May 1 was employment manager at the factory, and Jacob Cohen, described as Chairman of the strikers, whose address was given as Manhattan.

In an affidavit Morris Rosenwasser, head of the firm, declared that April 24 a strike was called in the establishment, and since then the plant has been picketed. He alleged that the local union and the General Executive Board of the United Shoe Workers of America had disclaimed any participation in the strike, asserting that the workers themselves had organized a strike committee, with Cohen at the head, in an effort to evade the injunction.

Rosenwasser also charged that Moran intimidated loyal employes by threatening to report them to their unions.

JUMPS BEFORE A TRAIN.

Widow Commits Suicide at Elevated Station in Brooklyn.

Mrs. Emma Cox, 53 years of age, a widow, of 169 Albany Avenue, Brooklyn, committed suicide yesterday morning by jumping in front of a Manhattan-bound train of the Fulton Street elevated line at the Tompkins Avenue station. Four cars passed over her body. Roy S. Cox and Bessie Cox, son and daughter of the dead woman, identified the body by means of the clothing. They said their mother suffered a stroke of apoplexy two months ago, and since that time had been in a highly nervous condition.

The platform from which Mrs. Cox leaped was well filled with persons on their way to business. Several women fainted as they saw her disappear under the wheels of the train. Hook and Ladder Company 111 aided the emergency crew of the B. R. T. to jack up the car under which the body was lodged. Traffic was interfered with for more than an hour and a half.

An Assurance in Cleanliness

If we were to take seriously all the dire perils predicted by drugged dentifrices, we would have to picture future America as a toothless nation. As a matter of fact, American teeth are the envy of the world.

For this the progress of American dentistry and the use of Dr. Lyon's during the past fifty years are largely responsible. They have grown up together, each relying on the other to perform his proper function safely.

Dr. Lyon's cleans and polishes the teeth. It contains no drugs, hence no possibility of the misapplication of drugs.

Three generations of good teeth attest the trustworthiness of Dr. Lyon's.

DEAR FOLKS:

THE oftener I come in personal contact with the workers in the Wilson & Co. organization, the greater is my conviction that Mr. Wilson by gaining their loyalty and confidence has created the greatest asset that his business possesses.

Let me tell you how the workers plan to make the work of Mr. Wilson and that of his associates in the official family easier, and to leave them free to handle the big problems which come before them every working day.

They have organized a COMMITTEE OF 32, consisting of men and women members, who are elected to membership by vote of their associates in the several departments of the business.

Every member of the Committee receives from his or her associates suggestions that bear on improving conditions in the plant, and then in committee meetings, which are held frequently, these suggestions are discussed frankly, and if by majority vote it is decided to make recommendations to the Official Family—it is done, there being present at all meetings a very able woman secretary who transcribes, in concrete form, the recommendations made.

Here is a case of workers selecting men and women from their own ranks to represent them in all important matters affecting their interests—and the members of the Committee of 32 have the complete confidence of their associates. Whatever the Committee votes to do is always satisfactory to the workers in all departments.

I was privileged to be present at one of the meetings of the Committee of 32. I heard both men and women stand on their feet and talk straight from the shoulder. There was no misunderstanding what they said. They knew what they wanted to say and they said it. They voted to make some recommendations to the officials.

Then they invited me to talk to them, which I was glad to do because I believe thoroughly in the idea that all problems and difficulties in business can be settled by the workers themselves if they will honestly and sincerely cooperate with one another and state their case frankly to the heads of the business.

After I had finished talking, the Committee of 32, by unanimous vote, elected me an honorary member—an honor that I prize very highly.

What is the result of all this, so far as the business of Wilson & Co. is concerned?

The first result—and the most important of all—is that the Committee of 32 succeeds in maintaining a splendid relationship between the workers and the officials. Mutual confidence and respect prevails continuously.

The second result—also very important—is that the speedy adoption by the officials of the recommendations made by the Committee of 32, puts the members on their honor and they make only such recommendations as are important. Trivial matters never get a majority vote in the Committee meetings.

The third result—also very important—is that the members of the Committee of 32 are more often concerned about making recommendations designed to benefit the business as a whole than they are about having something done to benefit themselves.

The Committee has brought about a condition of affairs which means contentment on the part of their associate workers and this, of course, makes them more efficient and more keen to serve the company honestly.

At the Committee meeting I attended one man had a good deal to say about the splendid work of the men in the Ham and Bacon departments—telling his associate members of their pride in producing the Certified Wilson Brands, and suggesting that every worker in every other department should make it a matter of personal honor to assist in the preparation of food products that will always justify the use of the slogan, "The Wilson Label Protects Your Table."

A woman, representing the Canned Goods department, informed the Ham and Bacon men that he and his associate workers were no prouder of their achievement in producing Certified Wilson Brands than she and her associate workers were in producing Certified Brands of Canned Meats, Vegetables, Fruits, Table Delicacies, etc.

So it goes. Workers are keyed up in every department to produce the finest and purest Food Products and they are just as proud of the Wilson & Co. slogan "The Wilson Label Protects Your Table," as Mr. Wilson is—and that means being some proud.

Sincerely, William C. Freeman,
250 Fifth Ave., New York City.

SECRETARY WILSON DOESN'T FEAR 'REDS'

Labor Department Head Says Workers Will Not Let Bolsheviki or I. W. W. Gain Foothold.

REPLIES TO HIS CRITICS

Denies Charge That He Has Used His Office to Advance Cause of Unions.

William B. Wilson, Secretary of Labor, in an address at the last of this season's luncheons of the United Waist League of America, at the Hotel McAlpin, yesterday attacked Bolshevism and the I. W. W., which, he said, are closely allied. He declared that not only will Bolshevism fail to gain a strong foothold in this country but that even American radicals will repudiate it when they come to understand that it means the autocracy of the few and virtual slavery of the many.

Secretary Wilson defended himself from attacks recently made on him wherein he was accused of using his office to organize workers into unions. Although he did not mention the criticism of William H. Barr, President of the National Founders' Association, who, in a statement published yesterday, spoke of him as "Secretary Wilson of the Department of Union Labor," his defense was taken by some of those present as a reply to Mr. Barr's criticism.

The Secretary said the Russian idea could gain no great strength in this country because the United States has developed further along the road of democracy than any other nation. He said it was difficult for Eastern and Central Europe to overcome their idea that force was necessary to progress, and pointed out that in the United States progress is made without force.

While the use of force to overthrow an autocracy might be the highest form of patriotism, he said, force to overthrow democracy was treason to the masses.

For two years, Mr. Wilson said, his department has been fighting the forces of Bolshevism and the I. W. W. "Bolshevism means the autocracy of the few," he continued. "They even speak of it being an autocracy of the proletariat. It is not that. The proletariat is not even considered. A few set themselves up as a self-appointed advance guard and permit only themselves to participate in the affairs of government. Those few undertake to rule all the rest, on the same theory that the Czar and the Kaiser undertook to rule, on the assumption of superior knowledge of the needs of the workers. Therefore, they say, the worker must obey them.

Coming to the charges against his department Mr. Wilson said: "We have been accused of being a trade union department, of promoting trade unions. I have no hesitancy in saying that I am a trade unionist. I was a wage worker all my life until I entered my official position.

"Just as you believe in organization, so do I believe in organization. I am a church member and belong to some fraternal organizations, but it does not follow that when I became a public official I held up my church as the one in which all should worship, or that I would bar all except my own fraternal organizations. I do not believe it is the function of the Government to build up either a trade union or a corporation, but to deal with them when they are found to exist, and when so to do is necessary for the welfare of the community as a whole.

"While I have anything to do with the Department of Labor I will utilize it to promote the welfare of all wage-earners, union and nonunion alike, with true regard to the remainder of the community."

M. Moscssohn, Executive Director of the league, presided. It was pointed out that the league had subscribed $2,273,750 to the Victory Loan. A bronze plaque was presented to Samuel A. Lerner, President of the league, in appreciation of his services.

16 RETURN OUT OF 1,000.

Over 500 Killed in Hardest Hit Regiment of National Guard.

PHILADELPHIA, May 12.—Bringing home from France thirty officers and 1,825 men of the 110th Infantry and three officers of the 108th Machine Gun Battalion, 28th Division, the transport Santa Olivia docked here today, and after a rousing reception the troops left on a special train for Camp Dix.

The 110th Infantry originally was made up of the 3d and 10th Regiments, Pennsylvania National Guard.

Of the 1,000 officers and men of the 3d Regiment who went to France, but six officers and ten men returned today, the others having been killed or sent home as casuals.

Major A. O. King of Altoona, in charge of the troops, said the 110th Infantry was "the hardest hit regiment in the National Guard divisions."

The regiment, he said, lost more than 500 in killed and evacuated more than 3,000 men.

Units of the 110th Infantry returning on the Santa Olivia were the medical detachments of the 2d and 3d Battalions and Infantry Companies F, G, H, J, K, L and M, no wincluding men from every State in the Union except Delaware.

SEEK NEWS OF SOLDIER.

Salvation Army Caring for Two Children of Wounded Man.

Men in soldiers' uniforms who pass the Salvation Army Children's Nursery and Infants' Hospital, 396 Herkimer Street, Brooklyn, are wistfully watched by tiny Jeannette Moshkin, "going on five" and her little brother, Sydney, not quite three. Officials of the institution desire any man of the 77th Division who knows what has happened to Private Joseph Moshkin, of the 30th Machine Gun Battalion, who last was heard of Oct. 1, 1918, to notify them. Moshkin is the father of the children. He took them to the home April 12, 1917, saying that they had no mother, and he wanted to enlist. Mrs. Emma D. Webb, the Superintendent, took them. Nothing more was heard from Moshkin until June 4, 1918, when Mrs. Webb received a letter from him, written from a New Zealand corps hospital in France. He had been wounded, he wrote, but was anxious to return to the firing line.

On Aug. 10, word came that he was back at the front. On Oct. 10, the home officials were notified that Moshkin had been severely wounded.

ALLEGES DICE WERE LOADED

Leon S. Gates Gives That as Reason for Failing to Pay Gambling Debt.

Papers in a suit filed in the Supreme Court against Leon S. Gates and others show that Gates, who was served with the complaint at the Hotel Gotham, alleges that he lost $3,000 in a game with loaded dice at White Sulphur Springs, W. Va., on April 15, 1918. The suit was brought by Avalda G. Lichenstein against Gates, Frank E. Perry, and John P. Prairie on a check drawn by Gates on a Cincinnati bank to the other two defendants and indorsed to the plaintiff. The check was protested when presented for payment.

The answer of Gates filed yesterday states hat Perry and Prairie induced him to "play at a game of chance with loaded dice," and that to aid them they "plied him with intoxicants." He alleges that under he laws of West Virginia, where the game was played, a check given under such circumstances is void.

ICEBERGS IN SHIP LANE.

Bergensfjord Reports Sighting Five on Voyage Here.

Officers of the Norwegian-American liner Bergensfjord, which arrived yesterday from Bergen and Christiania with passengers and freight, said they passed five large icebergs last Friday, in latitude 45:48 north, and longitude 46:57 west. One berg was 180 feet high and more than 1,000 feet long. It looked like a crystal island in the sunshine.

Some passengers on board had fled from Russia into Finland months ago to escape Bolshevism. They said they intended to stay in America, never to return, no matter what government should be in power. In their opinion the only way to deal with the Bolsheviki was with the sword.

HELD IN FARE DISPUTE.

Three Refuse to Pay Extra Nickel to Coney Island.

The three Borough Park Heights Civic Association members who were arrested Sunday for refusing to pay an extra nickel to get out of the West End terminus at Coney Island were held in $500 bail each on charges of disorderly conduct for a further hearing on May 20 by Magistrate O'Neill yesterday in the Coney Island Court. The men, contending that the B. R. T. has no right to charge an extra fare to Coney Island, now that its lines to this section are completed, said that they permitted themselves to be arrested to make a test case of the matter.

The men are Sidney Kaufman, 22, of 1,254 Forty-third Street; David Garon, 29, of 1,362 Forty-sixth Street, and Samuel Sorocki, 20, of 1211 Forty-first Street.

FORD IN COURT AS LIBEL SUIT OPENS

But Is Not Needed on First Day of $1,000,000 Action Against The Chicago Tribune.

JURY NOT YET COMPLETE

Talesmen Smile and One Is Startled When Asked Whether They Are Anarchists.

MOUNT CLEMENS, Mich., May 12.—The preliminary examination of seven members of the panel by counsel for the plaintiff marked today's progress in the $1,000,000 libel suit of Henry Ford against The Chicago Tribune.

Had it not been for a fleeting visit to court by the plaintiff himself, the opening day of the long-heralded trial would have been the veriest prose, but his advent, accompanied by his secretary and his son Edsel, produced the only stir of the day. Mr. Ford, finding that his presence was not necessary, remained only a few minutes and then returned to his home.

Mr. Ford's complaint is that on June 23, 1916, The Chicago Daily Tribune in an editorial injured him in his good name, credit, and reputation; brought him into public hatred, contempt, and ridicule and injured him in his feelings, business, and otherwise.

The Tribune, he alleges, did this by calling him "an anarchist," "an ignorant idealist," "an anarchist enemy of the nation," and as being "so incapable of thought that he cannot see the ignominy of his own performance."

The first words of the suit, even before members of the panel were called into the jury box for examination, were a clash. The four tables for the lawyers had been placed in a long row, with those for The Tribune lawyers the more distant from the jury box. Defendant counsel promptly dragged them nearer to the box and beween the Ford tables and the Judge. Counsel for Mr. Ford then complained that in addressing the Court The Tribune attorneys were inaudible to the opposing side. There were several sharp exchanges, which the Judge ended by saying there would be a conference on the subject later.

Counsel for the Solomon News Company of Detroit, which for technical reasons was made co-defendant with The Tribune, gave notice of a motion to change their plea from ignorance that the papers they circulated contained the alleged libel, to one of justification, which is the plea made by the Tribune. Hearing on the motion went over till morning.

Twelve men were then called into the jury box. Two were excused forthwith, one because of fainting spells and the other because he could not be spared from his farm.

Each of the seven men quizzed before adjournment grinned when asked if he was an anarchist.

John J. Sherman, formerly of Chicago, a retired business man of reputed wealth, was first examined. He looked startled when asked if he was an anarchist, but recovered and answered, "No."

It was explained that the Court did not intend to lock up the jurors at night, but would permit them to go to their homes. As some of them have many miles to drive, hours in court will be made as brief as possible, to give the farmers time to look after their livestock.

Mr. Ford arrived before the hearing began. He was told by Alfred Lucking, one of his attorneys, that it would be some time before the jury panel was brought in, and that he would not be needed.

"Well, The Tribune subpoenaed me, and I thought I would come," said Mr. Ford, "but there is a delegation from Ohio wants to see me today, and if it's all right, I'll go back and meet them."

Mr. Lucking reassured him, and the manufacturer left.

CALLS UNITED STATES 'PRUSSIA OF TOMORROW'

Brazilian Journalist Bitterly Assails This Country After Seven Months' Sojourn.

RIO JANEIRO, May 11.—An attack upon the United States is made by Madeiros de Albuquerque, generally regarded as one of the leading journalists of Brazil, in a long interview printed today in A Noite. Señor Albuquerque, who has just arrived from the United States, says:

"I return from the United States with much enthusiasm for England, Italy, France, Belgium, Japan, and, perhaps above all, Mexico."

He accuses the United States of "fomenting revolutions in Mexico," and says that "Brazil is considered by the United States only as a possible future colony." He adds:

"The United States wants to obtain as part of the payment of the debt of France and England a bond for Brazil's debts to those powers. On the day this is realized Brazil will be sold to the United States, which, on the first occasion we fail to met the interest, will do to us as she has done to Central American nations."

Señor Albuquerque belittles the part the United States took in the war, saying that the only American victory was the battle of St. Mihiel, which, he says, was "gained with English artillery and French aviation," and attacks the censorship, which he remarks has "prevented these and other facts from becoming known." He attacks the Monroe Doctrine and President Wilson, ridiculing the President's activities in the Peace Congress. He concludes by saying: "The United States incontestably is the Prussia of tomorrow."

WASHINGTON, May 12.—Proposals have been made at Paris by the British and French Governments that the United States accept as part payment for loans advanced them notes and bonds of some of the South American republics, including Brazil, which they hold. It was said here today that there had been no opposition to the plan, and that the United States had approved it because it would remove some of the interests of the European powers in the American continent, and thus accord with the principle of the Monroe Doctrine.

Commenting on the statement at Rio Janeiro by Madeiros de Albuquerque regarding this transfer of debts, State Department officials emphasized that there was no desire on the part of the United States to exert any influence on Brazil's internal affairs.

The attack on the United States by the Brazilian journalist caused surprise in official and diplomatic circles in Washington, it being pointed out that during his stay of seven months in this country he voiced no opinion of hostility and frequently expressed the friendship of Brazil for the United States. It was learned today at the Brazilian Embassy that while Mr. de Albuquerque was in New York he sent several dispatches to his paper praising the United States for its part in the war and its interest in Pan American affairs.

93 SHIPS BUILT IN APRIL.

Output of American Yards from Jan. 1 to May 7 Was 204.

WASHINGTON, May 12.—Shipbuilding this year has continued the fast pace set during the war. The Shipping Board announced today that from Jan. 1 to May 7 American yards turned out 204 steamships of 781,980 gross tons, all except 39 of which were of steel construction.

April was the banner month, the total deliveries being 93 ships of 320,280 gross tons, an increase of 57,000 tons over the record set last October.

TENANTS WIN RENT DECISIONS IN COURT

BUILDING PROPOSAL MADE

Mayor Urged to Ask Business Men for $10,000,000 Fund to Erect Homes.

Hundreds of rent cases were brought before various Municipal Court Justices yesterday, and only a small minority were decided against the tenant. Of 340 rent cases on the calendars of Part I. and II. of the Second District Municipal Court in the Bronx, 140 were adjusted out of court and 120 were decided in favor of the tenants or adjourned. In the remaining 80, warrants for eviction were issued.

In the Brownsville and East New York sections of Brooklyn the situation was still acute. In the Seventh District Court, before Justice Ferguson, 180 tenants received until Thursday to pay their rent or move. Of the 168 tenants in court last Friday, who had until today to pay or move, most of them have settled with their landlords.

In a letter to the Mayor's Committee on Rent Profiteering, Herbert R. Limberg, of the firm of Hirsch, Sherman & Limberg of 160 Broadway, suggests a plan to meet the situation. He says:

"My plan is for the Mayor to call an immediate meeting of the leading financial and business men of the city, officers of insurance companies and trust companies, and heads of civic organizations, such as the Merchants' Association, Fifth Avenue Association, the Broadway Association and the like, and request that they form a committee which will undertake a speedy and intensive campaign to raise a minimum of $10,000,000.

"The fund should be used under the supervision of such committee as the gentlemen select toward the immediate construction of tenements. The insurance and title companies should be requested to co-operate by making building and permanent loans equivalent to, say 50 per cent. or 60 per cent., of the actual cost of each building.

"A scale of rents should be fixed which would pay interest, water taxes, insurance, and operating expenses, plus a fixed percentage on the cost of the building—10 per cent. or 15 per cent.—which would create a reserve fund to take care of depreciation and difference in cost of material from possible lower cost in the future."

The State Reconstruction Commission made public the preliminary report of Miss Elizabeth Manning, manager of the Lenox Hill Settlement, which has made a survey of a typical block in the Sixties on the far east side.

LEAVES MILLION TO UPLIFT CITY

T. S. Harrison's Will Creates Fund to Punish Peculators and Improve Philadelphia Government.

Special to The New York Times.

PHILADELPHIA, Penn., May 12.—Close to $1,000,000 is bequeathed in the will of Thomas Skelton Harrison for a trust fund to be used in improving governmental conditions of Philadelphia. Mr. Harrison died last Saturday week at his home, 1,520 Locust Street. He formerly was Minister and Consul General to Egypt. He was a Civil War veteran and prominent as a manufacturer and art patron.

The testament, which was probated today, provides for a board of seven men to apply part of the income of the fund to procure honest and impartial enforcement of all contracts made by the city, for furnishing labor, erection of buildings and other public improvements, cleaning of streets, removal of garbage, furnishing water, gas, electricity or transportation facilities.

The board also is directed to make any expenditures necessary to obtain prompt prosecution and punishment of persons guilty of violating the provisions of city contracts or of peculation from the city, and to assist in the prosecution of frauds, including those committed against the election laws.

Another function of the board is to help the city departments install a modern system of municipal bookkeeping, and to facilitate the issuing of financial statements that can be readily understood by private citizens.

Mr. Harrison warned that the trust fund must not be used to favor any political party, or to procure the election of any candidate for public office.

The Trustees must be citizens of Pennsylvania, engaged in business in this city. One each is to be chosen by the Franklin Institute, Law Association, College of Physicians, City Club, Board of Trade, Board of City Trusts, and University of Pennsylvania.

GIFTS FOR OLD 69TH'S FUND

Boxes All Sold for the Metropolitan Opera House Benefit.

Among contributions from Judges and other officials at the Criminal Court Building yesterday to the Monument and Endowment Funds for the 165th Infantry, the old 69th Regiment, were $500 from Judge Rosalsky and $800 from Judge Mulqueen of General Sessions, representing their personal gifts and money raised by others and donated through the Judges. The monuments to the soldiers who died in action are to be erected in Calvary and Greenwood cemeteries, Brooklyn. The endowment is intended to provide temporary financial aid for veterans and their families.

The entertainment benefit for the fund is to take place at the Metropolitan Opera House on Thursday night. Judge Mulqueen, who is a member of the fund committee, and is to be one of the speakers, said all the opera boxes had been sold, two of them for $2,500 each. Chairman John J. Ryan of the Monument and Endowment Fund Committee, announced that Secretary of War Baker had been invited to attend to receive a duplicate stand of regimental colors, to be presented by Martin Conboy, director of the New York draft. Francis P. Garvan, Alien Property Custodian, will preside at the meeting.

TWO things happen when a merchandising and advertising campaign is successful.

First, there comes an increase in distribution and sales of product, which is followed by an increase in the stability, or often times an actual rise in the value of the securities of the corporation.

In the records of some of our clients it can be shown that there has been an increased volume of trade equal to from 100% to 300% since the time we first took part in the promotion work, while the stockholders have seen their shares increase in value in almost like proportion.

Careless Shampooing Spoils the Hair

Soap should be used very carefully, if you want to keep your hair looking its best. Most soaps and prepared shampoos contain too much alkali. This dries the scalp, makes the hair brittle, and ruins it.

The best thing for steady use is Mulsified cocoanut oil shampoo (which is pure and greaseless), and is better than anything else you can use.

One or two teaspoonfuls will cleanse the hair and scalp thoroughly. Simply moisten the hair with water and rub it in. It makes an abundance of rich, creamy lather, which rinses out easily, removing every particle of dust, dirt, dandruff and excessive oil. The hair dries quickly and evenly, and it leaves the scalp soft, and the hair fine and silky, bright, lustrous, fluffy and easy to manage.

You can get Mulsified cocoanut oil shampoo at any pharmacy, it's very cheap, and a few ounces will supply every member of the family for months.

DENY LEGION TOOK PRESIDENTIAL POLL

Lieut. Col. Roosevelt and Major Wickersham Dispute Duell's Account of Caucus.

BLOCKED STRAW-VOTE PLAN

Delegates Returning from St. Louis Say Newspaper Tried to Distribute Ballots.

Lieut. Col. Theodore Roosevelt, Major C. W. Wickersham, Hoffman Nickerson, and other delegates from this State to the American Legion caucus at St. Louis, who returned yesterday, disputed the statements made on Sunday by Charles H. Duell, Jr., Vice Chairman of the delegation, that the caucus went on record against the prohibition of light wines and beer, and that a poll showed 650 Republicans and 375 Democrats, the majority of whom were in favor of Major Gen. Leonard Wood as a Presidential candidate. The returning delegates plainly showed their displeasure toward Mr. Duell.

Major Wickersham, who is Chairman of the New York State delegation, issued a statement in which he declared that Mr. Duell's interview had no official standing. He said that it was particularly unfortunate that any political flavor should have been given to the caucus of the Legion, which was essentially nonpolitical and nonpartisan. He said in part:

"The statement to the effect that a straw vote taken at the St. Louis caucus of the American Legion indicated the veterans' preference for a Republican and Democratic nominee at the next national election is incorrect. No such vote was taken. It is true that an attempt was made by a St. Louis newspaper to obtain a straw vote of the delegates. This attempt was discovered before the ballots had been distributed and was brought to the attention of the Chairman. A motion was immediately made before the convention that all ballots of the kind be removed from the House and that the newspaper which had endeavored to inject politics into the caucus be rebuked for so doing. This motion was unanimously carried."

The nonpolitical and nonpartisan character of the caucus was also evidenced, Major Wickersham said, by the unanimous action of the 1,100 delegates in voting that no post of the Legion should be named in honor of a man still living, and in passing resolutions condemning Bolshevism, and demanding an investigation of the pardoning of conscientious objectors.

Colonel Roosevelt gave a similar version of the attempt made by a St. Louis newspaper to poll the caucus, and added that while it was true the New York delegates themselves passed resolutions in favor of permitting light wines and beer to be manufactured and offered for sale, the question had not been brought before the caucus.

Hoffman Nickerson, who was a former member of the Legislature, issued a statement similar in purport to that given out by Major Wickersham. Alfred N. Page, Secretary of the Connecticut delegation, and Donald Green, of the Massachusetts delegation, also criticised Mr. Duell's statements.

AIRPLANE OVERTURNS.

Army Aviators Escape Injury in Landing Accident.

FREEHOLD, N. J., May 12.—Major W. C. Ocker and Lieutenant C. H. Dauphin, aviators, flying from Mineola to Washington, miscalculated distance in attempting to descend today and volplaned into a rye field and turned turtle. The avitors escaped injury, but the machine was damaged.

Traveling at a height of 1,000 feet, Lieutenant Dauphin who was piloting the plane, mistook the waving field of rye for greensward and attempted to descend. The airplane landed in the grain and runnings a short distance turned over. Lieutenant Dauphin said that the heavy clouds made flying hard and he determined to alight and await more agreeable weather. The aviators telephoned to Camp Vail, at Little Silver, and a truck brought the damaged machine into camp.

The airplane used by the aviators recently made a successful flight from Chicago to New York. Starting from Washington to participate in the Victory Loan campaign in New York, the aviators made the distance in one hour and thirty-nine minutes. After the accident Major Ocker left for Washington, where he is stationed at Bolling Field.

'ROUND THE WORLD FLIGHT.

Speaker Makes Prediction in Talk at Air Congress.

Special to The New York Times.

ATLANTIC CITY, N. J., May 12.—Ralph H. Upson, winner of the 1913 international balloon race, who is just back from Europe, spoke tonight on overseas aerial progress before the second Pan-American Aeronautic Convention on the Steel Pier. Among those present was Glenn H. Curtiss, inventor of the NC seaplanes.

"Since 1911," said Mr. Upson, "improvements in the dirigible field have been more than 2,000 per cent. The war has stimulated the interest taken by manufacturers in the practical features of the giant 'blimp' for commercial purposes, and has had much to do with the refinements now in evidence. Despite the improvements of the last eight years, the end is not yet in sight. Right now the construction of a dirigible of 10,000,000 cubic feet hydrogen capacity is under consideration, and dirigibles of large carrying capacity, capable of a speed of 100 miles an hour, are realities of the near future."

Upson said Great Britain had outstripped other nations in dirigible construction. He said that while the largest "blimp" in the United States had a hydrogen capacity of 180,000 cubic feet, the British have constructed airships of more than 2,000,000 cubic feet capacity. He said Great Britain has under construction dirigibles of from 5,000,000 to 10,000,000 cubic feet capacity, such ships being capable of non-stop Cross-Atlantic flights. He predicted the next aerial project would be a trip around the world.

Lieutenant Joseph C. Stehlin of Brooklyn, today was credited with an altitude flight of 6,300 feet, after waiting five days for the right kind of weather. It was announced that several distance flights would be staged in the next few days. Captain R. B. Quick, first to attempt the Washington-Atlantic City trip in a seaplane, wired this evening that he had had to descend near Annapolis, Md., because of motor trouble. Lieutenant E. E. Ballough of the Royal Air Force, wired that he would soon essay a flight here from Toronto. Lieutenant G. R. Linton informed the convention officials that he would fly from Detroit by way of Cleveland, with Murdock Brown as a passenger, in a De Havilland plane.

POLICE ASK HELP TO FIND BOMB SENDERS

Enright Issues Offer of Reward After Department Fails to Develop Clues.

FEDERAL AGENTS ARE BUSY

Government Sleuths, It Is Said, Are Sifting Several Leads That Promise Results Shortly.

Admitting that two weeks of investigation had failed to bring out a single clue, the Police Department yesterday announced an offer of a substantial reward to anybody who would help them out in their search for the senders of the bombs recently dispatched to prominent men throughout the country. Although the New York sleuths seemingly need assistance, it was said yesterday that the Federal agents were hard at work sifting several promising leads in the case.

Police Department, City of New York.
Office of the Police Commissioner.
New York, May 12th, 1919.

The following is published for the information and guidance of all concerned:

A substantial reward is offered to members of the force, or others, who may furnish information that will lead to the arrest and conviction of any of the persons connected with the recent attempt to send bombs to several prominent citizens and public officials through the United States mail.

RICHARD E. ENRIGHT,
Police Commissioner.

Deputy Police Commissioner William J. Lahey is in charge of the Bomb Squad at work on the infernal machine outrage. Inquiry yesterday at his office met with the response that Commissioner Lahey had left for the day, and the usual absence of knowledge of official acts prevailed throughout the building.

Clean Teeth Impossible in a Polluted Mouth

Then why should you brush the surface of your teeth, to make them brilliant in front, and permit the whole interior of your mouth to remain unclean and the prey of germs?

Kolynos Dental Cream does not only mechanically polish your teeth. It does not simply relieve an acid condition of the mouth and remove films in which germs thrive. These offices it performs to perfection, but it also neutralizes and washes away quantities of acid-producing and pus-forming organisms and does this so thoroughly that even for a considerable time their spores cannot quickly develop and renew pernicious activity.

In this way it cleanses and purifies the gums, the tongue, and all the soft tissues of the mouth with which it comes in contact, and this is the reason why the Kolynos user says: "How clean my mouth feels!" Get Kolynos of any druggist.

Five Times Faster than the Fastest Flying Fingers

Not only can the "Royal" Typewriter work five times as fast as your typist types, but its exclusive features bring a positive speed advantage to the operator.

One feature is a really adjustable touch. A few turns of a simple thumb screw tunes the tension of the entire keyboard to match exactly one's personal touch,—light, heavy, or snappy. Your typist knows best what an aid this is.

Another feature is the "Royal" accelerating typebar, the fastest, strongest ever invented. Gaining speed continuously as it flashes to the printing point, it proves its cumulative time-saving by the greater daily volume produced.

Phone for a "Royal" demonstration—note the clear-cut letterpress beauty of the type impression—find out about the eighteen other features and the extra years of service the "Royal" gives. You will then know why this machine that ends the trading-out evil is the logical choice—as it has been of big business everywhere.

SEES THE BOY SCOUT A FORCE FOR PEACE

Gen. Baden-Powell Expects the Movement to Bring Nations Together in Understanding.

STIRS INTEREST IN IDEALS

Lady Baden-Powell Here with Husband to Forward the Girl Scout Organization.

Lieut. Gen. Sir Robert S. S. Baden-Powell, who has come to this country to stimulate interest in the organization of the Girl Scouts of America, said yesterday that he believed one of the best guarantees of the idea of the League of Nations would be universal interest in the boy and girl scout movement in all countries. General Baden-Powell originated the scout movement in England in 1908, after he had retired from active service in the British Army. army.

"If peoples throughout the world were in real accord, and a real personal sympathy, based upon knowledge of peoples and problems, existed among them, the possibilities of wars would be greatly reduced," said Sir Robert. "There has been no way of bringing peoples and nations together, and much of the lack of sympathy and understanding has been due to lack of knowledge.

"The boy and girl scout organizations stimulate interest in the ideals and ideas of other peoples, and we have boys in England and this country writing letters to boys in China, Japan and other countries, and, in that way, becoming acquainted with them, their customs and ideals. That is one of the fundamentals of the success of the League of Nations."

During the war the English Boy Scouts and the girls' organization, called the Girl Guides, contributed greatly to the defense of the country and to the comfort of the soldiers and sailors, General Baden-Powell said. Within two days after the beginning of the war they had taken the places of 30,000 members of the Coast Guard and throughout the war kept a continuous watch for air raiders and submarines off the coast. Their activities resulted in the capture and destruction of at least four submarines, General Baden-Powell said, and timely warnings to the cities in several air raids. Members of the crews of watchers received rewards for sighting submarines and hostile craft.

General Baden-Powell will confer with scout officials here this week and a rally will be held for him in the Sheep Meadow, in Central Park, on Saturday afternoon at 4 o'clock. He is accompanied by Lady Baden-Powell, leader of the British Girl Guides.

ENGLISH IN ALL SCHOOLS.

Claxton Tells Conference Importance of This Method.

WASHINGTON, May 12.—How to make citizens of foreign-born residents of the United States was discussed today at the opening session of a four-day Americanization Conference, held under the auspices of the Interior Department.

Use of English in all schools—public, private, and parochial—was urged by P. P. Claxton, Commissioner of Education, who declared that without a knowledge of the language spoken in this country no person could become an American.

Charles F. Towne of the Massachusetts Bureau of Education, emphasized the importance of oral over written English to give the alien the ability to communicate with Americans directly, to exchange ideas, and learn their customs. Mr. Towne said the ability to write English would follow naturally.

Two American inventions were described as helpful in turning immigrants into citizens. One was the phonograph, which W. A. Willson of New York said had taught many foreign-born soldiers to sing American songs after hearing them on camp talking machines. The other was the stereopticon. H. D. Rickard told of the experiment in the Syracuse, N. Y., schools, where the latter machine, he said, had been used successfully to give needed objective work to beginners of English.

Discussion of night schools, on which many immigrants depended for what education they receive after arriving in America, occupied much of the day's conference. While admitting the value of such schools, F. V. Thompson, Superintendent of Schools of Boston, declared that day schools also should be maintained for aliens, in fact that school sessions should be virtually continuous. By having morning, afternoon, and evening classes, he said, the schools would reach many night workers, and especially many women, who now had no opportunity to attend, and perhaps also would benefit others too tired to study in the evening.

The social unit organization of Cincinnati, where social workers live among the people they are trying to reach, and the Kalamazoo experiment of pooling the resources of a city's industries for the purpose of teaching English to their foreign employes, were described at tonight's session.

SAVES LIFE BY HARD SWIM.

Yachtsman Struggles in Vain to Help Companion.

Harry C. Hall, a consulting engineer and yachtsman of 225 West Sixty-ninth Street, saved his life by swimming a quarter of a mile through the icy waters of Long Island Sound when he and August Bradstrom were thrown in the water by the overturning of a yacht tender on Sunday afternoon, near Mamaroneck. After getting ashore and finding a boat he sought to save Bradstrom, whom he had left clinging to the tender, but Bradstrom had drowned. Bradstrom was a watchman at a shipyard at Mamaroneck. Mr. Hall, who assisted in the continued search to recover the body, returned to his home last night, and told how the accident occurred.

At the time he was taking the tender of his yacht, which is undergoing repairs at Mamaroneck, to the Horse Shoe Yacht Club at Larchmont, two miles south on the Sound. Hall was rowing and Bradstrom was bailing a little seepage from the boat when the craft was suddenly capsized. Hall, garbed in Winter clothing, except overcoat, and wearing heavy shoes with soles a half inch thick, accomplished his remarkable struggle to reach shore in fifteen minutes.

After Hall staggered ashore he went to the shipyard, got a rowboat and started back to the rescue of Bradstrom. The watchman, however, had started to swim to shore by a nearer point than the route taken by Hall, but against a heavy current, and he was carried under before he had covered half the distance. The Chief of Police of Mamaroneck and others were rowing toward Bradstrom when he went down and they searched that part of the waters without locating the body. It is supposed that the current swept the body toward the Sound channel. The capsized boat was recovered and taken to the yacht club.

Dr. Blake Resumes Practice.

Dr. Joseph A. Blake has issued cards to members of the medical profession announcing that he has associated himself with Dr. Percy R. Turnure and has established an office at Dr. Turnure's house, 55 West Forty-ninth Street. Major Turnure recently returned from abroad, where he had charge of an ambulance division in the American Army. The equipment for the division was presented to the Government through Dr. Turnure's efforts. Dr. Blake's work will be largely consultatory.

THIS list includes only trucks whose records we know of. There are many others. They roll up mileage years after the best ordinary truck is worn out. In the long run, White Trucks involve less investment. Fewer units are required to do the work. They put off the day when new trucks replace them. Operating and maintenance costs are also lowered by the steady volume of performance which makes possible these high mileage records. White Trucks Are Money Savers.

GIVES HIGH PRAISE TO MT. SINAI UNIT

LAUDED BY RED CROSS

Col. Connor Also Urges That Personnel Be Maintained for Future Emergency.

The Board of Trustees of Mount Sinai Hospital made public yesterday letters received by them from M. W. Ireland, Surgeon General of the United States Army, and from Colonel C. H. Connor, Assistant Director General of Military Relief of the American Red Cross, commending the work done by the Mount Sinai Unit Base Hospital No. 3, of which Major Howard Lilienthal was director.

"I take this opportunity to express my appreciation of the invaluable services rendered the nation by this splendid organization," Surgeon General Ireland states.

"It is earnestly recommended that effective measures be taken by you to keep the organization of your unit intact and that every effort be made to imbue its future personnel with the fine esprit to be expected in the possessors of the glorious heritage of splendid achievement handed down from the Great War by the original personnel of Base Hospital No. 3."

"It is a great satisfaction to the American Red Cross to have been able, through the patriotic assistance of your institution, to render such service to our Government. The American Red Cross extends its thanks and congratulations to every member of Base Hospital No. 3 and to the Mount Sinai Hospital, which was able to put such an excellent unit into the service of the country.

"The American Red Cross earnestly seconds the wish of the Surgeon General that you will keep this organization intact for any future emergency that may arise, and it is believed that the personnel of Base Hospital No. 3 will also wish to keep the unit together and to keep alive, for all time, the fine spirit of those who, as the original members of this hospital, made this record of achievement possible."

American Guard Killed at Nice.

NICE, France, May 12.—Two American military policemen were attacked by a gang on Sunday night and one of the policemen, Herbert Larsen, was wounded fatally. Five revolver shots were fired point blank at the policemen, three of them striking Larsen, who died several hours later. The aggressors have not yet been arrested.

RED CROSS LEAGUE PRAISED BY PRESIDENT

Inspired by Same Purpose That Moved the Formation of the League of Nations, He Says.

PARIS, May 12, (Associated Press.)—The League of Red Cross Societies of the World, which has been formed to unite relief efforts, is inspired by the same purpose that moved the formation of the League of Nations, President Wilson declared in a letter written to H. P. Davison, who worked out the plans for the Red Cross League. The letter, which was made public today, reads:

"My Dear Mr. Davison.

"Permit me to congratulate you and your associates representing the Red Cross societies of the United States, Great Britain, France, Italy, and Japan, upon the formation of a league of Red Cross Societies designed to unite the Red Cross societies of the world in active co-operation against the miseries which arise from disease and disaster.

"I know that the formation of the league marks the achievement of a plan cherished by you for many months, a plan with which I had an instinctive sympathy when you broached it to me upon its inception in your thoughts, not only because it promised a development of Red Cross usefulness, but also because I saw in it a kindred purpose to that which inspired us with the design of the League of Nations—a purpose to draw all people into concerted action for the welfare of the world.

"Although the League of Red Cross Societies has no formal affiliation with the League of Nations, it is so obviously conceived in the spirit of the League that we incorporated its purposes in an article of the covenant. I know that both your committee and the International Committee of the Red Cross purpose an organic union as soon as the temper of the world will permit.

"I wish all speed to that consummation, both for the promotion of Red Cross activity and for the prompt attainment of the time when peace and good-will shall be written in men's hearts as plainly as it is now being written in their covenants.

"Cordially and sincerely yours,
(Signed) "WOODROW WILSON."

WILSON'S MESSAGE TO CONGRESS SHORT

Will Reserve Peace Treaty and Proposed Alliance with France for Personal Presentation.

PARIS, May 11, (Associated Press.)—President Wilson's message, which will be cabled to Congress on May 19, is expected to be exceptionally short. It is said it will not submit the complete text of the peace treaty or the proposed Franco-American engagement for joint military action against Germany, both these subjects being reserved for personal presentation on the President's return.

The President's nearest associates said today that they were unable to account for the reports published in the French newspapers fixing June 15 as the date for the President's departure, and reports cabled from the United States that he would reach Washington by June 13. They said the President's plans had undergone no change and were still dependent upon the signing of the treaty.

PLANS A CAVELL HOSPITAL.

Col. Depage, Belgian Surgeon, to Found Memorial at Brussels.

Colonel Antoine Depage of the Belgian Army and a prominent surgeon of that country, announced at the Waldorf-Astoria yesterday his plan to build at Brussels a memorial hospital to bear the names of Edith Cavell, the martyred English nurse, and of Mme. Marie Depage, his wife, who was active in educational work and who lost her life when the Lusitania was sunk. Colonel Depage, who is Professor of Surgery at the University of Brussels and head of the Belgian Red Cross, conducted a hospital at Vincken, on the Yser, during the war.

Nurse Cavell was a personal friend of the Colonel and his wife. For eight years before the war she was the matron of Colonel Depage's private clinic at Brussels. She also became the head of the school for nurses which Mrs. Depage founded in Brussels.

"Already there has been a fund started in England, headed by Lloyd George, to defray half of the expense of the hospital," said Colonel Depage. "Belgium is too poor to contribute all of the other half, and it is my hope that I will be able to interest America, to some extent, in the project."

Colonel Depage is here to thank the people of America, and particularly the American Red Cross, for the relief given his country and to strengthen the bonds of friendship between scientific men of the allied countries.

ARMY READY TO FINISH JOB

But B. F. Finney Finds Men Anxious to Return Home.

PHILADELPHIA, Penn., May 10.—"Home" is the key to the heart of every man in the American Army of Occupation, according to Benjamin F. Finney, chief secretary of the Army and Navy Department of the Brotherhood of St. Andrew, who has just returned from a trip of hundreds of miles through the camps on the other side. He went to France on a special mission to determine whether the Brotherhood of St. Andrew would send more personal workers among them.

"This great love of the American soldier for home and the homeland," said Mr. Finney, "is one of the many things which the French admire in our men. Despite this longing for home, however, there is a wonderful spirit in the Army of Occupation. Even though they all want to come home I have had hundreds of them tell me that if by staying over there just a little longer meant finishing the job right so they would never have to come back or that those who live after them would never have to come back they are glad to stay to finish the job."

International TRUCKS

Steady Service At Low Operating Costs

International Trucks are in use today by 178 lines of American business—and many of the most experienced truck users are standardizing on Internationals.

Made by the International Harvester Company of America, International Trucks deliver real truck service at remarkably low operating costs.

The exceptional service delivered by International Trucks is due to the mechanical simplicity of the International, to the sturdy engine and the famous internal gear drive.

Call any of these users on the telephone and get the facts direct from them.

International 1½ and 2 ton Trucks—now on Exhibition in our salesrooms—are daily receiving the interested scrutiny of close buyers.

International Trucks are simple in construction, and built to deliver practical service. They run better and more cheaply on the roads than most trucks do on paper.

See the International—you'll like its mechanical simplicity, its business-like appearance, and you'll like its performance.

Complete data cheerfully furnished regarding truck costs in your line of business.

If this is to be your year get a Maxwell

THERE are untold numbers in America who have felt Old Man Opportunity slap them on the back in the last four months. This is to be their year.

If you be one of them let your mind turn to a larger, more luxurious car—a Maxwell, equipped with every modern device, better looking, better riding.

Give your pride the treat it has looked forward to. Get a self-starting, demountable rim automobile. Get a car that expresses yourself.

A Maxwell costs no more to run or maintain. It gives you many extras in comfort and ease of mind.

Many of the richest men in America drive Maxwells.

They appreciate the 300,000-all-alike idea behind the Maxwell. They know that a chassis which has withstood a manufacturing "run" of 300,000 in 5 years without radical change means a perfection in motor car development.

If your pride could talk it would say:

"Get a Maxwell."

82D DIVISION TROOPS HERE

Every State in the Union Is Represented in Arriving Units.

More than 3,000 soldiers arrived yesterday from France on the transports Alaskan and Arcadia. Nearly all of them belonged to units of the 82d Division, and with their replacements represented every State in the Union. The troops on the Alaskan included the 319th Field Artillery Headquarters and Supply companies, ordnance, medical and veterinary detachments, and Batteries A to F, inclusive, which were under the command of Major Howard E. Davis of Oak Grove, Ala., a lumber dealer, who rose from the rank of Second Lieutenant. He said that nearly 50 per cent. of the men came from the Metropolitan district.

Among the 1,024 officers and men on the transport Arcadia, which landed at Bush Stores, South Brooklyn, was the 307th Ammunition Train, several casual companies, and casual officers under the command of Lieut. Col. Harold Blanchard of Boston, Mass.

RUNS WITHOUT A FRANCHISE

Five-Cent-Fare Fight Reveals Yonkers Railroad's Lack of Authority.

Special to The New York Times.

WHITE PLAINS, N. Y., May 12.—Supreme Court Justice Morschauser after hearing testimony in the fight made by the Five-Cent-Fare Association of Yonkers to compel the Yonkers Railroad Company to reduce its fare from 10 to 5 cents outside the city limites directed the attorneys to submit briefs.

It developed that the company obtained the consent of the Aldermen to increase the fare because it would have to abandon many of its lines unless the increase was granted, which would have resulted in great hardship to the people of Yonkers.

Leverett F. Crumb, former counsel for the Yonkers Railroad Company, testified that the corporation never had a franchise to operate outside the City of Yonkers except to Hastings. Charles H. Vandervilt, Assistant Engineer of the Bureau of Franchises of New York, said the Yonkers Corporation had no franchise to run cars in New York City.

YANKEES AND WASHINGTON AGAIN FAIL TO REACH DECISION IN LONG DRAWN GAME

YANKS BATTLE 15 INNINGS IN VAIN

Play 4-to-4 Tie with Washington in Second Overtime Contest Staged in Two Days.

PRATT LETS GAME SLIP

Bad Throw in Ninth Enables Senators to Even Up Score—Huggins Put Off Field for Disputing Play.

The stationary Yankees and the immovable Washington Senators put in another long, profitless afternoon yesterday at the Polo Grounds and played a fifteen inning tie game, at 4 to 4. The Yanks cannot lose a game any more in nine innings, to say nothing of winning one. Yesterday's game, like Sunday's twelve-inning contest, should have been played to a decision. Umpire Brick Owens called it after the fifteenth, when there was as much light as there was earlier in the afternoon. Owens might have called it because he was hungry. The Yankee ball players weren't in favor of stopping. They wanted to go to a decision.

The Yanks and Senators face a peculiar situation. Not a game has been decided in the present four-game series. There were two postponements and the two games played resulted in tie scores. This brings about a series of ten straight games between the clubs here and in Washington early in July. They will have to play ten games in six days.

The Yanks had the game won when Del Pratt threw it away in the first of the ninth. There was a double play laid out before him, and with plenty of time at his disposal he made a wild heave to first in trying to complete the play, and Washington tied the score. And that is not all. In that same inning, Gharrity, the Washington catcher, burglarized the game right away from under the Yankees' eyes. He stole home and put Washington in front.

This play caused a lot of talk, more excitement, and a lot of hard feelings. As Gharrity slid into the plate, he and Muddy Ruel, the Yankees' catcher, became entwined like a couple of wrestlers. Umpire Owens called Gharrity out. The Washington club rushed en masse at the umpire, and called his attention to the fact that Ruel had dropped the ball. Owens then did an unusual thing for an umpire. He admitted that he might be wrong. He admitted that he didn't see Ruel drop the ball. For admitting anything, Owens leaves himself open to expulsion by the Umpires' Union. One of their most important by-laws is, never to admit anything. An umpire is supposed to see everything, hear everything, and know everything.

Owens Reverses Decision.

Owens, completely surrounded by animated conversation, called upon the field umpire, Bill Dineen, and asked him if he saw Ruel drop the ball. Dineen said he did, so Owens reversed his decision and allowed the run, which put Washington in the lead at 4 to 3. This decision acted as a stimulant to Manager Miller Huggins of the Yankees. He rushed up to Owens and punctuated his oration by pounding his hands on the umpire's chest protector. Owens regarded this as an invitation on the part of Huggins to fight. It took Hug a long time to explain that he wasn't fighting, but was only talking. Owens told the New York manager to talk with his mouth, and not with his fists, but that argument took the debaters off the subject at hand. Before they ever got back to the question as to whether Ruel did or did not drop the ball, Owens ordered Huggins right off the lot. Although all the Yankees took part in the fracas, Huggins was the only casualty reported.

The Yankees came back in their half of the ninth and scored a run, which tied the score. Then the teams played along several innings, the Yankees overlooking several fine opportunities to win. A crowd of less than 2,500 say the game, many of them soldier and sailor guests.

Allen Russell pitched well enough to win, and he would have won, too, if Pratt hadn't spilled the apple sauce in the ninth. Shaw, Doc Ayres, and Harper did the flinging for Washington. Ayres was the worst of the trio, for while he was pitching in the last half of the ninth he filled the bases and then handed out another base on balls which pushed over the run which tied the score. It was one of those exasperating games, when the wrong thing happened at the right time.

Halas, the gob from the Great Lakes, played in right field, and, as he struck out three times, it was taken for granted that his name is pronounced to rhyme with alas.

The Senators plucked the first run. Rice singled to centre in the second, went down on Gharrity's sacrifice, and scored on Thompson's single to left. The Yankees went to the front in the fifth. Baker singled to left and Pratt was thrown out at first by Janvrin. Duffy Lewis spanked a single to centre, scoring Baker. Bodie got an infield tap and Foster heaved the ball wild to second to force Lewis, and Duffy proceeded to third. Foster threw Ruel out at first, Lewis scoring. Gharrity tried to catch Bodie off second, but threw wild, and Ping went to third. Russell fanned for the third out.

Pratt Lets Game Slip.

Another Yank run came in the sixth. With one out, Peckinpaugh doubled to centre, and, after Pipp popped to Foster, Baker singled and sent Peck home. So the Yanks had the game by a comfortable margin of 3 to 1 when the Senators came to the bat in the first half of the ninth. Joe Judge, the New York boy who plays first for Griffith's club, greeted Russell in the ninth with a home run which bounded against a post high in the upper stand in right field.

That slap didn't do Russell any good, and Foster got an infield hit. Shanks sacrificed him to second, and Rice got a pass. Then came the play which would have ended the game right there if Del Pratt had taken his time.

Gharrity rolled the ball to Peck, who made a quick toss to Pratt and forced Rice at second. Pratt had plenty of time to complete the double play at first, but he pegged the ball into the dirt and Foster scored with the tieing run. Gharrity skipping around to third before the ball was recovered. While Russell was winding up his supple arm Gharrity suddenly jumped down the third base line and, doubling up like a jackknife, hurled himself at the plate. It was taking a long chance, and he and Ruel were rolled up together like a cruller. Umpire Owens then made the decision which got Manager Huggins all het up.

GALLIA LOSES TO CHICAGO.

His Wildness Gives White Sox 4 to 3 Victory Over Browns.

CHICAGO, May 12.—Although outbatted by St. Louis today, the Chicago Americans won the game, 4 to 3, by taking advantage of Gallia's wildness. His three bases on balls combined with his error in the second inning gave the White Sox two runs on one hit.

Captain Collins of the Sox, strained a tendon in his right leg, and will be out of the game several days.

DOYLE'S HOME RUN WINS FOR GIANTS

Tie Broken in Tenth and Late Rally by Dodgers Stopped in Nick of Time.

The Giants spiked a tenth-inning Brooklyn uprising yesterday at Ebbets Field, and administered their second successive defeat to the league-leading Robins. The parting slap was measured by 3 to 2. About 5,000 persons braved the dismal weather to see the conflict, and two-thirds of the crowd went home disgruntled when the third out was made in the tenth frame with what looked like Brooklyn's winning runs on second and third.

Twice during the pastime old Dame Opportunity knocked on the Brooklyn door, but each time the fickle damsel was sent away without even a nod of recognition. The chances came through Lew McCarty, the Giants' backstop. Lew had a terrible day. He tried hard to give the Robins the game with preposterous pegs, but luck was with the Giants, and stayed with them to the finish. Lew twice heaved the ball in the direction of first base, but his idea of the location of the bag was that it was further removed toward right field. The result was that two Robins were safe when they should have been easy outs. One of McCarty's unlawful heaves came in the seventh, and assisted materially in placing the Robins ahead of McGraw's players. In the tenth Lew made another illegal throw, and almost gave Brooklyn the game. A double play, however, with the bases crowded to capacity, averted the impending disaster. The example set by McCarty had the whole Giants' defense upended, and for a time caused a sinking in the hearts of the few Giants fans who journeyed by the underground route to the Flatbush ballyard. Hal Chase committed a fielding misdemeanor, and others were made by Ross Young, Heinie Zimmerman, and Barnes.

Jess Barnes worked hard throughout the game, and despite the crumpling defense about and around him, neid the Robins in check. He allowed five hits, and them well scattered. Errors just when they were calculated to do the Robins the most good, came near nullifying all of Jess's good work. The Giants started against Rube Marquard and treated the big left-hander so unceremoniously up to the eighth inning, when the tying run was scored by Burns, that Manager Robinson decided Rube had worked long enough against his former teammates and replaced him with Grimes. A fan in a box back of the Robins' dugout didn't like the idea of relieving Marquard and opened up a tirade on Manager Robinson, which continued intermittently thereafter to the end of the game.

Grimes allowed only two hits, but one of them happened to be Doyle's fly to base that wallop in the tenth and that was sufficient. The bitter rivalry between the two teams came near breaking out in a display of fisticuffs in the ninth inning when both teams were fighting and riding each other tooth and nail. Grimes is serving his first few times at the plate and one of Burleigh's offerings whisked by close to his rival's cranium. Barnes ducked in time and, regaining his feet, started threateningly for Grimes, bat in hand. After about seven paces Barnes reconsidered and returned to the plate.

The Robins jumped into the lead in the first inning. Olson belted Barnes's first offering to centre for a single and took second when Barnes slipped on the wet turf, fielding Magee's hit to the box. A skied to Griffith, a mix-up between Myers and Griffith gave Benny Kauff a two-base rap. Benjamin popped up a high fly which gained the immediate attention of the two Robin outfielders. A crash was imminent and was averted only when Hy and Tommy stepped in their dashes to debate who should make the catch. Meanwhile the ball fell harmlessly between them and Kauff pulled up at second. Nothing happened, however, for Benny was touched out on the way to third when Zimmerman grounded to Lew Malone.

In the seventh the Giants' defense crumpled like tissue paper and the Robbins again forged to the front. Zach Wheat beat out a hit to Fletcher. Myers dumped a sacrifice bunt in front of the plate and was safe when McCarty heaved the ball high over Chase's head. In trying for Wheat at second Barnes threw the ball to center field and Zach went to third. Konetchy drew a pass, filling the bases, and then Malone filed to Young. Kruger forced Myers at third, Wheat scoring. Ernie was safe at first when Chase dropped Zimmerman's throw on an attempt for a double play. Marquard then forced Krueger at second for the third out.

The Giants got the run back in the eighth before Marquard was sent to the showers. Burns singled to centre and rode home on Young's triple to left centre. Then Marquard was lifted and replaced by Grimes. Burleigh fanned Chase. On Doyle's grounder to Magee Young was killed off at the plate. Larry went to second on Kauff's blow to Olson, but Benny was forced for the third out.

In the tenth Larry Doyle's home run drive over the right field wall put the Giants in front and everybody started for home. Manager Robinson had a surprise up his sleeve, however, and the outbound crowd halted. Jimmy Johnston was relieved of bench-warming duty and sent in to bat for Grimes. Jimmy responded by beating out a hit to Zimmerman. The Brooklyn rally was on. Olson was instructed to sacrifice and tried to, but McCarty for the second time heaved wildly to first and but for good backing by Doyle the throw might have caused havoc. As it was Johnston was safe on second and Olson on first, when Magee beat out a tantalizing roller along the first base line, filling the bags. Doyle, playing in on the turf, then caught a hot liner off Griffith's bat and quickly doubled Magee at first.

There followed a discussion among the whole Giant infield as to just what should be done with Zach Wheat. Some were for passing him and others for giving him a crack at the ball. There was a majority for the latter plan and the players resumed their positions. Wheat then popped weakly to Fletcher for the third out, sending Brooklyn's hopes down in the dust.

PENN RALLY IS FUTILE.

Special to The New York Times.

PHILADELPHIA, May 12.—Princeton's baseball nine won from Pennsylvania on Franklin Field this afternoon by 4 to 2. Johnny Titzel, Penn's star pitcher, lasted only two innings. After the Tigers sent two counters over in the second Harvey took up the hurling and kept the visitors from crossing the plate until the eighth, when they marked up another pair. Penn rallied in the ninth inning and scored two runs.

Trimble started the Tiger offensive in the second with a single to left. Bauhan rolled to Titzel, whose throw to second to force Trimble was wide and both Princeton runners were safe. After Rogers popped to Sweeney, H. A. Harvey walked, filling the bases. Keyes, who played a sterling game for the Tigers at short, slammed a double to left, Trimble and Baugh scoring.

Trimble inaugurated the eighth by beating out a hit. He skipped to second on Baughn's sacrifice. Bohan fumbled Thompson's roller, and Trimble went to third on the error. H. A. Harvey's long sacrifice fly to Peters brought Trimble home. Thompson went to second on the throw in. He scored on a single by Keyes. This was the end of Princeton's scoring.

With the figures 4 to 0 against them the Penn team rallied. Mike Sweeney applied the spark of life with a double to left field as a starter. Warwick helped along the Penn cause with a single to right, on which Sweeney crossed the plate with the first Penn tally. Danny McNichol gave the rally impetus with a single to left. Herman Harvey popped to Kirkland, and Warwick was forced at third. Bohan singled to right, and when Catcher Trimble allowed Raleigh's peg to the plate to roll between his legs to the south stand, McNichol scored.

NEW HAVEN BEATS YALE.

One Bad Inning Costs Collegians Contest by 4 to 1 Score.

Special to The New York Times.

NEW HAVEN, Conn., May 12.—Yale lost a baseball game today to the New Haven Eastern leaguers, 4 to 1. Cox, who held the Giants to seven hits, lasted three innings. Tillman, formerly of St. Louis, Stringer and Courtney, formerly of the Phillies, divided the game in the box for the professionals. Bull, formerly of the Giants, was in left field and Claude Davidson of St. Louis on third base.

The New Havens had a dozen base runners marooned through the fast fielding of the collegians. The best fielding was contributed by Raymond, the former Philadelphia second baseman, who negotiated two double plays.

Score by innings:

COLUMBIA NINE BEATEN.

Special to The New York Times.

HANOVER, N. H., May 12.—Dartmouth's fast traveling nine took Columbia into camp this afternoon by a score of 5 to 2, playing superior baseball in every inning except the first. It was the fifth straight victory for "Cuddy" Murphy in the box for the Green. Bruce, the Dartmouth centre fielder, featured the contest by his all-around work, cutting off runs in three innings with spectacular catches.

The score by innings:

ROYAL ARCH EASILY WINS STEEPLECHASE

PIMLICO, Md., May 12.—"Uncle" Billy Garth, who manages and trains the jumpers owned by Ral Parr, was again showered with congratulations this afternoon, for without doubt when Royal Arch easily carried the Parr colors to victory in the Emerson Steeplechase he completed a run of success that never has been equaled by any other owner or trainer. Royal Arch made the seventh winner that Mr. Garth has saddled at this meeting in races through the field, and in only one steeplechase has the Parr candidate finished anywhere but in first place, and on that exceptional occasion the bearer of the Parr colors finished second. In addition to this remarkable record of the jumpers the Parr two-year-olds have captured many events, showing that the skill of the Virginia trainer is not confined to preparing horses for the jumps.

The numerous victories of the stable were sufficient to make Royal Arch a strong favorite even though there were ten jumpers with fair reputations in the field. It was not all smooth sailing for Royal Arch, but he was always in a good position, being second to Smithfield while that jumper was racing out in front for the first half of the journey. In attempting to scurry over the eleventh fence in too much of a hurry Smithfield unshipped his rider and that left Royal Arch in command. North Star, which had been rated well back of the leaders, made his run along the backfield on the second turn of the course and for a few strides threatened Royal Arch. There was a sharp struggle on the final turn and then Royal Arch drew away to win easily by four lengths. After safely passing the judges Royal Arch ran into a spectator on the infield and fell down, but neither rider nor horse was injured.

George W. Loft scored his first success with a two-year-old this season when On Watch, a son of Colin Rubie Grande, easily defeated a small field in the fourth race. Dr. Hall, a sensational winner at the Havana meeting, had speed enough to hold On Watch for the first quarter of a mile, but rounding the turn On Watch raced his opponent into submission and drew away to win very cantering by three lengths. On Watch is a fine looking youngster, but like Papp, which made such a great reputation in the Loft colors as a two-year-old, is inclined to be fractious at the barrier. He broke well, however, and was quick to get into his running.

The summaries:

FIRST RACE.—For maiden two-year-olds; selling; four and a half furlongs. Bibbler, 104 pounds, (Ambrose, $10, $5.50, and $4, won; The Wit, 108, (Johnson,) $13.20 and $6.90, second; Little Alexander, 110, (Corey,) $4.20, third. Time—0:58. Fastep, Toucanet, Miss Stathem, and Oram Reed also ran.

SECOND RACE.—For three-year-olds; claiming; six furlongs. Toadstool, 99 pounds, (Stapleton,) $7.40, $4.40, and $3.70, won; Balarosa, 112, (Ball,) $11.30 and $8.10, second; Syrdarya, 112, (E. Haynes,) $16

NET STARS ADVANCE IN HARLEM TOURNEY

77 PLAYERS ARE ENTERED

Many Youngsters Match Skill with Veterans in First of Outdoor Contests Here.

In spite of unfavorable weather conditions, twenty-two matches were played yesterday afternoon in the open tournament of the Harlem Tennis Club, and, with a few defaults added, the field of seventy-seven in the singles competition was reduced to fifty-two. The two players to make the greatest advance were Ingo Hartman and Paul Martin, both reaching the fourth round, the former through victories over H. Moore, and Sigmund Spaeth, and the latter by his defeat of J. D. Keyes aided by a default and a bye. Hartman's tennis was the steadiest and most effective of the afternoon, with the single exception of the spectacular driving of Ichiya Kamagage, who mowed down the Californian, Van Dyke Johns, with scarcely an effort. Johns, however, was far from the form which he showed in the East a few seasons ago, and could offer little opposition to the Japanese left-hander's attack.

William T. Tilden, Jr., of Philadelphia, last year's winner of the Harlem tournament, came successfuly through his match against the youthful Jerry Lange, although limping badly with a strained knee. The Philadelphian took advantage of the soft condition of the courts by chopping as much as possible and often completely mystified his little opponent with the weird bound that he gave the ball.

Francis T. Hunter, formerly of Cornell, who has been in the navy, signalized his return to the game by winning from Norman Johnson of the West Side Club, in straight sets, although his famous forehand wallop was not much in evidence.

Something of an upset came in the very last match of the day, when H. R. Hathaway, the one-armed player, pulled out a victory against H. B. Boyle by the close score of 6—3, 5—7, 8—6. Last year, in this some tournament, Hathaway defeated O'Boyle's brother, James, by a similar score, and yesterday he again proved himself a dangerous volleyer, in spite of his physical handicap.

Other three-set matches were played by Gerald Emerson and T. Le Gros, H. Norton and George Groesbeck, J. W. Fox and George Walker, Jr., and L. Bry and K. S. Johnson. Another Johnson, with the initials R. D., coming from California, made his début in Eastern tuning with a one-sided victory over M. F. Macksoud, showing a strong left-handed service and a typically Western beauty of stroke, but without much support in the way of steadiness. Japan also contributed a new player to the tournament, Ken Yamasaki, who chops consistently and with fairly good effect. He was not extended in defeating W. M. Fischer, of Alex. Taylor & Co.

The summaries:

Singles—First Round—H. H. Galbraith defeated M. Soper by default; A. F. von Bernuth defeated M. Verpoo, 6—2, 6—3; Gerald Emerson defeated T. Le Gros, 6—3, 1—5, 6—4; H. R. Hathaway defeated H. B. O'Boyle, 6—3, 5—7, 8—6; Ichiya Kumagae defeated Van Dyke Johns, 6—1, 6—0; Allen Behr defeated H. Lefkowitz, 6—1, 6—3; H. Norton defeated G. S. Groesbeck, 4—6, 6—2, 6—4; F. T. Hunter defeated Norman Johnson, 6—4, 6—3.

Second Round—R. D. Johnson defeated M. E. Macksoud, 6—1, 6—1; Ken Yamasaki defeated W. M. Fischer, 6—1, 6—1; H. Brunie defeated J. P. Nikanow, 6—4, 6—2; R. J. Sommer defeated F. Bodkin, by default; J. W. Fox defeated George Walker, Jr., 2—6, 6—4, 6—2; P. C. Baker defeated W. T. Cochran, 8—6, 6—4; Harold Taylor defeated D. S. Moorhead, 6—3, 6—3; J. D. Keyes defeated E. Levison, by default; Paul Martin defeated W. H. Toussaint, by default; E. Bry defeated J. Ronaldson, 6—3, 6—4; S. Brubans defeated F. Fall, 6—3, 6—1; Sigmund Spaeth defeated W. H. Pritchard, 6—0, 6—0; Ingo Hartman defeated H. Moore, 6—0, 6—0; Alex Iler defeated B. Landau, 6—1, 6—3; W. T. Tilden, Jr., defeated Jerry Lange, 6—2, 6—2; L. Bry defeated K. S. Johnson, 6—4, 4—6, 6—4.

Third Round—Paul Martin defeated J. D. Keyes, 6—3, 6—1; Ingo Hartman defeated Sigmund Spaeth, 6—1, 6—0.

TAYLOR ABSOLVES RICHARDS

Says Tennis Star Did Not Sanction Use of His Name.

Vincent Richards, the boy tennis prodigy, suspended from tournament play by the Amateur Rule Committee of the U. S. N. L. T. A., returned yesterday from Montreal, where he had engaged in official exhibition matches, and promptly called upon President George T. Adee of the National Tennis Association, armed with a letter from Alex Taylor, for whose firm the youthful star was accused of commercializing his tennis reputation.

Mr. Taylor absolutely denied that Richards had broken the amateur rule, either technically or in spirit. "The advertisement which stated that 'Vincent Richards will select your Taylor racquet for you'" said Mr. Taylor, "was written by an over-zealous member of our publicity department, without any sanction or the knowledge of Mr. Richards, who was in the South at the time. I tried to have it corrected, but it was too late. As a matter of fact, Mr. Richards entered the employ of Alex Taylor & Co., with the honest intention of learning the sporting goods business, at a time when he was by no means widely known as a tennis player. His sales record shows that he has been far more active in other departments than in disposing of tennis supplies, and he is therefore well within the spirit as well as the letter of the law. I have stated our case clearly to the Amateur Rule Committee through Mr. Adee, and have no doubt that Mr. Richards will be promptly reinstated, now that the facts are known."

Mr. Taylor, as well as others interested in the case, expressed surprise that Richards had been suspended without being given a chance to defend himself, and also that he had been permitted to play in the Canadian matches, although the action of the committee was taken on April 28. It was also argued that the editor of "American Lawn Tennis," in which the unfortunate advertisement appeared, should have warned Alex. Taylor & Co. of the possible consequences, as he is familiar with the amateur rule. Altogether, Richards seems to have been the victim of circumstances, in view of which the action of the committee was, to say the least, a hasty one.

President Adee of the U. S. N. L. T. A., after his conference with Richards yesterday, expressed his willingness to consult the remaining members of the committee as quickly as possible, with a view to the immediate reinstatement of the youthful indoor champion. Richards himself had nothing to add to the statement given out by the head of his firm.

Dodgers Release Pitcher Plitt.

Manager Wilbert Robinson of the Dodgers yesterday decreased his player staff by one when he released Norman Plitt, a rookie pitcher, to the Reading Club of the International League. Plitt is a right-hander. Another player will be released Thursday, and speculation is rife now as to whether Jimmy Johnston or Jimmy Hickman will be relegated to the sticks.

LONGEST GAME OF SOCCER.

Sixth Division Takes Three Hours to Win Fifth Army Title.

COBLENZ, May 12, (Associated Press.)—The team of the Sixth Division won the soccer championship of the Third Army here on Saturday in what is believed to have been the longest soccer game ever played. It took the boys of the sixth three hours to take the championship from the team of the Fifth Division by a score of 4 to 2. The longest previous game is said to have been two and one-half hours in San Francisco in 1904.

The tennis championship of the Third Army went to the team from the Third Division headed by Lieutenant Paul Treanor of Boston, Mass., by defeating the team of the Seventh Corps. The tennis championships of the A. E. F. will begin at Paris on May 19.

ST. PAUL WINS AT TENNIS.

St. Paul's School's tennis players made a clean sweep of their matches against the Richmond Hill High School team yesterday, winning by a score of 5 matches to 0. The competition was held on the victorious team's courts at Garden City, L. I.

The summaries:

Singles—Vail, St. Paul's, defeated Siegel, Richmond Hill, 6—0, 6—3; Hobbs, St. Paul's, defeated Jones, Richmond Hill, 6—0, 8—6; Hontin, St. Paul's, defeated Jenkins, Richmond Hill, 6—4, 7—5.

Doubles—Vail and Hobbs, St. Paul's, defeated Hubert and Meyers, Richmond Hill, 6—0, 6—2; Stevenson and Hegekin, St. Paul's, defeated Siegel and Jones, Richmond Hill, 6—8, 6—0.

BIG CROWD SEES SOCCER.

Brazil Victor Over Chile in Opening Game of Tourney.

RIO JANEIRO, May 12, (Associated Press.)—Brazil defeated Chile, 6 to 0, in the opening game of the tournament for the soccer championship of South America here yesterday. Thirty thousand persons, including two thousand from other parts of South America, attended. The acting President, members of the Cabinet and diplomats were present.

TRIUMPHANT FINANCE.

Our entire war finance was a triumph, and the Victory Loan crowns the achievement. It will be a week or two before all the duplications are corrected and the precise figures are known, but it is sure that the Fifth Loan, like all before it, was oversubscribed. The Treasury asked the people altogether for $18,500,000,000, and there was offered "above and beyond the line of duty" something more than the largest single loan in addition to the requisitions. As a result, the United States alone among the belligerents has all its war loans funded before the war is ended. Moreover, our currency is the only currency in leading commercial nations which is in normal condition. That is a recital of fact, not a boast, and it is put on the record in remembrance of how much easier it was for us than for others, whose practice hitherto has been better than ours, and whose difficulties in this war have been incomparably greater than ours. We acted at our leisure, with the errors of others as a warning. They acted almost overnight, with the sound of hostile bombs and cannon in their ears, and did what they could, not what they would. The facts are to our credit, but show only our discharge of our duty to ourselves. The cleaning of our slate only puts us in condition to return in the way of finance the service our cobelligerents did to our common civilization in arms, by holding in check and wearing down our enemy until we could give the final blow.

The placing of the last popular loan of the war opens two other phases of our war finance, one domestic, one foreign. The placing of the Victory Loan among fifteen million subscribers releases an equal sum of bank credit which has been used to finance the Treasury instead of trade at home. It is not true that the stimulus to trade has been exhausted because the money has been spent. The funds were diverted from the uses of peace to the demands of war, and the funding into the loan releases the four and a half billions for commercial credits. If the banks had been compelled to carry the Treasury's expenditures for the term of the Victory Loan, trade would have been deprived of that amount of accommodation for that length of time. The process of anticipating loans by Treasury certificates worked so smoothly that it will be followed in the anticipation of taxes. But that is a matter of months, not of years, and is nearer a banking function.

At latest reports all national banks held $872,000,000 of seventeen billions of Liberty bonds, or less than 5.2 per cent. of the first four loans. All national banks held in loans—that is, carried for customers in credit extended—$973,000,000, or 4.86 per cent. of all resources. That reflects the popular distribution of the bonds, and shows our banking condition to be sound. It is not a matter of technical banking merely. There is nearly two billions of money which will be released for trade use as the taxes pay the bonds, or enable them to be refunded, to a considerable extent within the term of the Victory Loan, thus repeating in near years the release of funds which the Victory Loan makes possible in near months.

The foreign phase of war finance which begins with the completion of the funding of our war costs will require perhaps as much money, but for purposes of repair of damage and profit through trade, and not for destruction and waste. We have as little choice about foreign loans for trade as we had about loans for war abroad, but we shall act under inducement, rather than compulsion of fear of the Hun or duty to country. It is not possible to read Mr. VANDERLIP'S account of the collapse of foreign production and exhaustion of supplies without realizing that revival will be slow and painful unless we come to the rescue with funds and goods. Foreign needs are so desperate that the profits will be ample, and double. That is to say, foreign credit will profit our investors and our traders will profit by the expenditure of the funds here. Our terms will be naturally above our home standards, but yet the world's lowest, for both goods and credit, since there are none elsewhere to be got as quickly or in necessary amounts.

It is to be hoped that the process of educating Americans in foreign investment and trading will be as speedy and fortunate as in the case of the Liberty loans. Also, it is to be hoped, for the sake of both Americans and foreigners, that the trade may be done on a declining scale of prices and profits. It is not likely that the present extremes of costs and prices can continue indefinitely, nor is it desirable. But the immediate situation should be dealt with as boldly as panics are quelled by free credits. Humanity and policy alike require that we should be prompt and liberal with our first aid to the prostrate and suffering, it being preferable to take risks with what prudence is possible than to proceed on the basis of safety first, as though times were normal and there were nothing to be feared from excess of prudence. There are social as well as financial and commercial issues at stake, and the triumph of our five loans gives sound basis for confidence in a happy result for others as well as ourselves.

FREEDOM FOR THE TWELVE ISLANDS.

"I would rather die a Greek than live an Italian." It was on Easter Sunday, on the Island of Rhodes, where, as on all the islands of the Dodecanesian group, the priests, the leaders of the people, had proclaimed from their pulpits the unquenchable desire of the Greeks of the islands to be united with Greece. Italian soldiers of the army of occupation, which has held the islands since 1912, threatened the priest with death if he did not denounce the proclamation; he refused; he was bayoneted before his own church, but he died a Greek.

A spirit such as this is hard to fight, and the Italian Government is serving itself ill, both morally and materially, in trying to repress it by executions and exile. The Dodecanesus was under the Turks for 400 years, and most of the time was let alone; the Italians, who came in as deliverers, were King Stork in place of King Log, and a King Stork who was not invited. Under the Turks the Government did nothing for education, but the Greeks kept their own schools going by private subscription and taught the Greek language and ideals. Under the Italians education fares even worse, for the Italians are trying to compel the schools supported by voluntary contributions of the Greeks to teach Italian. Many of the leading men of the islands have been driven into exile because they would not renounce their nationality; some of the islanders, less heroic than the priest of Rhodes, have declared in favor of a continuation of the Italian occupation. Bayonets and jails are sometimes persuasive arguments, but there are limits beyond which they are not effective.

Italy has no national claim on the islands; there are no Italians there. Nor are they at all necessary for the safety of Italy; they lie far from her coast; such strategic value as they have is purely offensive, in case of a campaign in Asia Minor. It is hard to see why Italy wants to keep them when her authority has to be supported by measures such as the Austrians used in Lombardy a century ago.

A WORKING EAGLE.

Since the smashing of the Dual Monarchy the double-headed eagle, symbolizing the union of Austria and Hungary, roosts on the perch of archaeological ornithology, youngest brother of the Dodo. The Austrian escutcheon, where this perfectly appropriate image of the old double-faced policy of Vienna and Budapest so long was rampant, is to be changed to suit the altered and humbler circumstances of German Austria. The German Austrian Government has brought into Parliament a bill providing that henceforth the Austrian eagle shall be content to wear but one head. It is encouraging to see reform in German Austria, even if it takes only the field of heraldry and symbolism. True, the reformed eagle, though single-headed, remains more than a little singular. He is to wear a crown. What does German Austria, republican, Socialist, or Sovietish, want of a king bird, a King, or a crown? However uneasy that aquiline head, the talons are to be, if more curiously, yet far more usefully kept busy. One claw will hold a scythe, token of agriculture, the other a hammer, token of industry. A strange product of L'Art Nouveau, of which the home and high seat was in Vienna. If Mr. BARNUM keeps communication by psychotelephone with this oblate spheroid and hears of this bird more marvelous than the griffin, must he not be, in Dr. HOLMES'S phrase, "homesick in heaven"?

Looking back to Pannonia and Noricum, the German Austrians may have some title to the Roman eagles, but the legion eagle was reduced to pigeon size. A pole carried the eagle, not the eagle the pole. From the aesthetic point of view a bird carrying a scythe and a hammer is as anomalous as the most malicious Greek irregular verb; but Jove's eagle, grasping the thunderbolt, was highly irregular, too. In consideration of the new purpose and the bourgeois morality which this improved bird denotes, it is more than easy to forgive the curious "derangement of epitaphs" evident in his attributes. Here, as always in these cases of incongruity and transformation, let us consult the one unerring oracle, Sortes Carrollianae. And here is the answer: "'Very true,' said the "Duchess. 'Flamingoes and mustard "'both bite. And the moral of that "'is: "Birds of a feather flock to-"'gether."' 'Only mustard isn't a "bird,' Alice remarked."

Seriously, this scythe, however dangerous a weapon in the hands of amateurs, and this hammer are welcome signs, so far as they go, of an Austrian German resolve to turn away from the everlasting military trumpeting and trumpery and get to honest work. Not nearly so much as the North Germans, but still far too much, have the Austrian Germans been obsessed by the worship of militarism and dazzled by the eternal procession of gold lace and froggings and stripes and buttons. The most civilian of Chancellors has to wear a uniform. All Germany is a broad alley of preposterous Princes and Generals and civilians, like BISMARCK, in the togs of war, ten thousand unnecessary persons who in life probably tripped over their own swords when they had to wear them. Let us hope that the snobbish veneration of Pickelhaube and sword is over in German Austria; that henceforth the symbols of the majority of her people, her farmers and peasants and factory workers, will be honored in fact as they are to be on her escutcheon. But the crowned eagle should shed the crown.

THE RIVAL AVIATORS.

The American aviators at Trepassey, like their British rivals at St. John's, will now have to study the weather problem; but the Americans have the advantage of frequent meteorological reports from the tender Aroostook, which hears hourly by wireless from naval vessels strung across the Atlantic as far as the Azores. The British aviators have been handicapped by the service furnished them. It has been meagre and intermittent, because the Air Ministry, disclaiming official relation to their enterprise, has not bestirred itself, and also because the Admiralty has not provided ships on the Atlantic route to observe and report weather conditions and be ready to rescue HAWKER and RAYNHAM and their navigators in the event of accident. It is only fair to suppose that much of the delay of the British aviators has been due to their lack of information about the direction and force of the winds a few hundred miles east of Newfoundland, and thence to the Irish coast.

It is plain enough that the British pilots must be in no doubt concerning meteorological conditions at sea all the way across, and, further, must have the best of all possible weather before they make a start from the neighborhood of St. John's; otherwise they would take a desperate risk in leaving their bases. The American naval men will not need the best of weather before they leave the water for the air on their voyage to the Azores. A calm sea might be desired, but it would not be necessary. Their pontoons and planes are seaworthy in the usual Atlantic swell, even when the surface of the water is broken. When the NC-1 reached Trepassey on Saturday the harbor was roughened by a wind blowing thirty miles an hour, but the plane settled down on a choppy sea and rode there safely. If there are no storms on the Atlantic, that is to say no high and violent winds, the NC-1 and her sister ships, or consorts, will be able to get away from Trepassey, provided there is a promise by wireless from the Azores and the ships distributed on the route to Newfoundland that the weather conditions are likely to hold for twenty-four hours. Therefore the stay of the Americans at Trepassey may be brief. If the mechanics report that all is right with the motors and propellers, there may be a "flash" at any time in the next two or three days that the Americans are off.

The Americans in their aerial sextant, drift and speed indicator, and course and distance indicator, also have an advantage over their British rivals. In this respect the latter are rather poorly equipped. They will fly land and not sea planes, and expect to go so fast that with favorable winds drift will not be much of a problem to them. The fact is that they will take a sporting chance, although they are not without navigation instruments; whereas the American venture will be fortified by scientific aids and precautions that should obviate mistakes in distance and direction altogether.

Nor do the Americans need a full moon to show the way to them. The British are waiting anxiously for Wednesday, when the moon will be at the full. There is another aspect of this competition which yields an advantage to the Americans. They have flown successfully about 1,000 miles by sea in two of their planes and are reasonably sure of their engines. The British have had no trial trips of the kind, and do not know how the Sopwith and Martinsyde machines are going to behave when well into their stride, as it were. The Americans face the doubts and hazards of the adventure with confidence; while the British must feel that the chances are against a successful flight by them, that they will launch out into a void where dangers are thick in their front. It would seem almost miraculous if the British had a swift and uneventful voyage to the coast of Ireland; but it would be nothing wonderful if the American naval aviators, with the elaborate preparations made for their safety, attained the Azores and later Portugal, although they cannot be sure, with their heavily loaded and slow machines, of avoiding a descent to the surface of the sea. But it is a continuous flight they are planning for and expect to achieve.

THEY CANNOT UNDERSTAND.

It is strange that a man of Prince LICHNOWSKY'S knowledge of history should find in the fact that "after "NAPOLEON Europe did not hold the "French people responsible" anything applicable to the present treaty. The autocrats and Ministers who were Europe in 1815 did not think anything about the French people, or about any other people. They made easy terms for LOUIS XVIII., partly because they were jealous and afraid of one another and TALLEYRAND was adroit enough to play on their fears, and partly because they thought the Bourbons would make France a safe neighbor for the rest of Europe. If there were any group of men in Germany today of whom as much could be said, the task of the peacemakers would be lightened. The entertaining Mr. HARDEN tells the truth once more when he reminds the Germans that they have not given "convincing mental guarantees" that they have experienced any change of heart. The present Government, he says, works like a bad imitation of government under the Kaiser.

Nowhere is this resemblance more apparent than in the reaction of distinguished Germans to the peace treaty. The editor of Vorwärts calls to "all the oppressed peoples and classes of the world," Ireland, Egypt, and India of course getting special mention, and reminds them that the German people is their ally. After the example of German beneficence in Armenia, oppressed peoples may not greet this announcement with proper enthusiasm; but Vorwärts is optimistic. It calls on the people of the United States to rebuke their Government for its attitude toward Germany. Once more the bad imitation of the Kaiser's régime. BERNSTORFF and his aids did what they could to provoke risings in the United States as well as border wars against us; their ill success might have taught the new Government something, but apparently it has not.

If the Germans will consider the impression made abroad by the Government of a nation guilty of the worst crimes in modern history, which seems still to place its reliance on the fomenting of civil wars in other countries, they may begin to understand why the treaty provides certain safeguards against Germany. They have cried aloud that it enslaves the German workingman; leaders of the proletariat have complained that, while the working classes are condemned to serve for the benefit of the foreigner, German capitalists are untouched. Surely this is a matter for the Germans themselves; the German nation must repair the damage the German nation has done, but it rests with the Germans to decide what classes shall bear the heaviest part of the burden. It is significant that an American correspondent in Berlin reports the old governing classes, the men who have made public opinion, as unanimous in protest, but says that nothing has been heard from "the underfed bulk of the German people." The German people, from highest to lowest, stood by consenting to the devastation of Belgium; they refused inquiry into the atrocities of their armies; they applauded the sinking of the Lusitania; they made no protest against the butchery of the Armenians. Only when it comes to making Germans pay is their sense of justice outraged.

THE REPUBLICAN LEGISLATIVE PROGRAM.

The Democratic Party, after prolonged dalliance with unsound money theories, astonished the country by establishing the Federal Reserve system after the Republicans had failed in that attempt. Now the Republicans have a praiseworthy ambition to match that achievement by adopting a budget system, a thing that has been talked about and vainly urged upon Congress for fifty years. The next Speaker of the House, Representative GILLETT, declared over a month ago in favor of a budget system, and now Senator PENROSE, the next Chairman of the Senate Finance Committee, in setting forth his program, puts the budget first. Mr. PENROSE will introduce a budget bill as soon as Congress convenes. Accompanying this project are plans for the reduction of taxation, which apparently must wait until the budget system is adopted. At present estimates are thrown into Congress by department heads, which really means by bureau chiefs, and considered without any attempt at co-ordination of income and outgo, or even conference between the Appropriations and Ways and Means Committees. There is no established relation between appropriations and expenditure.

Mr. PENROSE'S plan would not only bring the two committees into relation, but would yoke them up with all the administrative departments. The need for such a measure has long existed, but is now made imperative by what Mr. PENROSE calls "the habit of "extravagance and wasteful expendi-"tures developed by the war." So, too, Mr. GILLETT has seen for years—and as minority leader of the Appropriations Committee under Democratic rule and Chairman of it under Republican rule he has had ample opportunity to see—the evils of the present system; and he declares that "the ex-"traordinary monetary demands during the war, followed by lack of "proper control and supervision of "expenditure, have strongly emphasized a pressing need for reforms in "that direction."

Thus the two leaders are one, a most encouraging sign. Mr. PENROSE, though resting his whole program on the budget idea, goes further. He is for "repealing" the luxury taxes. He probably means revision instead of repeal. There are some luxuries that ought to be taxed, but this formless measure in which medicines, surgeons' instruments, and heaven knows what other things absolutely necessary to life and comfort are taxed under the name of "luxuries" cannot be revised too quickly nor pruned too rigidly.

He would simplify the tax laws, a praiseworthy purpose the execution of which depends on the budget. He would reduce the taxation of individuals. If that means that the surtaxes on salaried men and some of the other imposts on men who work for a living, as well as the distortion of the meaning of the words "war profits," are to have the attention of Congress, the whole nation will applaud Senator PENROSE. He also advocates the repeal of price-fixing laws, and with the end of the war the time has come for that, although the rule of prudence must be observed. He would investigate war expenditures, but he is statesman enough to add: "I do "not believe these investigations "should be carried on in any partisan "spirit, and full allowance should be "made for the peculiar conditions "prevailing in the crisis of the great "war."

TOPICS OF THE TIMES.

But Effect Is What They Feel.

In asserting that it is lack of buildings, not high rents, from which the people of this city are suffering, the Reconstruction Commission is right in a way, of course, but it is a way that will not be of obvious accuracy to those who have to deal on every rent day with the effect of insufficient housing rather than with the insufficient housing that is the cause of the effect. It is quite true, however, that the removal of the effect can be brought about only by the removal of the cause, and if the rent-payers would, or could, take a long and philosophical view of the situation, they would see that its one sure cure lies in the high rents about which they are complaining so bitterly.

For nothing is more likely to bring about a resumption of building than those same high rents, and, in the ordinary sequence of events, there will be, sooner or later, overbuilding, when the tenants will have their revenge and the landlords will be on their knees again, offering all sorts of inducements to tenants, instead of assuming, as now, the haughty attitude natural to dealers in wares for which there is eager competitive bidding by would-be purchasers.

To get consolation out of this prospect is difficult, however, its joys being deferred for a year at the very least, and meanwhile there are the high rents to pay. Various means of avoiding this immediate woe are suggested, and, curiously enough, the least hopeful of them all—that of preventing by law the landlords from charging what they can get—is just the one that receives the most of popular approval.

Profiteers Serve a Purpose.

Belief in both the possibility and the desirability of interfering with the operation of the law of supply and demand is apparently ineradicable from the majority of human minds, and it remains as firmly fixed in them as ever, in spite of innumerable failures to attain anywhere any lasting benefits from arbitrary "price-fixing." Yet some progress has been made in this direction. "Regrating" and "forestalling," as names of crimes, were once familiar to all, but they are now almost unknown to any except the students of legal history. In them, or in the statutes defining and penalizing them, was crystallized the seemingly instinctive hostility of human beings to those who speculate for a rise in the necessaries of life, and make, or try to make, large profits out of the necessities of their neighbors. Such speculators always are hated, in spite of the fact that professional economists are practically agreed in holding that by them the general welfare is promoted and the worst consequences of scarcity are prevented.

JOHN FISKE, in one of his essays, instances the siege of Antwerp by the DUKE OF PARMA as illustrating the madness of those who keep prices down when conditions justify a rise. In that case the city was starved into surrender because the municipal authorities forbade the selling of grain at the prices which would have tempted outside merchants to take the risks involved in sending their ships through the Spanish lines. The result of this error was that, though bread was cheap in Antwerp for a few months, as soon as the stock on hand had been eaten up there was none to be had at any price and the city fell.

All Must Hope He's Right.

If it be true, as reported, that Major A. E. LEMON of the Army Medical Corps and attached to the 125th Infantry has found a preventive of seasickness, he is indeed a benefactor of the human race and deathless fame will be his. There are several maladies, indeed, of which it is easier to die than of seasickness, but there are few, if any, the victims of which are subjected to such a dreadful combination of both suffering and humiliation, and relief from it would add appreciably to the world's health and happiness.

Experience teaches, however, the sad probability that the effectiveness of the Major's remedy is more a matter of hope than of belief, and the description of it hints that, as in the case of a hundred other vaunted preventives of this most miserable affliction, the measure of its success will be that of the patient's faith in its potency. Which means that it won't work long with any or at all with many.

When the Major says that while coming home from the war he completely relieved his own qualms by putting medicated gauze deep in his ears, of course he tells the truth, but there seems to be no direct relation between the asserted cause and the observed effect—none even when one remembers the fairly well-established connection between seasickness and the aural labyrinth. The gauze could not possibly have helped to stabilize the organ by means of which our balancing is supposed to be done, but it might create what the psychologists call a "suggestion" of that sort.

Cures by "suggestion," however, are as real as any other, and if the pragmatic test is met nothing more can be demanded.

He Admits Every Accusation.

That amazing naïveté with which German sophistication is so thickly streaked came to finest flower and very culminating blossom in a statement by a Berlin editor who, like several of his kind, finds the terms of the peace treaty objectionable. "We have before us," he writes, "the heroic example of little Belgium, which in similar circumstances held out for four years. What Belgium could do we must do."

To appreciate this one must recall the violent epithets of which German comment on the peace treaty offered to them so largely has consisted and the ferocity with which they have characterized the Allies for attempting to impose terms so severe on a conquered country. All these epithets and characterizations, by what he says, the German turns on his own Government and people, and yet apparently he is without the slightest realization of what, by clear implication, he confesses.

For a German to call Belgium "heroic" is something new. It is also in a way amusing, since it shows that when Germans want to express the very limit of oppression and brutality they use their own conduct in the country they invaded and enslaved.

LONG OVERSEAS FLIGHTS.

To the Editor of The New York Times:

Correspondence from Halifax in your issue of today, describing the flight of the naval seaplanes to Halifax, contains the following (Page 13, Column 2):

"One feature of Thursday's flight that has not received sufficient prominence is the fact that it was the longest flight across clear water in the history of aviation, a distance of 220 miles from Chatham, Mass., to Seal Island, Nova Scotia."

This statement should not remain unchallenged, as it does injustice to earlier achievements in aerial navigation.

I do not know whether there are many aviators who have made longer oversea flights than the flight from Chatham to Seal Island, but, being a Norwegian, I cannot fail to remember the fact that a Norwegian aviator, Tryggve Gran, now a Major in the British Royal Flying Corps, crossed the North Sea from Scotland to Norway, a distance of about 240 nautical miles, in an airplane as early as the Summer of 1914. The flight was made in a single seater Deperdussin land machine.

From One of Major Manning's Command.

To the Editor of The New York Times:

Knowing that the late Major William Sinkler Manning was your Washington representative, may a college mate of his offer the inclosed from one of Major Manning's command?

T. F. HOWEL.

[Inclosure.]

* * * You wrote about the death of our dearly beloved Major Manning. Yes, that was a sad blow because he surely was an officer of extraordinary sterling quality and a man at the same time, something which not all officers are. He was Captain Adjutant of our regiment for a long time, having only been made Major shortly before his death. I have always heard him praised by every one and that was the same when he was living.

I was at regimental headquarters the night he got his final instructions for that fateful attack the following day. He was very cheerful and cracked several jokes while he was there. He was a fearless and brave officer, and his men had the utmost confidence in him.

I was in the immediate vicinity the morning he was killed. I occupied his recently vacated post of command, which was only a small hole in the ground with a piece of tin over it. My duty was to keep the telephone in working order when he had advanced that far. We also had pigeons with us. I'll tell you it was a sad blow when the word reached us of his death. Thanks to his great bravery, whereby he had inspired his men and instilled bravery in them, that hill was taken on the next charge.

It May Not Be Necessary.

To the Editor of The New York Times:

I read in THE NEW YORK TIMES yesterday that the Afghans are about to attack India. Under the League of Nations (Article X.) are we (the U. S. A.) pledged to go to the assistance of Great Britain?

S. L. FLEISHMAN.

TO DEATH.

"Men have lost the fear of death."—From a letter from a soldier in France.

Death, you spectre, grinning, gaunt,
Long you've held us in affright;
Long we've whimpered, cowered, and shrunk—
Trembled awestruck in your sight.

Now your power is dust, old Death,
Shriveled to an empty name;
Dread of you, forever spent,
Purged in scarlet blood and flame.

Fear of you is dead in us.
Laugh we in your face today.
Trample you beneath our feet,
Death, you phantom, grim and gray.

What is this you dare to boast—
You have might to hurt us still?
Dare you speak of those who passed—
Those you dreamed that you could kill?

There was one I loved—God bless him!
Do you think that he could die?
By the flag he fell defending.
He is more alive than I!

Death, your power is aped, I tell you!
Those we loved have made us free—
Free as gods, and as immortal.
Death, where is your Victory?

CHINA'S RIGHTS.

Can She Not Have Them Respected by All Nations?

To the Editor of The New York Times:

It is reported that President Wilson felt compelled to assent to Japanese claims in Shantung because France and England were already in possession of similar overlordships in Chinese territory. This comes perilously near to an assertion that two wrongs make a right. It proclaims the doctrine that Potsdam politics, when once recognized in international usage, creates a precedent which will justify a new instance of the same old evil. What Hun will need any more proof of his constant assertion that he is no greater sinner than his neighbors?

The United States seems to have lost a splendid opportunity to tell the truth and shame the devil. Our representatives could have said: "The German supremacy in Shantung was acquired by ruthless injustice and shameless bullying. The first duty of the nations is to undo that wrong and restore China's rights in her own territory. Henceforth the economic development of China must be absolutely divorced from any single alien political control. China must be treated as the ward of the League of Nations and not as the special preserve of the United States, or Japan, or England, or France, or any other nation. The welfare of China, as interpreted by her own best leaders, is the main object."

Such an utterance might have helped the civilian party in Japan to overthrow their Junkers, who have the same spirit as their Prussian congeners.

Such an utterance would have gone far toward displacing the precedent set by the Ishii-Lansing agreement, which undertook to settle Chinese relations with its neighbors without consulting China. To that extent at least that agreement was indefensible. Shantung is in China, not in Japan. The treaty proposes to make the Japanese Government the real ruler of that province, the possessor of its railways and mines, and the heir of the Potsdam War Lord in Kiao-Chau.

But we have heard President Wilson's voice in our Senate Chamber saying: "I am proposing, as it were, that the nations should with one accord adopt the doctrine of President Monroe as the doctrine of the world: that no nation should seek to extend its policy over any other nation or people, but that every people should be left free to determine its own politics, its own way of development unhindered, unthreatened, unafraid, the little along with the great and powerful."

No wonder it is said that China will refuse to sign the treaty. Let her appeal to the League of Nations at once, and find out whether the League will maintain a Monroe Doctrine of the world, or will repeat the tyrannies of the Holy Alliance.

CHARLES H. LEVERMORE.

Judge Cullen a Colonel at 20.

To the Editor of The New York Times:

A correspondent of THE TIMES, referring to the case of a Lieutenant Colonel only 26 years old, asks whether there is any other instance on record of attaining so high a military rank so young. Allow me to call your attention to the fact that Edgar M. Cullen of Brooklyn, my distinguished predecessor in the office of Chief Judge of the Court of Appeals of this State, was commissioned Colonel of the 96th New York Infantry in the Union Army on Dec. 26, 1862, when he was less than 20 years of age. His modesty and his subsequent distinction as a Judge have obscured his splendid record in the civil war before his admission to the bar.

Memories of Poe.

To the Editor of The New York Times:

It cannot be too strongly emphasized that Griswold was on very bad terms with Edgar Allan Poe, and my father said he was present when they treated each other with marked unfriendliness. Poe was two days at our house, and my father was well acquainted with him for years. He wrote for my father's magazine "The Bells," receiving $50 for it; also "To Helen," "Annabel Lee," and some of his finest prose articles on artistic composition. My father says he was a most abstemious drinker, being easily affected by liquor.

I was personally acquainted with Henry B. Hirst—who owned a raven—a fine poet and close friend of Poe. He was credited with collaborating in the beginning of the composition of "The Raven" before Poe and he quarreled, and Poe not signing his name to it in its first publication seems to have some connection with this.

Poe's poem was, at least, conceived in Philadelphia, and it is well established that Griswold, his biographer, was on very unfriendly terms with him. This fact should never be lost sight of in judging Poe's character.

WILLIAM SARTAIN.
New York, May 6, 1919.

To the Editor of The New York Times:

I would like to leave you with the last word in the discussion with Mr. Huneker about Poe's "Raven" having been first written in Philadelphia, but hasten to warn you that, in addition to Kit Morley's say-so, Philadelphia also claims to have the "goods." At least, the "stuff" is now near by, and the claim held out that it came straight from Philadelphia. Two Poe manuscript copies of "The Raven" are known. I once searched for them for the late J. P. Morgan, but without success. Since his death one of them has turned up near Philadelphia. I have not examined the manuscript, but have little doubt of its genuineness. The owner is positive that it was written in Philadelphia by Poe long before he knew your Greenwich Village. For the comfort of the Manhattans, however, let me assure you that the tangible evidence still seems to hold good for New York and against Philadelphia.

The germs of "The Raven" are now to be found in an early unpublished and hitherto unknown tale of Poe's which in all likelihood accounts for so strong a Philadelphia tradition that "The Raven" was first written in that city. While other cities may lay claim to the first written copy of "The Raven," there is no disputing the fact that the last corrected version was written and published in 1849 by Poe at Richmond, Va.

Capital for the Philippines.

To the Editor of The New York Times:

Your editorial article "Capital and the Philippines" is most timely, but there is another angle of view which can be buttressed by fact. Under American administration and jurisdiction, the Philippine Legislature recently passed a bill creating a Government controlled corporation, (the National Development Company,) with a capital of 50,000,000 pesos, ($25,000,000 gold.) By many of those who intimately know the islands and their affairs, it is generally recognized that this organization was established for the purpose of dominating Philippine trade. It looks very much as if a fresh crop of capitalists would have to be found to put money in Philippine commercial and industrial enterprises. To experienced investors the National Development Company is likely to operate as an effectual obstacle. If under American control the Government of the Philippines inaugurates revolutionary commercial principles independent Filipinos could do no worse.

PENROSE GAINS WITH PROGRESSIVES

SEVEN TO ACCEPT CAUCUS

Moses, Republican Negotiator, Offers to Bet Plugged Nickel Penrose Won't Be Defeated.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, May 12.—An attempt to bring about an amicable adjustment of the fight on Senator Penrose for Chairman of the Finance Committee and Senator Warren for Chairman of the Appropriations Committee in the next Senate was made today at a conference of Progressive Republicans in the office of Senator Borah at the Capitol. Senator Moses of New Hampshire, representing the Republican leaders, attended the conference, urging harmony between the Republican and Progressive factions so as not to endanger Republican control of the upper body.

After the conference Senator Borah, speaking only for himself, as he explained, reiterated his opposition to Senators Penrose and Warren for the respective Chairmanships. Under no circumstances, he said, would he vote for Mr. Penrose or Mr. Warren. He would oppose the two Senators not only in the caucus next Wednesday but also on the Senate floor. He did not go so far as to say he would vote against the two Senators, leaving the inference that he might withdraw from the Senate Chamber if the Republican leaders insisted upon naming them.

As for the seven other Progressives at the conference, the understanding now is that they will confine their opposition to Mr. Penrose and Mr. Warren in caucus, but will not jeopardize Republican control of the Senate by carrying their fight to the floor. They will content themselves, it is stated, with putting themselves clearly on record in the caucus. This, it is said, applies to Senator Kenyon of Iowa, who, up to today, was regarded as intent upon standing with Mr. Borah in opposition on the Senate floor, as well as Senators Cummins, Johnson of California, Jones of Washington, McNary, Norris, and McCormick. Senators Gronna and La Follette, who have not attended the conferences, are understood to favor a harmony program.

Mr. Lodge is said to have had the assurance of all the Progressives, with the exception of Mr. Borah, to support the caucus program. If any change in attitude should occur that might deprive the Republicans of control of the reorganization, it is assured, so the talk at the Capitol goes, that enough Democrats would remain away from the Senate chamber to give the Republicans a safe working majority. They would stay away only until the Republicans had perfected their organization.

Senator Moses, after the conference with the Progressives, maintained severe secrecy as to what had gone on. Asked if he believed the Progressives would be able to defeat Mr. Penrose for Chairman of the Finance Committee, he said: "I'll bet a plugged nickel that Mr. Penrose won't be defeated."

The Progressives talked over the protem. Presidency of the Senate, Mr. Johnson and Mr. Lenroot being mentioned for the place. Either would be acceptable to the Progressives, Mr. Borah and several others expressing a preference for Mr. Johnson. Senator Smoot, who has been mentioned for President pro tem., is understood to have withdrawn, leaving the field to Mr. Curtis, the Republican whip; Mr. Lenroot, and Mr. Johnson.

The feeling among Progressives and Republicans inclines toward retaining Mr. Curtis in his present capacity of whip, his work in that job having met with the approval of both wings of the party.

The Progressives would not oppose Mr. Smoot for Chairman of the Appropriations Committee, as a compromise on Mr. Warren. If Mr. Smoot gets that Chairmanship, Mr. Warren, as ranking member of the Military Affairs Committee, might claim the latter Chairmanship, in which event Senator Wadsworth, who wants to head the Military Committee, would have to be placed elsewhere.

Senator Borah, in saying that he would vote for Mr. Smoot for Chairman of the Appropriations Committee, declared the Utah Senator, because of his knowledge of finance, would save the Government approximately $500,000,000 a year.

Senator Penrose expressed satisfaction tonight with the way the fight against him was going. He reiterated his insistence that he would be head of the Finance Committee.

FARMERS SCAN DRY LAW.

Dismay Reported Over Ban on Cider and Homemade Wine.

Since the Internal Revenue Bureau sent a warning as to the penalties to which all persons making intoxicating beverages at home will be subject, the farmers throughout the country are beginning to see how nationwide prohibition will affect them.

According to reports made to the headquarters of the Association Opposed to National Prohibition at 19 West Forty-fourth Street, from Washington and elsewhere there is dismay in the agricultural districts of the country, which is manifesting itself in letters of inquiry and protest. The statement has come from Washington that it is the opinion of the heads of the Internal Revenue Department that every farmer who makes his own cider, whether he attempts to sell it or not, will be liable to prosecution. The matter has been left to the Department of Justice for decision.

Regarding home-made products other than cider, such as the so-called "dry beer," dandelion wine, elderberry wine, and blackberry wine, the Revenue Department is instructing its agents that every person who produces any of these beverages is operating a still on which he is liable for taxes, and if he fails to report the same to the Revenue Department that person may be subject to a heavy fine.

Praise for Customs Men.

The Collectors and Surveyors of the United States Customs Service opened their fifth annual convention in the Customs House yesterday, Secretary of the Treasury Carter Glass was represented by Assistant Secretary of the Treasury L. S. Rowe. The latter, who made the principal address, read a letter from Secretary Glass in which he congratulated the Customs officials for the admirable way in which they carried out their duties in the trying time of war.

War Risk Policy Change.

WASHINGTON, May 12.—Revision of the Government converted life insurance policy for soldiers, sailors, and marines to permit the insured man to choose whether payment shall be in a lump sum or in monthly installments extending over twenty years probably will be made soon by the War Risk Insurance Bureau.

DRIVERS MUST NOT DETAIN THE MAYOR

Policemen Are Ordered to Patrol the Bridges Till City Executive Has Passed.

HE RULES COATS OUT ALSO

Orders That Invasion of Animals Into Home Town Neighborhood Be Stopped.

Truckmen who get in the way of Mayor Hylan's limousine when he is motoring across the Williamsburg or the Manhattan Bridge to and from his home and the City Hall will have reason to repent of their rashness hereafter, for twenty-four of the huskiest traffic policemen in the department are to police the bridges every morning and evening when the Mayor passes and see to it that his car is not held up even for an instant.

Orders detailing the policemen to their new posts were issued by Police Inspector John Daly to the commanders of Traffic Precincts A, located at City Hall, Manhattan, and D, at Classon Avenue, Brooklyn. Six men from Traffic Precinct A will be stationed on the Manhattan side of both bridges, and the same number on the Brooklyn side. The men will be stationed at regular intervals from the approaches to the centre of the bridges. They will take their stations after 8 o'clock in the morning and remain until the Mayor has passed and traffic conditions have returned to normal and similarly at 5:30 o'clock in the evening.

The order was secretly issued several days ago, but it leaked out only yesterday, through underground channels, as the Police Commissioner has established a censorship at Headquarters and no information of police doings is given to the public in the old-fashioned way.

The order was promulgated, it was learned, because of a recent embarrassing incident in which the Mayor was the central figure. Going to his home from the City Hall, a large sugar truck got squarely in the way of the Mayor's limousine. The driver refused to turn out, and when the Mayor's bodyguard informed him of the identity of the occupant of the automobile the driver was not a bit overawed.

"Whadaya mean his Honor, the Mayor, Red Mike?" asked the driver. There were some more words, and the Mayor's machine finally went on its way, only to draw up at the seat of government in City Hall Park several minutes late. The Mayor, who lives in the Bushwick section of Brooklyn, and who has not used the plebeian cars of the Brooklyn Rapid Transit Company since he became the possessor of a limousine, sometimes uses the Williamsburg Bridge and sometimes the Manhattan Bridge. Several times he has complained of being rudely blocked by traffic, and on two occasions has caused the arrest of chauffeurs who did not get out of his way with the necessary promptness. The offending chauffeurs were fined in the Traffic Court, but still the obstructions continued.

Police Commissioner Enright also lives in Brooklyn and he, likewise, has had experiences with vehicles that move slower than his large Police Department car. The Commissioner lives at Prospect Place, and uses the Williamsburg Bridge twice a day. The two officials have compared notes, and finally agreed that the only cure was to police the bridges with a large body of the "finest." Since he has been in office the Mayor has been very zealous about getting to work by 9 A. M. His first pronunciamento was a warning to all department heads to be at their desks at this hour under pain of his displeasure.

The Mayor also took cognizance yesterday of the goat situation in his home town. The residents of the Flatbush region known as "Pigtown" united in a petition to his Honor complaining of the Spring revels of the goats, who were accused of eating everything that wasn't nailed down. Sometimes the goats even hindered the street car service, and patience ceased to be a virtue with the inhabitants of "Pigtown." The Mayor, who has posed as an authority on goats ever since he was presented with one during his last sojourn at Palm Beach, immediately got on the job. He informed Police Captain Michael R. Kelly of the goat invation, and instructed him to use strong-arm methods if necessary.

Captain Kelly sent his best strong arm squad into the region, with the result that ten owners of the frisky animals were arraigned before Magistrate Steers in the Flatbush Police Court and fined $1 each. The Judge ordered the owners of the omnivorous pets to obtain permits for keeping them and also to see that they were kept on a leash when parading the streets. As a result of the Mayor's vigorous action not a goat was visible in Pigtown last night.

SIGNS WORK-LIMIT BILL.

Affects Women Elevator Operators —Measures Approved by Smith.

Special to The New York Times.

ALBANY, N. Y., May 12.—Women elevator operators cannot be required to work after 10 o'clock at night, or more than fifty-four hours a week, under the Sammis bill, which became law today with Governor Smith's approval. Hotels are excepted from the provisions of the new law, which becomes effective Sept. 1. This is the first bill of the women's legislative program to become law. The Governor approved the measure because he believed "that the conservation of the health of women and minors who have to work is an important duty of the State."

Governor Smith signed the Machhold bill providing a direct tax of 1.06 mills to raise approximately $13,000,000 for the State's sinking funds.

Because the State Department of Health and the New York City Department of Health make inspections covering all dairies, collecting stations and pasteurizing plants for milk, the Governors vetped the bill designed to give the State Farms and Markets Council power of inspection of places where food products are on sale, manufactured or stored.

The Governor approved the Everett bill, which permits hunters to kill one deer of either sex, whereas only a buck was formerly permitted to be shot.

Provision was also made today through action of the Governor for the establishment of a Roosevelt wild life forest experiment station in connection with Syracuse University.

PARRAL IS RETAKEN BY VILLA FORCES

Washington Sees Political Move in Revolution's Spread in Northern Mexico.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, May 12.—Reports of growing strength of the revolutionary movement headed by Francisco Villa, as developed recently in the State of Chihuahua, reached Washington tonight in dispatches stating that Villa had recaptured the town of Parral. He first entered Parral during the Easter period, when he hanged Herrera, the Mayor of the place, and two of his sons. Villa then headed south toward Torreon, the chief rail centre in Eastern Durango, while Carranza troops reentered Parral and were in possession of the town up to last Thursday.

According to the advices reaching Washington tonight, Villa's force returned on Thursday, and 260 of the Government troops in Parral were captured, though their commanding officer, one General Gomez, escaped. After looking over the captured Carranzista force Villa made them a speech in which he told of the object of his revolution, asserted he captured men should be "ashamed of themselves" for serving the Carranza Government, and finally turned them loose and told them to go back to work.

Villa's attack on Junenez and his recent capture of Bustillos, near Chihuahua City, were also cited here as tending to bear out confidential advices received in Washington, indicating that the Villista movement was spreading and that by June his revolution would be under full headway. Since the Carranza Government ordered General Diegues from the Tampico district, with several thousand men, to co-operate with General Jesus Agustin Castro, who has been Carranza's recent Chief Military Commander in Chihuahua, little has been disclosed as to the movement of Government reinforcements. It was considered that the recapture of Parral showed that Villa's sources of information had enabled him to strike without interference from Generals Diegues and Castro.

Railway Bridges Destroyed.

WASHINGTON, May 12, (Associated Press.)—Five bridges on the branch of the National Railways of Mexico between Torreon and Chihuahua City have been destroyed by Villista forces, according to advices received here from Mexico City quoting a "high official" of the Mexican Government.

The dispatches said that when traffic is restored again every train will be preceded by an "exploring train" carrying a guard of Federal troops large enough to repulse any rebel raid.

MRS. ETHEL SCHUYLER WEDS

Widow's Marriage to Silas Wodell a Surprise to Many.

Silas Wodell, formerly of this city, but who now lives at Cranfield, his country place at Millbrook, N. Y., and Mrs. Ethel Paul Schuyler, the widow of Van Rensselaer Schuyler, of 15 Gramercy Park, were married yesterday in Grace Church chantry by the rector, the Rev. Dr. Charles Lewis Slattery.

Mr. Wodell's first wife was Miss Marion A. Adriance, and by her he had two children, Ruthven A. Wodell, who married Miss Helen C. Page and who lives at Summit, N. J., and Miss Katharine W. Wodell. Mr. Wodell is a member of the Union League, Groller, and other clubs.

The marriage will be a surprise to many, as no announcement was made of the engagement.

RAINBOW HUES AT WEDDING.

Its Tints in Costumes at Nute-Hollingsworth Nuptials.

The wedding of Miss Janette Hunter Hollingsworth, daughter of Mrs. John H. Hollingsworth of 118 West 126th Street, and George Henry Nute, son of Mrs. John W. Nute of 375 Park Avenue, took place last evening in St. James' M. E. Church, Madison Avenue and 126th Street, the Rev. Chester C. Marshall officiating. It was a rainbow wedding, the color of the costumes and flowers forming the hues of the rainbow.

"IN LEAGUE FAMILY NOW."

Miss Margaret Wilson Bids Metz Au Revoir at Concert.

METZ, May 11.—Miss Margaret Wilson, daughter of the President, bade farewell to Metz last night at a soldiers' concert at which she sang. General de Maudhuy and M. Presvel, Mayor of Metz, were present.

On taking leave, Miss Wilson said: "We now belong to one big family—the League of Nations. I will not say good-bye to you, but au revoir."

Miss Carey, Bride of Lieut. Sibert.

The marriage is announced of Miss Laura Carey, daughter of Mrs. R. P. Carey of 715 West 172d Street, to Lieutenant Edwin L. Sibert, U. S. A., a son of Major Gen. W. L. Sibert, which took place on Saturday afternoon last at the Church of the Incarnation. The Rev. H. Percy Silver officiated.

Colonel Guy G. Palmer, U. S. A., gave his niece in marriage. Miss Frances Camp and Lieutenant Ernest L. Stevens, U. S. A., were the attendants. A reception followed at the residence of the bride's aunt, Mrs. Frederick A. Stokes, 200 West Fifty-eighth Street. Lieutenant Sibert will leave shortly for overseas duty. He was a member of the class of '19 at West Point, also his best man, Lieutenant Stevens.

Exhibit of Portraits of Aviators.

An exhibition to be opened at Knoedler's this month will be one of portraits of American Aviators by John Elliott. Mr. and Mrs. Elliott were in New York yesterday and Mrs. Elliott—Maude Howe Elliott—will be at the Cosmopolitan Club for some time. On the 27th of this month she goes to Boston for the celebration which is always given there of the anniversary of the birth of her mother, Julia Ward Howe.

K. OF C. MEN HONOR ARCHBISHOP HAYES

Church Dignitaries, Army and Navy Officers, and Civil Officials Attend Dinner.

HARRY P. SWIFT PRESIDES

Archbishop Receives Chaplain General's Flag in Honor of His Service in the War.

Many church dignitaries, army and navy officers, Mayor John F. Hylan, and other city officials attended the dinner given last night in the Hotel Astor by the New York Chapter of the Knights of Columbus to the Most Rev. Archbishop Patrick J. Hayes, in honor of his elevation to the Archbishopric of the New York Diocese.

Henry P. Swift, Chairman of the New York Chapter, Knights of Columbus, was toastmaster at the dinner, a feature of which was the presentation to Archbishop Hayes of the Chaplain General's flag, which is of dark blue inset with a white silken cross. Archbishop Hayes served as Chaplain General during the war.

Souvenir menu cards, containing an engraving of Archbishop Hayes and of St. Patrick's Cathedral, were presented to the guests. John Finnegan, tenor of the cathedral, and Miss Margaret Holberg, harpist-composer, were among those who took part in the musical program.

Among those at the speakers' table were: William T. Fox, William P. Burr, Assistant District Attorney Alfred J. Talley, the Rev. E. P. Tivnan, S. J.; Very Rev. John J. Dunn, D. D.; Rt. Rev. George J. Waring, Bird S. Coler, Commissioner of Charities; Justice Victor J. Dowling, District Attorney Edward Swann, the Rev. John J. Wynne, S. J.; Morgan J. O'Brien, James A. Flaherty, Supreme Knight K. of C.; Murray Hulbert, Commissioner of Docks and Ferries; Major Gen. Thomas H. Barry, U. S. A.; Harry P. Swift, M. D., Chairman New York Chapter; Most Rev. P. J. Hayes, Archbishop of New York; Rear Admiral John D. McDonald, U. S. N.; Rt. Rev. Bishop D. D. Cantwell, Los Angeles; Maurice Francis Egan, LL. D.; Rev. Joseph F. Mooney, V. G.; Frank L. Dowling, Borough President of Manhattan; the Rev. James J. Halligan, Frank A. Munsey, Very Rev. M. J. Lavelle, Monsieur Marcel Knecht, Clarence J. Shearn, John J. Duffy, James E. Finnegan, Frank J. Jones, and Police Commissioner Richard E. Enright.

PRESBYTERIANS TO MEET.

General Assembly to be Asked to Admit Women as Ministers.

ST. LOUIS, May 12.—Commissioners to the Presbyterian General Assembly gathered here today for conferences which will lead up to the formal sessions opening at the Odeon next Thursday. At the conference of the Presbyterian New Era Movement, to be held in the First Presbyterian Church tomorrow, John T. Manson, President of the First National Bank of New Haven, Conn., will preside, and addresses will be made by the Rev. Drs. H. C. Swearingen of St. Paul, John Timothy Stone of Chicago, and John A. Marquis of Cedar Rapids, Iowa.

For the first time in the history of the Church a layman is eligible to the office of Moderator. The Presbyterians will make a determined effort to admit women to full equality, so that they may become elders and ministers.

The New Era Movement will present to the General Assembly proposals for meeting the world problems of today. Woman suffrage, capital and labor are among these, together with reclamation and reconstruction work here and abroad.

Retires as Head of B'rith Abraham.

Special to The New York Times.

ATLANTIC CITY, May 12.—Samuel Dorf, for twenty-seven years Grand Master of the Grand Lodge of the Order B'rith Abraham, announced today at the organization's session that he would not be a candidate for re-election. The balloting, which had been scheduled for the day, was postponed because of the unexpected announcement.

Feed Brooklyn Troops.

Seven hundred soldiers of the 53d Pioneer Infantry, the old 47th Infantry, N. G. N. Y., Brooklyn, were guests of the Mayor's Committee of Welcome to Homecoming Troops at a luncheon at the Hotel Astor yesterday afternoon. The men arrived frm France at Newport News last Tuesday and came on here yesterday on the Old Dominion liner Jamestown, docking at Pier 26, North River, at 11:40 A. M. The Mayor's Committee had made no plans to welcome the troops and there was much criticism of the oversight until it developed that the luncheon was to take the place of the regular welcoming formalities.

Mayor Hylan did not go to the pier to meet the returning soldiers, but he was represented by his secretary, Grover Whalen. The regiment will parade in the Williamsburg section of Brooklyn with the members of the new 47th Regiment, N. G. N. Y., taking part.

League of Nations Committee to Dine.

The New York Committee for the League of Nations will give a dinner and ball at the Hotel Commodore on Monday evening, May 26, at which there will be a number of addresses. Miss Elisabeth Marbury, who will leave soon for France, will speak, as will former Secretary of the Treasury William G. McAdoo, Homer S. Cummings, Chairman of the Democratic National Committee; James W. Gerard, William H. Wadhams, Judge of General Sessions; Assemblyman Lauren Carroll, and Judge Martin T. Manton of the United States Circuit Court.

The Rev. Dr. George Heber Jones.

The Rev. Dr. George Heber Jones, one of the first missionaries sent by the Methodist Episcopal Church to Korea, died Saturday at Miami, Fla., after a long illness, it was announced yesterday by the Board of Foreign MIssions of the Methodist Episcopal Church, 150 Fifth Avenue. Going to Korea in 1888, Dr. Jones served there for more than twenty years, and since his return to America he had been Secretary of the Foreign Missions Conference of North America.

STUDENTS WED SECRETLY.

G. G. W. Keech Marries Miss Munsell, and Miss Howell Bride of J. H. Sessions.

Special to The New York Times.

PORT CHESTER, N. Y., May 12.—George G. W. Keech, 21 years old, son of Frank B. Keech of 14 East Sixty-fifth Street, New York City, and John H. Sessions, 3d, son of Albert L. Sessions of 25 Bellevue Avenue, Bristol, Conn., both Yale students, arrived here with Dorothy Dow Munsell, 19 years old, of Chelsea, Conn., and Miss Phyllis Alethea Howell, 18 years old, of Weathersfield, Conn., yesterday, and were secretly married by the Rev. William R. McDermott, pastor of the Summerfield Methodist Episcopal Church.

The two couples appeared in front of the Methodist Episcopal parsonage yesterday while the storm was at its height. They had apparently driven from New Haven in an open car and all were thoroughly drenched. They inquired the way to the office of Town Clerk Charles O. Derby and obtained the marriage licenses. While Mr. Derby was filling in the forms, the youthful brides and the bridegrooms laughingly practiced the marriage ceremony, so that they would not be delayed when the real service was performed.

After obtaining the licenses, the couples hastened to the home of the Rev. McDermott, where the ceremony was speedily performed. The principals in the weddings said that they had been engaged for some time, but that their parents objected to their marrying because of their years.

George G. W. Keech is the son of Colonel Frank B. Keech of the firm of F. B. Keech & Co., brokers at 7 Wall Street. At the Keech home, 12 East Fifty-second Street, it was said by Mrs. Keech that no word had been received there of the marriage.

"I am trying now to get my son on the long distance telephone," she said, "and until I hear from him I can have nothing to say. I don't know yet whether the report is true or not."

Mrs. Keech explained that the address given in the Port Chester dispatch was that of a house owned by Colonel Keech. She declined to say whether young Keech's bride was known to her, declaring that she would say nothing until she had talked with her son personally.

DR. CRAWFORD HOWELL TOY

CAMBRIDGE, Mass., May 12.—Dr. Crawford Howell Toy, for twenty-nine years professor of Hebrew and other Oriental languages at Harvard, and since 1909, professor emeritus, died here today. SEES LIFE OF JEWRY IN EUROPE AT STAKE

ASKS AMERICANS FOR AID

Pictures Worse Suffering Than Yet Has Been Known Unless Help Is Forthcoming.

"World Jewry is at the greatest crisis in its history. Five years of war have decimated the Jewish population throughout Eastern Europe, and the ebb and flow of fighting in Poland, Austria, Czechoslovakia, and Russia have virtually wiped out the younger generation of men. The only hope for the children of Israel is in the Jews of America who are still physically and financially sound and whose younger generation has not suffered so terribly."

This was the message given through the American Jewish Relief Committee to the 3,500,000 Jews in the United States by Dr. Haim I. Davis, a Chicago alienist and a Major in the American Red Cross Commission to Poland, who is the first American to return to New York with a personal account of conditions in that country. At the McAlpin Hotel yesterday Dr. Davis said:

"If the Jews of America could see the Jewish suffering that I have seen they could not sit down to another meal until they had pledged the last farthing they could give to the relief of their fellows who are dying like flies in Warsaw, Pinsk, Brest-Litovsk, and other parts of the new Poland. Jews in America have butter on their bread, but thousands of Polish Jews have neither seen nor eaten bread for months.

"In Warsaw I visited the largest Jewish hospital. It had 700 beds and was trying to care for 1,100 patients virtually without medicines or disinfectants of any kind. There was no coal to warm water for bathing the patients. While I was there a Jewish baby was born. The mother had had no food for four days. Mothers in this country can imagine the anguish of that mother who gave life to her child only to know it must starve to death.

"I traveled 2,000 miles in Poland, and in every city, town, and village emaciated Jewish children piteously cried for bread. Poland is a purgatory, and in it human beings are suffering untellable tortures. Back of it all is the fact that world Jewry has been dealt a blow from which it will not recover in generations. American Jewry must rise in all its strength and nobility to stop this threatened annihilation of Jewry in Europe."

Temporary relief measures will not suffice, Dr. Davis said. Successive waves of Russian, German, and Austrian armies have swept over the country in the last four and one-half years, and now the Poles, having called 500,000 additional men to the colors, are fighting on several fronts.

"The result," he said, "is that there is absolutely no prospect of a harvest in Poland this year. Horses and cattle long since have disappeared, and all farm machinery has been carried off by one army or another. Even if there were seed for planting, it would be impossible to do any cultivating.

"America must be prepared to lend aid now and must prepare to help Poland through next Winter. Otherwise the state of Christians and Jews alike in that country will surpass in suffering next Winter anything that has been seen thus far."

KERBS.—At a special meeting of the Board of Trustees of THE HEBREW ORPHAN ASYLUM, held on the 12th day of May, 1919, it was resolved:

The death of our respected associate, Edward A. Kerbs, has caused us profound regret and sorrow. He signalized the seven years of his affiliation with this Board by a rare devotion to its interests and the wise direction of its policies. To his watchful care, manifested even when afflicted with prolonged illness, for the wards within the Asylum, and for those placed in charge of families, he added paramount attention to the maintenance and welfare of those of our graduates who from time to time were residents of the Home, so splendidly conducted by our sister association, the Junior League, toward which organization he displayed an especial regard both by advice, encouragement, and substantial contrtbution.

No better example can be held up for emulation by the children of whom we are guardians than the life of Edward A. Kerbs. A patriotic citizen, upright in all his dealings, humane and sympathetic, his blameless life has established an untarnished record for successful accomplishment secured by straightforward dealing, sterling honesty, with charity as broad as unostentatious, a full sense of justice toward his fellows, and of self-sacrifice for those who required aid and assistance.

We shall miss keenly the counsel and co-operation of our associate, so competent to suggest, and so willing to assist, in our every undertaking.

Endeared to us in life, in death his memory shall be revered by the members of this Board, and to his afflicted family we tender our sincere sympathy in their bereavement.

JOSEPH E. NEWBURGER, President.
EDWIN MAYER, Honorary Secretary.

KERBS.—The Board of Trustees and members of the HEBREW ORPHAN ASYLUM OF THE CITY OF NEW YORK are requested to attend the funeral services of the late Edward A. Kerbs, Trustee, from his late residence, 19 East 82d St., on Tuesday, May 13, at 10 A. M. By order of:

A. H. WOODS BRINGS PLAYS FROM LONDON

COMEDIES AND FARCES, TOO

In Revue "As You Were" Alice Delysia Is to Appear—Plans Production of Many American Dramas.

A. H. Woods, who is the third American theatrical manager to return from London in the last month, made public yesterday the list of plays to which he had acquired the American rights while abroad. To these Mr. Woods added also, in his announcement, the plays of native origin which he expects to produce here this season, thereby bringing the total number of his prospective offerings well into the dozens.

Like Morris Gest and J. J. Shubert, who returned from abroad a few weeks ago, Mr. Woods reports unprecedented prosperity in the theatres of London together with speculation in theatre leases which in some instances has increased the value of these eight to ten times over. Mr. Woods went to London late in January to produce "Friendly Enemies," which is now running at the Haymarket, and while abroad also placed an American company of "Business Before Pleasure" in the Savoy. He has also an interest in "Fair and Warmer," playing at the Prince of Wales, and in nine companies of "Within the Law," "Under Cover," and "Daddy Long-Legs," which are touring the English provinces.

One of the earlist of Mr. Woods's English plays to be produced here will be "Home and Beauty," a comedy by W. Somerset Maugham. "Mumsee," a drama by Edward Knoblock, is another of his acquisitions, as is "Behind the Curtain," a drama by Michael Morton. Other foreign plays of a dramatic nature will be "Priscilla and the Profligate," by Michael Farraday; "Fu Manchu," a Chinese melodrama by Sax Rohmer; "Beginning Again," by Roland Pertwee; "Sinners Both," a drama by Berte Thomas, author of "Under Orders"; "Who Is Mary?" by J. L. Campbell, and "The Jury of Fate," a drama in six episodes by the late C. M. S. McClellan, which is said to have been sought by various New York producers for a number of years.

In lighter vein from abroad will be "Tillie of Piccadilly," by Ian Hay, the novelist; "Come Upstairs," a farce by Captain Jose G. Levy, author of "Madame President"; "The Bantam, V. C.," by Harold Brighouse, author of "Hobson's Choice"; "The Illusionist," an adaptation by Avery Hopwood of a French comedy by Sacha Guitry, and two additional comedies by W. Somerset Maugham. With the exception of these last two plays, which are as yet unwritten, it is probable that all of this list will be offered here next season.

According to his present plans Mr. Woods will also return to the production of musical plays with "As You Were," a revue now running in London. Charles Wimpers and Herman Darewski are the authors of this piece, and Alice Delysia, a French actress who is playing the leading rôle in London, will be brought here to play in the piece. Another musical comedy listed for production is "Baby Bunting," an adaptation by Fred Thompson and Warton Davis of the play of twenty years ago, "Jane."

In addition to Miss Delysia Mr. Woods will bring over two more English players—Kenneth Douglas, seen here in "A Pair of Silk Stockings," and Teddy Garard. His plans for London next season include the presentation of "Ten for Three," (with Cyril Maude.) "Parlor, Bedroom, and Bath," and "Up in Mabel's Room," among other plays. It is more than probable, also, that he will build a London theatre.

The American plays which Mr. Woods will offer include Marjorie Rambeau in "The Pearl of Great Price," by Robert McLaughlin; Pauline Frederick in "Lady Tony," a Western drama by Willard Mack; "The Unknown Woman," by Marjorie Blaine and Stanley Lowes; "Breakfast in Bed," a farce from the French of Georges Feydeau, with Florence Moore in the cast; "Three in One," a farce by Edward H. Griffith and Jean Burrows; "Dolly of the Follies," by Wilson Collison and Hilliard Booth, with Hazel Dawn in the leading rôle; "Not To-night, Josephine," a farce by Wilson Collison and Avery Hopwood, with John Cumberland in the cast; "Ninety Days After Date," by Samuel Shipman; "Look and Listen," by Ralph E. Dyar; "Ready to Occupy," a farce by Otto Hanoch and Edgar Franklin; "Call a Taxi," a musical play by Earl Carroll, and a comedy by Montague Glass and Jules Eckert Goodman in which Barney Bernard will be starred.

The Woods Theatre in Chicago will open in August with "Up in Mabel's Room." Other attractions on tour will be "Friendly Enemies," "Roads of Destiny," "Under Orders," "The Woman in Room 13," and "Business Before Pleasure." There will be from three to six companies of several of these.

"THE LADY IN RED" IS HERE.

Newest Musical Comedy Has Both Conventional Book and Score.

THE LADY IN RED, a musical comedy in two acts, book and lyrics by Anne Caldwell, music by Robert Winterberg. At the Lyric Theatre.

Wright	Louis Christy
Colonel Prince	Neil Moore
Marjorie Cole	Dorothy Godfrey
Muriel Dean	Gladys Miller
Mabel Kirkpatrick	Ruth Mitchell
Maude Langdon	Irene Corlett
"Tony" Stafford	Donald MacDonald
Kitty St. Claire	Adele Rowland
Darius Dirks	Franklyn Ardell
Sylvia Stafford	Ruth MacTammany
Bruce Vernon	Tom Richards
Pepina Cattaneo	Berten Beaumonte
Dick Carrington	Harry Turpin
Attendant	Donald Roberts
Percy	William Warren
Butler	Walter Croft

Of "The Lady in Red," the new musical comedy at the Lyric, it may at least be said that it has its moments, albeit they are none too plentiful. For the rest, it strikes a dull level of mediocrity, being possessed of both a conventional book and a conventional score. It is occasionally possible, in the case of a musical piece, to overcome both of these shortcomings by good staging and a fine production, but in the case of this newest piece it cannot be said that the trick has been turned. Indeed, some skillful direction would do wonders for it.

Adele Rowland is its leading player, and Miss Rowland, of course, can be depended upon to lift any musical piece momentarily, even though it must inevitably drop again. A personable young woman named Ruth MacTammany is another who is entitled to credit, and so far as the populace is concerned, she provides the electric moment of the evening by posing in approximately the altogether at the end of the play. Still other moments are provided by the Glorias, as adroit a pair of steppers as have been seen hereabout this long time.

For the rest, Anne Caldwell has provided a book which rarely coaxes the elusive smile, to say nothing of the more robust laugh. Its story is true to musical comedy, being concerned with an artist and the girl of his dreams, and including a soap manufacturer and a masquerade ball. In former years, of course, the comedian was a pickle manufacturer, and the comical advantages of soap over pickles are doubtless obvious. Franklyn Ardell was occasionally amusing as the soap man, but one who has marked his work on previous occasions knew that it was Mr. Ardell's fault, and not Miss Caldwell's.

It is to be feared that "The Lady in Red" is an earnest of a particularly hot Summer.

DRAMA

By John Corbin

North of Ireland Drama.

John Ferguson	Augustin Duncan
Sarah	Helen Westley
Andrew	Rollo Peters
Hannah	Helen Freeman
James Caesar	Dudley Digges
Henry Witherow	S. Rogers Lytton
Clutie	Henry Herbert
Sam Mawhinney	Walter Geer
Sergeant Kernaghan	C. Hooper Trask

The Theatre Guild explored a new region of the literary map of Ireland last night at the Garrick. Instead of the whimsical comedy and the eerie, imaginative tragedy of the Irish players from Dublin, we had a bit of dour, upstanding realism from the north. John Ferguson is the head of a Presbyterian family, and in the four acts of the play that takes its name from him, St. John Irvine reveals the souls of his household and their intimates as if on the day of judgment.

Great passions heave and burst forth from beneath the quiet surface of life in this farmer's cottage. Beginning with the fear of an unpaid mortgage and a threatened eviction, we progress to the assault of a young girl, the murder of the money lender who has committed the crime, and the soul struggle of her brother which leads him to confess the murder. In the younger folk there is a working of fierce primitive passions.

In old John Ferguson, orthodox Protestant piety for the most part holds firm control; but even he, at the climax, breaks down in a moment of fierce clamor to save his son against God's justice. The end is futile tragedy alleviated by such mitigation as one may hope from the unwritten law. But such hope, if it comes, must be quite private. The author does not permit it to sophisticate the conduct of his characters or the stark realism of his presentation of them.

It is perhaps because of the richer humanity, the sterner passions, of "John Ferguson" that the performance of the Theatre Guild players seemed to reach a new level in our experience of drama from Ireland. The genial spirit of the amateur, which has often appeared in our own little theatres and which tinged the productions of the players from Dublin even at their best, vanished as if by magic.

Every character stood fairly on his feet; every moment in the vigorously developing action and in the inerrant yet subtle psychology stood forth in its true value, unemphasized as it was unblurred. The longest memory will probably be searched in vain for a more brilliant and more soberly modulated performance of literary drama of the newer school.

In Augustin Duncan's John Ferguson, Protestant piety shone forth with a richness of coloring and a distinctness of outline which must come as a revelation even to the Protestant mind. To describe it would be to discuss the values, human and spiritual, of the Sermon on the Mount. As the two children, Rollo Peters and Helen Freeman seemed the actual embodiment of the spirit of modern youth at its best. The moment in which Miss Freeman told, almost without words, of the violence that had been done to her was the single, most convincing piece of emotional acting in recent memory.

The character acting was on an equally high level. Dudley Digges played a part of the utmost complexity, in which cowardice and vainglory, hard selfishness and an agonized humility of the soul blended into a human being unerringly consistent and humanly recognizable at a glance. His performance was perhaps the high-water mark of the evening. Yet almost equally successful was the village simpleton of Henry Herbert, a creation of the utmost sensitiveness and veracity, with a haunting overtone of spiritual beauty. Helen Westley as Ferguson's wife and S. Roger Lytton as the sensual moneylender were almost equally distinct and convincing.

With regard, probably, to the bitter passions and dour gloom of the play, the performance is to be limited to the present week. For those who care for what is rarest and best in the art of the drama and of the theatre, it is an occasion not to be missed.

"Everything" Begins Its Final Week

The final week of "Everything," this year's Hippodrome show, began last night. During the week a series of farewell performances will be given, with each branch of the entertainers receiving its share of attention at a specific performance. There will have been 461 consecutive performances by Saturday night.

SUES COHAN FOR $50,000.

Hilliard Bases Claim on Failure to Star Him in "A Prince There Was."

As an aftermath of George M. Cohan's sudden appearance in the leading rôle of "A Prince There Was" late last December, Robert Hilliard yesterday filed suit for $50,000 against Mr. Cohan in the Supreme Court. Mr. Hilliard bases his claim on Mr. Cohan's failure to carry out an alleged agreement to star Hilliard in the play, and the amount represents salary and prospective profits during the run of the play.

At the time of Mr. Cohan's substitution it was understood that an amicable agreement had been reached between the Messrs. Hilliard and Cohan. "A Prince There Was" opened at the George M. Cohan Theatre on Christmas night, with Robert Hilliard as its star, after Mr. Cohan had vigorously rewritten the play. Mr. Hilliard, however, was not suited to the part, and after five performances on Broadway Mr. Cohan assumed the rôle, and played it for several months. Announcement was made at the time that the firm of Cohan & Harris had purchased Mr. Hilliard's interest in the play, and that the latter had withdrawn voluntarily from the cast.

WILL ROGERS'S WIT AGAIN.

Back on New Amsterdam Roof, He Talks of Peace Conference.

Returning to the scene of their original triumph, Will Rogers, rope, and chewing gum received a vociferous welcome last night on the New Amsterdam Theatre roof. Rogers, en route to the films after a season with the "Follies," will remain on the roof about three weeks, making alternate appearance in the 9 o'clock and midnight shows. He will then be absent from the stage for at least a year.

COUNCILMAN ROUTS SOUTH BEND RADICALS

Tears Down Tablet to "Men Killed for Fatherland" and Breaks Up Meeting.

SOUTH BEND, Ind., May 12.—Maurice Vennet, member of the City Council here, broke up a meeting of "radicals" in Washington Hall, this city, tonight, when he tore down a picture of a tablet bearing a number of names and the inscription "These men died for the Fatherland, killed by United States bullets."

Councilman Vennet had gone to the radical meeting from a session of the City Council. The speaker of the evening was talking when he entered. The Councilman tore the photo from where it hung and swung it over the head of the speaker. He then grabbed the torn canvas and threw it into the speaker's face.

Excitement prevailed for several seconds, but a platoon of police entered the hall and restored order. While the crowd was leaving the building, Assistant Chief of Police William Cassidy tore red neckties and red armbands from their wearers. No arrests were made.

HEAR STOKES APPEAL.

Former Rose Pastor's Sentence Is Argued at St. Paul.

ST. PAUL, Minn., May 12.—Judges Walter H. Sanborn, John E. Carland, and Kimbrough Stone of the United States Court of Appeals heard arguments today on the appeal of Mrs. Rose Pastor Stokes, wife of James G. Phelps Stokes of New York, from the decision of Judge Arba Van Valkenburgh sentencing her to ten years in the Missouri Penitentiary for violation of the Espionage act. Seymour tSedman of Chicago, Mrs. Stokes's attorney, and Francis M. Wilson, United States District Attorney at Kansas City, argued the appeal.

Mr. Stedman asserted that the word "Government," as used by Mrs. Stokes, was a synonym for "Administration," and that her statement in the letter to The Star could not possibly have "caused insubordination," because it had no connection with violations of regulations for the military forces.

The charge against Mrs. Stokes was based on a letter sent to The Kansas City Star, March 18, 1918, and published two days later, saying she "did not believe that the Government should have the support of every citizen in its war aims," and that she "was for the people, while the Government was for the profiteers."

REDFIELD NOT TO RESIGN.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, May 12.—Officials who have become involved in the controversy over the operations of the Industrial Board of the Department of Commerce withheld comment on the situation today, and it is believed generally that there will be no developments of importance, at least until President Wilson returns from France and gives further consideration to the Government's plans for reconstruction.

Secretary Redfield of the Department of Commerce refused today to comment upon the statement issued by George L. Peek, Chairman of the now defunct board, in which the latter attacked Attorney General Palmer, Director General of Railroads Hines, and Secretary of the Treasury Glass, or to discuss the tart rejoinder made by Secretary Glass. Mr. Redfield's only remark dealt with reports that he might resign because of the overthrow of the board and the attitude of the other Cabinet members. He said that he had no intention of quitting his post.

ART NOTES.

Japanese Color Prints on View at American Galleries.

The Metzgar Collection of Japanese color prints is on view at the American Art Galleries, with such a tremendous proportion of Hiroshige prints that the whole might justifiably be called a Hiroshige collection. In his preface Mr. Metzgar says that he began collecting his prints a good many years ago, at a time when fine prints of the early men were much more easily procurable than they are now, but that, presently they began to disappear from the market, only the Hiroshiges appearing to be inexhaustible. He early acquired many duplicate sets of his best-known works, and the prints offered are from those early acquisitions, many of them extremely fine. The owner guarantees them to be genuine, as he bought them "before Hiroshiges were of sufficient value to tempt the forger." The guarantee is extended to the other prints in the collection.

It is easy to understand how a collector falls under the spell of an artist so various and so accomplished. We see Hiroshige in this one collection in a hundred moods, with a light-hearted welcome for every item in the panorama of the day, with appreciation of the idyllic side of Japanese life and of its dramatic side, of the orchards and fields, and of the streets, of rain and sun and cloud and flower. Here is the beautiful "Evening Snow" print, without the long line that frequently disfigures it. Here is the "Souvenir Tea House," with the sign informing us that very fine fish and rice are sold within. Here are plates showing tourists and inn runners, a daimyo cortége, with its advance guard shouting to the humble villagers to get down on their knees before the mighty one's appearance; dinner guests, horse fairs, ferryboats, the celebrated "Rainstorm on Shono Pass," the full-plate Tokaido set and the half-plate set; the Hundred Views of Yedo, the set of views of sixty-odd provinces, eleven plates of the "Drama of the Forty-seven Ronins" series—it is an entertainment that puts the Arabian Nights to shame.

The collection contains, also, a memorial portrait of Hiroshige, drawn by Toyokuni and including in its composition the farewell poem written by Hiroshige just before he died. In translation the sonnet reads: "Dropping my brush at Azuma, I go the long journey to the western country to view the wonderful sceneries there."

Among the other artists represented are Shunsho and Shigemasa, with their "Mirror of the Beauties of the Green Houses," done in collaboration; Moronobu, with four book illustrations colored by hand; Buncho, with four beautiful actor prints; Utagawa Kuniyoshi, with a number of his superb triptychs and single prints, in which his knack of introducing a delicate and shadowy background in a composition containing a salient figure is admirably shown, and Isoda Koruisai, with pillar prints characterized by an exquisite rosy tone. The sale takes place Thursday and Friday, May 15 and 16.

COMPLAINS OF POOR TELEPHONE SERVICE

IMPROVEMENT DEMANDED

The Merchants' Association yesterday wrote to F. H. Bethell, Vice President of the New York Telephone Company, calling his attention to numerous complaints filed with the association of "marked inefficiency" of the telephone service. Extracts from a number of the complaints were made part of the letter.

The gist of the complaints is that the alleged poor service handicaps business, increases the cost of it, and is irritating and unnecessary. One of the complaints read:

"The service is getting worse and worse every day and we are of the opinion that in view of the employes who are now available the service should be improved.

Another speaks of the "wretched service" which so "seriously interferes with the proper conduct of business," and another asks if it is possible to gain any improvement in the service which has grown to be "very incorrect and careless." One of the complaints suggests that at least 80 per cent. of the subscribers to the service would find grounds upon which to base demands for improvement.

A complaining member refers to his "inactive telephone" which he ascribes to the fact that the service is so poor that persons wishing to reach his office were unsuccessful in doing so. Then the letter said:

"Yesterday I personally timed my efforts to attract the attention of central on two different occasions, the first at about 11:25 o'clock and the second at 12:41 o'clock. The first time I failed to get central after a continuous effort of seven and one-half minutes and finally gave up the attempt in disgust. The second time I reached central after a continuous effort of five minutes."

This complainant wrote to the Traffic Manager of the company, he said, and was told that the operators were doing their best.

Discipline Committee Declares Practice Is Unprofessional.

The Committee on Discipline of the New York County Lawyers' Association in its annual report made public yesterday announced that of the eighty-seven cases of supposed unprofessional conduct referred to it for investigation, in only one was it necessary for the Appellate Division to take action, and in one other for the committee to recommend the consideration of the cause by the court. Of the others, all were dismissed except ten, which are still under investigation.

The one case which was subject to discipline by the court was the matter of Gray, 172 N. Y. Supp., 650, in which the court held that a system of writing letters to business men soliciting business and "following up" these letters by further letters of the same nature, notwithstanding existing professional relations another attorney might have with the business man, constituted unprofessional conduct. In passing judgment the court said:

"Business men receiving a succession of such communications would be likely to form a very unjust estimate of the profession at large and conclude that the law was not, as consistently maintained, a learned profession, but had deteriorated into a mere business, where the most persistent and adroit self-advertiser would find the most successful, a point of view repugnant to the conception of every honorable practitioner, condemned by the Bar and Bench alike."

The committee adds that the vice of soliciting business does not stop with the activities of the practitioners who openly offers his services by means of circulars and advertisement, but extends to the "more crafty, but nevertheless equally vicious, practice of using what may be termed lay touts, incorporated or unincorporated, created oftentimes by the lawyer, and enabled to thrive by what amounts to a share in his compensation. The activities of these lay agents often have the appearance of the practice of law, but their real function is to solicit business."

HEARS SUIT FOR ONE CENT.

Court Reserves Decision in Newark Mayor's Trolley Fare Case.

The suit of Mayor Charles P. Gillen against the Public Service Railway Company to recover one cent paid to a conductor on May 5, after the company had increased the trolley fare from 6 to 7 cents, was heard in the Second District Court, Newark, yesterday, before Judge Frederick Johnson.

"How do you get to the City Hall from your house?" the Mayor was asked.

Frank H. Sommer, the Mayor's counsel, argued that in the act creating the Public Service Commission there was a provision that no change in rates could be made except after a public hearing and a written order. Decision was reserved.

WOULD END COUNTY JAILS.

Special to The New York Times.

PHILADELPHIA, May 12.—"County prisons of Pennsylvania are so bad that the entire county jail system should be swept away," is substantially the recommendation of the Commission to Investigate Penal Systems, appointed by the 1917 Legislature.

Idleness of prisoners, the commission found, is one of the greatest evils of the penal system. Only one-fourth of the 6,500 prisoners in the county jails have any form of employment other than domestic service. Five million dollars is wasted yearly through lack of employment, it was asserted.

HERMANN SIELCKEN LEFT $4,255,337

RUMELY NOTE ALSO A LOSS

Depreciation of Stock Sold by Alien Custodian Also Reduces Total —Widow Gets $3,587,092.

A loss of $271,383 to the estate of Hermann Sielcken, known as the Coffee King, who died at his German home in Baden-Baden on Oct. 6, 1917, because claims of that sum against creditors in Germany were confiscated by the German Government, and a loss to the State of New York of a tax on $346,080 because the Alien Property Custodian could get only $680 a share for stock valued at $1,100 by the Sielcken estate, is disclosed in the transfer tax appraisal of the estate filed yesterday.

Mr. Sielcken was living at his show place at Baden-Baden when the world war began in 1914 and was unable to return here. For that reason, the report declares him a resident of Germany, but in spite of that fact Appraiser Kopp finds that he had a gross estate of $4,253,337 and net estate of $4,077,004 taxable here. Of this sum $4,251,250 is the net value of his interest in Crossman & Sielcken. He inherited $1,000,000 from his partner, George W. Crossman, under an arrangement by which each made a will giving that sum to the other, and later he acquired practically all the Crossman interest in the firm. At the time of his death John S. Sorenson and Thorlief S. B. Nielson each owned a small interest in the business and have since been liquidating it. He gave each $50,000, and left $60,000 to the City of Baden-Baden. The residue of $3,587,092 went to Mrs. Clara Sielcken, whom he married in 1913 when she was the widow of a Hawaiian sugar planter. His first wife had died seven years before.

Appraiser Kopp in his report says he understands that among the assets of the estate is a note of $100,000 made to the decedent by Edward A. Rumely on Sept. 14, 1917, less than a month before Mr. Sielcken's death in Germany, and payable in two years. This note has never been delivered to the executor, and is of doubtful value, and, furthermore, as an intangible asset of a non-resident, it wouldn't be taxable anyhow, the report states. This note is alleged to have been used in the purchase of The New York Evening Mail for purposes of German propaganda, and whether or not Mr. Sielcken ever knew of its existence is one of the points to be brought out in the Government's prosecution of Rumely.

The loss to the State of New York in the valuation of stock in the estate is shown by the statement of Appraiser Kopp in explaining why he fixed the value of 824 shares of the Woolson Spice Company of Toledo, Ohio, at $680 each, or $560,320 for the total. This stock was acquired by Mr. Sielcken at $1,100 a share in the contest between the Arbuckle and Havemeyer interests over the sugar and roasted coffee markets, and it gave him control. The total cost was $906,400. When the valuation of the stock was taken up for the transfer tax appraisal the accountant for Controller Travis fixed the price at $914 a share, but when the Alien Property Custodian sold the Sielcken estate assets he got only $680 a share, and this is the sum fixed by the appraiser as the value.

The Woolson Spice stock not only showed a loss of $346,080, but when control passed from the hands of the Sielcken estate the new owners of the Woolson Spice Company sued the estate for $931,520 as the loss to the spice company because the Government prosecution of Sielcken's valorization coffee scheme caused the collapse of the coffee corner and resulted in the alleged shrinkage of the sum sued for in the value of coffee sold by Sielcken to the Woolson Company. This claim and another of $50,000 against the estate by Agnes F. McRoberts will not be passed on by the appraiser until the courts pass on the claims.

Concerning the loss to the estate of claims against German creditors the report states that a total of $864,167 was due, the largest debtor being Theodor Wille. The estate collected $244,800 on the claim against him by the sale of 380 shares of Woolson Spice stock held as collateral, and a total sum of $392,783 is still due from all creditors. This item is deducted from the assets of the estate because the appraiser says "it may be assumed as certain that they have been confiscated by the German Government, and it is reasonably sure that nothing will be ever paid."

Another claim, stated to be uncollectible, is $216,255, owed by the Levering Coffee Company of Baltimore. Eugene Smith, counsel for the executor, said the coffee company owed $416,255, and that an offer of settlement for $200,000 was made on condition that it be accepted before April 15 last. The attorney said that if the offer had been rejected and the claim sued on the claim it would probably have been thrown into bankrupcy, and the estate would not have realized more than was offered. Surrogate Fowler approved the acceptance of the offer.

The report also shows that one of the debtors of the estate was Weber & Schaer of Hamburg, Germany, for $727,397, against which the Sielcken firm held 8,773 packages of crude rubber. Paul G. Hilken, who was agent here for the German merchant submarine Deutschland on her trips to this country, was agent for the Hamburg firm. Whether or not the rubber was brought from Brazil with the intenttion of shipping it on the Deutschland to Germany, where it was greatly needed, is not shown, but Appraiser Kopp states that the Alien Property Custodian sold the rubber here for $10,205 more than the amount of the Sielcken claim.

OBJECT TO PAVING STREETS.

Richmond Hill Residents Fight Plan of Borough President.

Borough President Maurice E. Connolly of Queens, just now has on his hands the biggest fight of his political career, in which several thousand taxpayers of the Richmond Hill and Woodhaven section, led by pastors and public spirited men, are interested.

Ten days ago, President Connolly announced that he had presented to the local boards of the borough petitions signed by the Public Works Commissioner for the final improvement and paving of 120 streets in the district. The work is to be paid for by assessment, and it will cost about $750,000.

A meeting of the local board in Richmond Hill, Thursday night, developed so much opposition to the plan that it was decided to hold ten meetings at which twelve streets at a time would be considered. A leader in the opposition was the Rev. Thomas A. Nummey, pastor of the Roman Catholic Church of the Holy Child Jesus, Brevoort Avenue, on which the church property is on one of the streets to be improved. Father Nummey said he represented 600 property owners who opposed the plan.

A public meeting in favor of the improvements has been called for tonight at Richmond Hill. Several others are to be held later in the week.

"It is not often that a public official is condemned for trying to get improvements," said President Connolly yesterday. "Virtually all the opposition has been fostered by the spreading of false information by certain persons for political reasons. I will give everybody a chance to be heard."

3 NEW INCOME TAX FORMS.

Blanks Just Received Will Require Careful Study.

Three new forms in connection with the Federal income tax legislation were received in this city yesterday, and, according to Joseph J. Klein, senior member of Klein, Hinds & Finke, public accountants, 1,182 Broadway, they should be studied closely by individuals and corporations. They are Form 1,065 for partnerships and personal service corporations; Form 47-A, dealing with claims for credit on account of excess taxes paid, and Form 1,115, claims by nonresident aliens to receive the benefit of personal exemptions.

"Form 1,065 is the most important of the three," said Dr. Klein, "as it will enable partnerships and so-called personal service corporations to submit information required of them on or before June 15. The form is almost as formidable as that required by corporations. It is radically different from the return form required last year.

"The specific function of Form 1,065 is to indicate the amount of income distributed or distributable to the partners or to members of the personal service corporation. Fortunately, many of the special schedules required to complete Form 1,120—for ordinary corporations—are required in connection with the return of partnerships and personal service corporations. Accordingly, the experience gained in the preparation of corporation returns will prove valuable.

"Taxpayers are directed to preserve, available for inspection by a revenue officer working papers which are employed in the preparation of the return. It also is required that inventories should be recorded in a legible manner, properly computed and summarized, and should be preserved as a part of the accounting records of the taxpayer. Those using the form are especially advised to note the injunction regarding the preservation of inventories. Inconvenience undoubtedly will be caused upon failure, hereafter, to produce for the inspection of the revenue officer the inventories now required."

Form 47-A, said Dr. Klein, is issued for the first time. Its function is to enable the taxpayer to set off against any unpaid taxes still due to the Government overpayments for prior tax periods. The form should be prepared and filed at once, he said, if a taxpayer has received acknowledgment from the Government that refunds are due but that appropriations are unavailable for reimbursement.

WILL STUDY FRENCH TRADE.

Commission Sails on Savoie to Survey Economic Conditions.

The French liner Savoie sailed yesterday for Havre with a large complement of passengers, including eight members of a commissoin sent by the French Institute of the United States to study commercial and economic conditions in France and to make a pilgrimage to the birthplace of Jean of Arc at Domremy. McDougall Hawkes, former Dock Commissioner of New York and President of the Institute, heads the commission, and the other members are Professor Henry Alfred Todd of Columbia University; Rene de Saillier du Pin, a mining engineer of Watertown, N. Y.; Alfred Gordon Webster, Director of the Department of Physics of Clark University of Worcester, Mass.; Professor Leslie Welles of the United States Trade Commission; Dr. F. B. Mumford, Dean of the Agricultural College of the University of Missouri, and M. Jean Vergnolle of New Orleans.

Others who left on the Savoie were Mr. and Mrs. John Kendrick Bangs, who return to France to continue their Red Cross work; Viscount de Nieuport, the French aviator, and the Rev. Daniel Couve, late Chaplain of the 59th Division of the French Infantry.

CURB REAL ESTATE FRAUDS.

Assistant District Attorney Waugh Lauds Mayor's Committee.

Assistant District Attorney Theodore L. Waugh, who is investigating and prosecuting land tax lien sales and fraudulent realty transactions, said yesterday that the Mayor and Nathan Hirsch, Chairman of the Mayor's Committee on Taxation, deserved the thanks of the people of the city and State for their support of the Donahue-Mahan bill to regulate real estate promoters who sell realty on the installment plan.

"This is the second bill which has been enacted as a result of the activities of the Mayor's Committee and the District Attorney's office to protect small investors and homeseekers," asserted Mr. Waugh. "Through the co-operation of the District Attorney and the Mayor's Committee restitution has been made to hundreds of persons who had been swindled by real estate sharks."

NIXON ASKS MORE TRAINS.

Tells Interborough He Wants Improved Service in Subways.

Presiding yesterday at his first hearing, Public Service Commissioner Lewis Nixon asked Frank Hedley, Vice President and General Manager of the Interborough Rapid Transit Company, to run subway trains on the Lexington Avenue line through to 167th Street, instead of transferring passengers on the Jerome Avenue branch to elevated trains. He also asked for an increase in the number of express trains on the west side subway, and for improvement of the Queensboro service.

Mr. Hedley said the suggestions needed time to think about and to plan new schedules, and he asked for a month's postponement. Mr. Nixon replied that he wanted an answer in a day or two, because he had in mind other improvements and he wanted the way cleared as he went along. It was finally decided that Mr. Hedley should reply to the proposals next Monday.

Mr. Nixon said he wanted prompt decisions on all matters, and was willing to assist those responsible for making improvements in every way in his power.

TO TEACH MAIL ADDRESSING.

Postmaster Patten Announces Course at Public School 27.

In an effort to reduce the amount of mail that reaches the Dead Letter Division of the Post Office, Postmaster Thomas G. Patten announced yesterday that in co-operation with the Board of Education a course in the correct addressing of mail would soon be opened in Public School 27, at 206 East Forty-second Street. Mr. Patten discussed the project as follows:

"Because of carelessness in addressing and preparing matter for mailing, or failure of the sender to place his name and address on it, millions of letters and other pieces of mail which cannot be delivered or returned are each year sent to the Division of Dead Letters. This seriously impairs the efficiency of the postal service and causes much additional expense. The Board of Education of this city has offered to co-operate with this office to correct the irregularities in addressing mail matter in so far as foreigners or any persons who cannot read or write are concerned. The course will be at night, will consist of three lessons, and if it is successful will be extended to other evening schools throughout the city."

WOMEN IN SALVATION DRIVE.

Gen. Vanderbilt Appoints Committee to Work for $13,000,000 Fund.

Prominent women and leaders in philanthropic work have been appointed by General Cornelius Vanderbilt to assist in the Salvation Army home service campaign for $13,000,000, which will begin on May 19, it was announced yesterday.

The Woman's Committee of the New York City committee is headed by Mrs. F. G. Griswold, and Mrs. J. Borden Harriman is Vice Chairman. They have established headquarters at 680 Fifth Avenue, where they pledged themselves yesterday to form a team to raise funds to defray the expenses of the campaign. A list of speakers, which includes Generals of the army, Admirals of the navy, returning soldiers, and others, has been provided for.

Commander Evangeline Booth, the McIntyre sisters, Gladys and Irene, and prominent women all over the city will aid the Woman's Committee.

STORES MEET SUMMER WITH HEAVY STOCKS

Prepared for Record-Breaking Business—Public Responds to Summer Advertising in Spite of Bad Weather.

Buyers of almost every line of apparel for the majority of the New York department stores and specialty shops have stocked up heavily in anticipation of a record summer business, this year, they declared to a WOMEN'S WEAR representative Saturday and this morning.

Their opinions varied, however, on several points brought out in conversation with them. Some thought that prices had advanced slightly, others thought they had remained at about the same level, while still others were of the opinion that, while prices were about the same, better merchandise and styles were offered this year.

Summer Apparel Business Has Been Good.

While none of the buyers have ha any special event in connection with their opening of summer lines, some of them have been featuring this class of goods for the past few days. They all report that business, in spite of the rainy and cold weather, has been surprisingly good. Several of the stores are holding special sales of merchandise, especially in the ready to wear lines and shoes. At all these stores it was found that a good business was being done, despite the cold and stormy weather.

At James McCreery & Co., Saks & Company, Lord & Taylor, and others, special summer dress sales had a good attendance this morning, although it was before 11 o'clock. Most of the stores have window displays featuring either summer blouses, suits or dresses and in some cases shoes.

Deliveries Slow, but There Is Little Anxiety.

The dress buyers seen all stated that they had experienced little difficulty in securing merchandise. They all agreed that deliveries this season were a little slower than in former seasons, but not enough to cause any anxiety. Some of these buyers stated that they had started to buy early, expecting a slight difficulty in deliveries. One dress buyer said that she has not laid in any stock for the business, but buys as she goes along.

These buyers, as well as those in all lines interviewed, stated that they have increased their stocks of summer merchandise to a considerable extent this season, owing to expectations of a large business. Stocks in some cases, buyers said, are as much as 45 per cent larger than last season.

Look for Continued Activity in Suits.

Suit buyers were all enthusiastic over the prospects of summer business. They said that there has been little uet up in the demand for suits, since Easter time. The sports suits especially are expected to be big sellers this year. The buyers stated that there are more and better styles this year than in former years. While prices are about the same, they said, the materials and styles offered are better than those of last season.

Buyers in all lines seem to expect a very big sports goods season. The New York troops are almost all home now, they pointed out, and it is sure to be a big season for sports, espe-

EARLY RESPONSE MARKS OPENING OF SAKS' DRESS SALE

Women's, Misses', Juniors', Girls', Infants' and House Dresses Take Part in May Sale — Many Phone Orders.

The opening of the annual May sale of dresses at Saks & Company, New York, this morning, drew crowds earlier than was expected and in some departments several lines were sold out by 11 a.m. On these, however, the customer was given the privilege of placing an order, as it was the intention not to disappoint anyone who had been attracted by the advertisement of the sale.

Six departments participated in the event: Women's, misses', juniors', girls' and infants' dresses being featured. House dresses also took a part, with three special offerings at special prices, but the main emphasis was on the other departments, whose models were featured in the display windows as well as the ad.

Remarkable Response This Morning.

Since the sale was advertised in the papers of this morning, the early response was remarkable, especially in view of the fact that some models had to be taken out of the window because there were no more left on the floor.

All the departments were reinforced by extra salespeople. In the girls' department there were 10; in the women's, 24; 16 in the misses', and four in the infants'.

Thirty Fitting Rooms in Use at Once.

The buyer of women's dresses said that she was surprised by the early response. Thirty fitting rooms were in use in the morning when the department was visited, and a still greater crowd was expected between 12 and 2. Stock girls were kept busy replacing garments on the racks. Women were trying on dresses in aisles, so great was the crowd in the fitting rooms.

This was noticeable in every department, reinforcements to the stock on the floor were arriving constantly. Everything was selling in this section—wash dresses, crepe de Chines, foulards, and cotton frocks. Fifty crepe de Chine dresses, at $18.50, usually selling for $3 a yard for the material alone, were quickly cleared out.

The values in this department were said to be excellent, even though no comparative prices were quoted. The white crepe de Chine went fast, it being rather hard, it was said, to get a good white crepe de Chine at present.

The girls' department, featuring gingham dresses at $1.95, regularly $2.95 to $3.95, drew a large number of people at an early hour. These women brought quantities, giving great armfuls of garments to the salespeople to take care of.

Tables Arranged to Divert Crowds.

The arrangement of the sales tables in this department was planned to keep the crowds out of the regular section. They were placed on the fringe of the department, so that the tables were between the crowds and the regular sections. This was done so that the people attracted by the sale would not be compelled to wander unnecessarily through the rest of the section. Two tables were heaped high with the

BEING IN BUSINESS.

There are a few great annoyances in nearly every business that could be reduced to a minimum, if not eliminated. But people became accustomed to them, and accustomed to complaining about them, and so they assume the position of a natural situation, which fastens them like barnacles to the bottom of the boat.

One of the greatest causes of irritation in business is the lack

BRITISH MANUFACTURERS PLAN TO ENTER NEW YORK MARKET

DOUBT SUCCESS OF BRITISH PLAN TO RUSH MODELS

Superior Style Value of American Copies Outbalances Possible Saving of Time, Manufacturers and Retailers Say.

The ability of British ready to wear manufacturers to enter the New York market with special Paris to London model service by aeroplane and to produce copies and get them on this market several days ahead of American made copies, as announced by cable, is questioned by manufacturers here. The possibilities of such a service were discussed in these columns at the time Harrods' and Selfridge's aeroplane service was first announced; the complete resumption of fashion service between Paris and New York since then makes competition of this sort increasingly keen, it is believed.

One American manufacturer, who sails for Paris this week, plans on maintaining a permanent designing staff in Paris as before the war. If an unusual or interesting model is seen at the theatre, races, or bought on the Rue de la Paix, a member of

Ready to Wear Industry Will Exploit Paris to London Aeroplane Service in Hopes of Competing With Local Manufacturers in Producing Copies of Paris Models

(By Cable from London Bureau.)

London, May 12.—British manufacturers of women's apparel are actively preparing to enter the New York market with higher priced merchandise. By the use of aeroplanes between Paris and London, they believe they will be able to enter into direct competition with New York manufacturers who offer copies of Paris models.

It is planned to rush the Paris models to London workshops by aeroplane; have them copied and forwarded to New York by first boat. This service, British manufacturers say, will beat New York by several days.

British trans-Atlantic airship plans are also reported maturing rapidly, and with this class of merchandise much may be possible in the near future by airship.

The cabled announcement of the proposed Paris-London aeroplane service for British manufacturers, appears to be a development of the Paris-London aeroplane fashion service recently announced by Harrods' and Selfridge. As reported in these columns at the time, the two London stores plan to send buyers to Paris by aeroplane in the morning, and have them return in time to show the latest Paris fashions in London the same afternoon.

Only a few days ago, Sir Woodman Burbidge, managing director of Harrods', in discussing the store's aviation plans said:

"We hope soon to take an order in London in the morning for a Paris hat or gown, fly over to Paris for it, and deliver it to the customer in the afternoon.

"We shall run a regular service, not only for sending our buyers to and fro, but for fetching hats, gowns, and any other articles that are urgently wanted. We shall shop in Paris for our customers within a couple of hours of our counters here.

"Other developments will shortly be a regular passenger service for our customers. There will be few places in the United Kingdom or on the Continent to which we shall not be able to offer air passages soon."

The Selfridge aviation plans have not yet been announced but they are working on a Continental aeroplane service that is expected to furnish some distinct innovations in merchandising.

The possible effect on the American trades of this new fashion service by London stores, was pointed out when the cabled announcement was published in WOMEN'S WEAR on March 7. It was declared at that time, that aside from its advertising appeal, "it would have a far greater significance, on not only to London and Paris, but to the American fashion trades as well."

With Paris fashions shown in London in less than or within 24 hours of their launching in the French capital, more frequent and more varied showings would probably be required of the Paris couturiers, and in turn, it was stated, the French creators would probably find it advisable to make a closer study of the needs and ideas of the English women. The closer contact between the British trades and the French dressmakers, it was felt, would have a direct influence on the American trade which, it was forecast, "might be compelled to get in

CLOAK STRIKE WILL BE OF SHORT DURATION, SAY AUTHORITIES

Both Manufacturers and Union Predict Work Stoppage Will Not Interfere With Business — May Concede Week Work if Union Negotiates Satisfactory Wage Basis

Machinery is already to be set in motion for the anticipated strike in the cloak and suit industry. The union announced that the vote of the workers showed about 22,000 in favor of a strike and about 1,000 against. While a conference is expected to be held some time today between members of the executive committee of the Cloak, Suit and Skirt Manufacturers' Protective Association and the officials of the International Ladies' Garment Workers' Union, for the purpose of discussing the matter finally, President Benjamin Schlesinger of the union said today that the strike is unavoidable. It is understood the strike will take effect on Wednesday, although no official time has been set, according to union sources.

Short Strike Predicted.

A manufacturer who is a student of the situation and is close to the operations of both the union and the manufacturers, and whose information on many matters in the women's wearing apparel field has always been realized as forecasted by him, is authority for a statement that the strike will be of short duration, and that merchants, jobbers, mill men and others need fear no protracted tie-up in the industry which will interfere with their seasonal plans.

"There will be a strike," he said to a WOMEN'S WEAR representative today. "The strike will be called in a day or two and it will be ended by June 1 or June 10. The strike will be of short duration, as President Schlesinger has said. There is no cause for alarm on any side, as the matter will be adjusted for the best interest of the industry."

Union May Get Week Work in Exchange for Price Concessions.

While no official data is available as to the basis of settlement of the anticipated strike, it is understood from sources close to the situation, that the manufacturers' association may concede the week work system to the union, providing satisfactory arrangements can be negotiated on the question of a weekly wage basis. It is said that the manufacturers would not be willing to give the week work to their operators on a $50 minimum wage basis, but that a $40 minimum might be considered. The point is made that the employers are not averse to paying their operators even more than $50, $60 or $70 providing the production of those operators averages about the same in proportion to the amount paid on a week work basis as it does for the wages paid on the piece work basis.

Inasmuch as the manufacturers have been so outspoken against the week work system, and, almost as a whole, have been opposed to it as a substitute for the piece work system, the latest rumors of a concession on this, the most vital feature of the union's demands are viewed somewhat skeptically in manufacturing circles.

Production the Main Question Today.

The question of production is the main issue today. With this in mind manufacturers and others are of the opinion that to concede the week work to the union would be to preclude the possibility of increased production. There are some, however, who are willing to admit that if the output of the worker is not handicapped, either through actual reduction in hours, or by the psychological influence of a certain stipulated income regardless of the amount of work performed, the main objection to conceding the week work system to the union is overcome. Labor generally is asked to maintain and increase production more during this period of reconstruction than at any other time in the history of industry. It is through this means that the increases in wages and reduction in hours are to be compensated, it is said, in order to prevent an inflation which might mean disaster in the higher prices of commodities which would inevitably ensue.

Final Conference Today.

The final conference between representatives of the Cloak, Suit and

BUYERS PLEASED WITH OUTCOME OF FUNSTEN AUCTION

Expect High Prices to Continue for Some Time—Some Predict Fashionable Furs Will Show Further Advances at October Auction.

The larger local dealers and manufacturers, who attended the spring fur auction of Funsten Bros. & Co., which closed at the International Fur Exchange at St. Louis on Saturday, expressed themselves today as more than satisfied with the auction and the prices realized.

It is the consensus of opinion that the fur trade is in for one of the most prosperous periods in its history and that the record price level's set at the sale are likely to continue for some time to come. In fact several representative members of the trade predict that October prices may even exceed the records set at the Funsten sale for some of the more fashionable furs.

550 Buyers Attended.

About 550 buyers attended the sale, of which about 350 were from this city. A majority of the buyers arrived in town on the 7 o'clock train this morning, while the rest came in on the 3 o'clock train. The afternoon party was led by George B. Herzig, president of the George B. Herzig Co., Inc., New York agents for the sale.

The local buyers report they have already removed a great portion of their purchases and that they have orders to be filled, which will consume a considerable portion of what they bought.

The auction, which ran for 12 days,

Redingote Dresses With Medici Collar—Deep Silk Fringe on Skirts — Jade and Citron Capes of Duvetyn.

(Cable to WOMEN'S WEAR.)

Following the cable printed in last Friday's issue of WOMEN'S WEAR, the additional information below, was cabled by another Paris representative of this paper on the subject of French races.

Paris, May 12. — The enormous crowd which attended the opening of the Longchamps races last week was eloquent proof of the appreciation of the French public of this sort of amusement. The French were not the only one to attend, however, as practically everybody in the now considerable foreign colony who could spare the time, was also present, President Wilson being among the foreign notables seen. The event was interesting in many respects, yet it is but fair to admit that afer such a long interlude, the crowd did not seem to have recovered itself entirely and that the pre-war elegance was perhaps a little lacking.

Members of Couture Present.

Among the notabilities in the couture and allied lines were noted Messrs. Rodier, Lewis, Dullan, Mme. Jenny and Evelyne Varon. Designers from such houses as Paquin, Beer, Doeuillet and others were also present.

FINANCIAL MARKETS

The strength which stock demonstrated yesterday was most pronounced among copper and steel issues and the number of specialties that had lately been rather dull. The oil stocks continued under considerable pressure and the broad market tone betokened considerable hesitation after many quotations had advanced rapidly in the first hour. Trading was more orderly than in the closing days of last week. The extensive declines of petroleum shares seemed like a further development of the reaction from a top-heavy position which began last Friday. The quality of the day's business was of the sort to relieve the nervousness of brokers who had previously been advising customers to go slower in taking up stocks already lifted to a high level by concerted speculative operations that seemed extravagant against the background of known business conditions.

Perhaps the switching of speculative interest to the copper group represented nothing more than a fresh endeavor of the trading element to acquire new profits, but the chances were that short covering had much to do with the advance of 1 to more than 4 points. The unfavorable situation of the copper trade since the war demand ceased had probably induced a great many traders to take the short side and enough favorable news developed over the metal outlook to promote the retirement of a lot of short commitments. Chief among the items was the enlivening of popular interest in the silver market, now that Government restrictions have been removed and the metal bid upward rapidly in this country and abroad. The copper companies are large producers of silver as a by-product and while the stimulation of copper production at high cost would be essential to the end that silver output be increased, still the possibility of much higher prices for the white product may have influenced buying of the copper shares. The stocks were affected also by a discussion of some fairly large copper orders coming in from Europe. The rise of steel stocks was less easy to explain on basic grounds. Mill operations are tending lower and new buying is light. From the sentimental point of view, however, constructive factors might be read into the abandonment of a stabilization plan and the fact that an unrestricted market contains elements, at least, of more activity than were present before.

The successful flotation of the Victory notes acted as a signal for some sizeable undertakings in the way of corporate financing. The General Motors Corporation announced the sale of $50,000,000 debenture 6 per cent. stock, the Sun Company offered, through a syndicate, $6,000,000 ten-year 6 per cent. debenture bonds at 98½, a banking group offered a block of Norfolk & Western ten-year bonds, and several other issues were learned of. The raising of funds for domestic corporations has been held back for a number of weeks and other sizeable offerings are looked for in the near future. There are many indications, too, that the arrangement of foreign credits and sales of foreign securities will come to light before long. In view of the rather general impression that money rates will be easy for some time to come it would not be surprising if American industry and transportation sought in the next few weeks to anticipate much of their requirements for the balance of the year. Call money loaned at 5½ per cent. yesterday, the rate easing to 4½ per cent. toward the end of the day. French exchange suffered another extensive decline, when cables sold at 6.19½. Sterling moved forward and Scandinavian and other neutral quotations recovered part of last week's decline. The minimum quotation for francs was the lowest ever known.

Oil Bonds

Conservative investors who wish to share in the prosperity of the oil industry without departing from their "safety first" policy should look into the features of oil bonds which have convertible or participating provisions.

A few of the most promising of such issues are described in our circular "K"—ask for it.

NEW PROJECTS

NEW enterprises, sometimes of extraordinary merit, are frequently turned down without consideration because of failure to properly present for financing.

An engineering report covering every phase of the work is necessary.

Thirty years of engineering experience and a careful study of the requirements of financiers in constructive banking, especially qualify us to make these reports.

SECURITIES ACTIVE IN WAKE OF LOAN

WILL ISSUE $50,000,000

General Motors Announces Plan to Increase Capital—Other Bonds on Market.

With the Victory Loan successfully distributed, bankers are turning their attention to the financial problems among industries which are arising as the world shifts back from war to peace. There is a vast amount of domestic financing to be attended to, and the call which is expected to be made upon American capital and credit by the rest of the world is expected to be greater than any heretofore experienced.

The domestic business is already making its appearance; there were several offerings of securities announced yesterday, and the foreign affairs are expected to eventuate as soon as the peace treaty is signed. It is believed, however, that while it will be possible to open negotiations looking to the rendering of assistance abroad, nothing definite or final can be done until all the nations are in political agreement.

The most important announcement was that of the General Motors Corporation, which is to offer an issue of $50,000,000 cumulative 6 per cent. debenture stock for the purpose of adding to the corporation's cash capital and of providing in advance for its future financial requirements. The stock will be callable at the option of the company at 115 and accrued dividends on and after Nov. 1 of this year.

To be Sold at 90.

The new stock is being brought out by a syndicate headed by Dominick & Dominick, Laird & Co., Montgomery & Co., and Hayden, Stone & Co. Early application for listing privileges will be made to the New York Stock Exchange. The stock will be offered to the public at 90.

Another offering announced yesterday was of $6,000,000 Sun Company, ten-year 6 per cent. gold debenture bonds, dated May 1, 1919. This is part of an authorized issue of $20,000,000. These bonds are to be callable in whole or part on any interest date at 101 and interest, and are redeemable for the sinking fund at par and accrued interest.

Bernard, Scholle & Co., the Bankers Trust Co., and the Union Trust Co. of Pittsburgh announced an issue of $2,500,000 Norfolk & Western convertible ten-year 6 per cent. bonds, dated Sept. 1, 1919, at the market. The total of these bonds authorized is $17,945,000. They are convertible at par into the common stock of the company, at the option of the holder, at any time between Sept. 1, 1919, and the corresponding date of 1929.

F. S. Smithers & Co. and Colgate, Parker & Co. stated that they have underwritten 41,00 shares of common stock, no par value, of the Anglo-American Commercial Corporation, and will shortly announce a public offering of the issue. The Anglo-American Commercial Corporation has been formed to take over the property and business of the River Plate Commercial Company, Inc., and is engaged in a general exporting and importing business. It has offices at New York, Buenos Aires, Rio de Janeiro, Yokohama, and London, and owns, in addition, the Compagnie Commerciale Nord Americaine, a French concern with officers in Paris and connections in other cities of France and Belgium.

Trumbull Steel Offering.

The Trumbull Steel Company announced that shareholders of the company will be given the right to subscribe to $2,700,000 of new preferred and $2,000,000 of new common stock, in the ratio of 20 per cent. of new preferred and 25 per cent. of new common. Subscription rights terminate on May 24. When this new stock is sold the company will have $10,000,000 of common and $8,700,000 of preferred stock outstanding.

It has been reported that American and British bankers are preparing to act jointly in giving assistance to the European nations which are now applying, and it was said yesterday that it was probable something of the sort would ultimately be done. The European neutrals which profited considerably during the war may be asked to participate in this arrangement, it was said, and it was believed that the Governments of the United States and Great Britain would take the initiative in getting together a great international syndicate of banks and bankers.

The return to America of Henry P. Davison of J. P. Morgan & Co., who is expected here about June 1, and of Frank A. Vanderlip, President of the National City Bank, who will probably reach New York some time next week, is expected to be the signal for greater activities among the bankers. Both of these men have been in Europe for some time, and it is believed that they have had conferences with foreign bankers in which the whole matter has been discussed, and that they will return with definite constructive ideas as to what must be done to restore the financial and industrial world to a sound post-war basis.

COTTON MAKES DULL START.

Start of New Week Indicates Market Awaits Definite Peace News.

The cotton market started the new week in a dull and an uninterested way. There was some buying from Wall Street houses and local ring traders, based mainly on the reports of bad weather, and the cotton which these interests bought was supplied, for the most part, by Liverpool and the South. First prices were down 10 to 22 points for the active months and less for the inactive options, and these losses were about the worst that the day produced. After the call buying around the ring took the market back to where it had started from, at which point it encountered fresh sales and again declined. After that the market rose gradually until it showed advances about equalling the early declines, and then, before closing time, there was another reaction which carried it back slightly, so that at the finish quotations reflected gains for the day of 3 points for May and 11 to 14 points for the rest of the market.

The session was productive of nothing new either in the trade position or in the technical position of the market. Trade advices were rather favorable, and, along with the bad weather reported on the map, contributed to offsetting the selling which was conducted for Southern spot account and for Liverpool.

The market apparently is waiting for new developments at the Peace Conference and for some definite news of the lifting of embargoes and the establishment of credits here for foreign countries and private interests. It was hoped that these credits would have been established before this, and that they have not been probably accounts for the lack of enthusiasm the past week or so and the interruption of the upward swing in prices.

SEES FOREIGN TRADE OUTLOOK UNCERTAIN

SMALL BUYERS IN MARKET

But Asserts That Volume of Business Awaits Fixing of Reconstruction Policies.

The confusion which still exists in Europe, in neutral as well as belligerent countries, has placed a temporary damper on foreign business, according to E. A. S. Clarke, President of the Consolidated Steel Corporation, who has just returned from abroad. This company is the export sales agent for the leading independent iron and steel producers. The European outlook he describes as "uncertain." Foreign orders, he says, cannot appear in the American market until the treaty of peace has been signed and adequate credits established here for the benefit of the European nations. Individual buyers are in the market for their particular needs, but the volume of business from these sources is relatively small, as compared with that which may be expected when conditions become more settled. The fact that exchange is against both England and France he considers to be another deterrent against immediate export trade with those countries on a large scale.

"It is too soon to determine just what will happen in trade ways in these recent warring countries," said Mr. Clarke yesterday. "The pot is still boiling. Orders for American producers are certain, but the volume will depend on policies yet to be adopted with reference to the speed with which reconstruction shall be carried on. If an effort is made to produce in home plants most of the materials needed, such action, of course, would limit foreign orders. The new central European countries will need supplies more urgently than others, and the problem with them will be primarily financial.

"There is little likelihood of France becoming a heavy buyer in American markets. She is rehabilitating her own mills and operating those in occupied German territory. France probably will become an important iron and steel exporter, but not for several years yet, owing to the effects of war and home needs."

Mr. Clarke added that labor unrest and high prices rule in the warring countries.

DEMAND FOR COPPER GROWS

An increasing demand for copper both for domestic and foreign account is reported by several of the largest producers. The fact that foreign inquiries are appearing in the market in greater volume is believed to account for the firmer price quotations of the last ten days. Sales are now reported at from 15½ to as high as 16 cents a pound, with the major part of the business being done at the latter figure. Despite the increased demand, and the greater number of inquiries, one prominent copper man said yesterday that there would undoubtedly be a further curtailment of operations on the part of some companies. Many, he said, had cut down production to the smallest quantity possible, while still retaining their organizations intact, but others, he said, were producing at a rate which was decidedly above the requirements of an unimpaired organization. Such mining companies, he believed, would shortly announce a further curtailment in operations.

England, it is said, has been making some inquiries for copper, and there have been many such from the neutral countries which have for the period of the war been cut off from their normal supplies. It is estimated that heavy inroads have been made into the European surplus of copper, the figure being placed at about 30,000,000 pounds a month since the first of the year, when the European surplus was approximately 500,000,000 pounds. Germany was the largest user of copper in the pre-war period, sending the metal out as exports in the form of manufactured goods. Just what position Germany will bear to the copper industry in the future is a matter of uncertainty in the minds of copper men. Most of them are, however, agreed that there will be no such heavy demand from Germany as in the past, at least not for many years.

RUSSIAN BANK SUES FOR AN ACCOUNTING

CITES BOLSHEVIST CLAIMS

Amount Involved in This Suit Said to be $1,100,000 Balance of Transactions of 3 War Years.

In a suit instituted yesterday in the Federal Court, the Russo-Asiatic Bank, with headquarters in Paris, asks that the Guaranty Trust Company be ordered to make an accounting of the financial transactions between the two concerns for the three years prior to February, 1918, when the complainant was established in Petrograd. The complaint, signed by Ladislas Jezierski, general manager of the complainant company in the Far East, alleges that the defendant has been requested to furnish an accounting and has refused to do so.

The complaint says that during the three years 1915-18 the two companies acted as correspondents for each other in the collection of checks, bills of exchange, and commercial paper, and made the usual remittances. After asserting that the complainant is unable to ascertain, without an accounting, the precise state of the mutual accounts, the complaint alleges that the refusal of the defendant to make an accounting is based "on the ground that your orator's assets are claimed by the Bolshevist faction in control of certain portions of Russian territory, pursuant to certain measures taken by said Bolshevist faction purporting to confiscate your orator's property, which said measures are, however, null and void."

It is explained in the complaint that the accounts between the two concerns are intricate and complicated, and will require the services of expert accountants to elucidate. It is also alleged that an accounting would show a heavy balance in favor of the complainant. The complaint asks that the defendant be ordered to pay the complainant all sums legally due. Evarts, Choate, Sherman & Leon are the complainant's attorneys.

An official of the Guaranty Trust Company asserted yesterday that the suit was of a friendly character, and that the end sought was to relieve the company of responsibility. If the court ordered an accounting it would be rendered and any payment ordered will be made.

It was said that the amount involved in the suit aggregates about $1,100,000.

The Russo-Asiatic Bank, it was said yesterday, was, prior to the Bolshevist régime, the largest private banking institution in the Russian Empire. It is the only stockholder of the Chinese part of the Trans-Siberian Railway which is now under control of Admiral Kolchak, the head of the anti-Bolshevist Government of Russia, with headquarters at Orisk. It was also pointed out yesterday that the bank is closely affiliated with French interests, a majority of its stock being controlled in France, while several large French banking institutions are represented in the directorate.

BUTTER AND EGG MARKET.

BUTTER.—Receipts yesterday, 6,921 packages. Increasing supplies of fresh creamery caused a somewhat weaker feeling, and most grades declined ½c, with the tone unsettled at the close. Renovated, ladies, and packing stock well sustained under very meagre receipts. Creamery, higher than extras, pound, 59@59½c; extras, 92 score, 58½c; firsts, 88 to 91 score, 57@58c; seconds, 83 to 87 score, 55@56¼c; lower grades, 52@54c; unsalted, higher than extras, 61½@62c; extras, 60¼@61c; firsts, 59@60c; seconds, 55@58c; State dairy tubs, finest, 57¼@58c; good to prime, 55@57c; common to fair, 48@54c; renovated, extras, 52½@53c; firsts, 51@52c; lower grades, 47@48c; imitation creamery, firsts, 49@50c; ladies, current make, firsts, 47@48½c; seconds, 45½@46c; lower grades, 44@45c; packing stock, current make, No. 1, 45c; No. 2, 43½@44c; lower grades, 40@43c.

EGGS.—23,932 cases. Arrivals moderate, advices indicate some further decrease of shipments in transit. There is a good demand for high qualities, and market maintains a firm tone, with some further advance on sales reported. Medium and lower grades are irregular and some lots coming from all sections because of deterioration in quality are selling no higher than heretofore. High grades of dirties and checks firm. There is a scarcity of fresh white eggs in the market due to the continued strike of express handlers, and receivers who have a few lots coming in by freight or parcels post are able to obtain higher prices for them. Fresh gathered, extras, a dozen, 49@49½c; storage packed, extra firsts, 48½c; firsts, 47@48c; gathered, extra firsts, 48@48½c; firsts, northerly sections, 46@47½c; Southerly sections, 45½@46¼c; seconds and poorer, 41@44½c; dirties, No. 1, 42@42½c; No. 2 and poorer, 38@41½c; checks, good to choice, dry, 40½@41c; under grades, 35@40c; State, Pennsylvania, and nearby Western, hennery whites, fine to fancy, 54@56c; ordinary to prime, 48@53c; gathered whites, ordinary to fine, 48@53c; Western and Southern, gathered whites, 47@52c; State, Pennsylvania, and nearby hennery-browns, 51@52c; gathered brown and mixed colors, 45@49½c.

8 Undisputed "American" Points

These 8 positive and constructive forces can be immediately operative in any business. An unlimited American Credit Insurance bond —provides absolute protection against abnormal and unforeseen credit losses.

—promotes harmony between buyer and seller.
—diminishes the cost of distribution.
—cultivates confidence as well as carefulness.
—is a bulwark of safety and stability in any emergency of credits.

Credit insurance is needed by every Manufacturer and Wholesaler, whatever the size of his business. Our Book "A Billion of Business" proves it.

Investors and Labor Difficulties

As a natural result of the world war, many economic readjustments have had to be made and, because of the new position occupied by labor, some investors are favoring securities of corporations that can be but slightly affected by ordinary labor problems.

We have prepared some statistics regarding securities of this character which we shall be glad to send to those interested. We also suggest sending for our Circular No. 120, which describes a type of bond issued by a corporation whose prosperity cannot be directly influenced by strikes.

Bombay

"THE GATE OF INDIA" is a term attributed to Bombay by virtue of its being the first important port reached by vessels from Europe and being the most important mail line to India.

Next to Calcutta it is India's most important port and city of commercial importance and population, which in 1911 was 972,892. Its harbor is one of the finest in the world and has numerous islands and a space fourteen miles long and five miles wide available for shipping. The city is quite European in appearance—a hilly promontory enclosing it on one side being especially devoted to residences for Europeans. The Government of India recently made grants to Bombay for improvements of its docks and harbor.

Bombay has now entered the list as an exporter of leather, more skins having been shipped direct to the United States during 1916 than ever before. Japan also made heavy purchases of raw cotton. Very large shipments of oil seeds were made to England and France, and as a result the export tonnage from Bombay for 1916 was the highest on record. Imports, however, were kept down in volume by lack of tonnage and consequent high freights.

$52,766,950 ABOVE LOAN QUOTA HERE

Belated Reports Expected to Make Second District's Excess Higher Still.

TOTAL IS $1,402,766,950

Rainbow Division Canvassers Add $72,497,100 Late Subscriptions to City's Victory Note Sale.

When belated reports of subscriptions were totaled yesterday by the Victory Liberty Loan Committee of the Second Federal Reserve District, including New York State and city, the twelve counties of Northern New Jersey and Fairfield County, Connecticut, it was found that the district had oversubscribed its quota by $52,766,950. All the subscriptions are not yet officially recorded, and the Central Committee hopes to see the total of $1,402,766,950 increased still more.

The Rainbow Division of loan canvassers, which worked among the trades and business firms of the city, also showed an increase when late returns were in. In addition to the amount the division reported Saturday night, $72,497,100 was recorded yesterday, and Craig Colgate, Chairman of the Advisory Trades Committee, said that he hoped for another $40,000,000 before the books of the organization were closed.

E. F. Albee, Chairman of the Theatres, Motion Pictures and Allied Amusements, stated yesterday that he was still receiving reports from 1,500 theatres and motion picture houses throughout the city. He declared that he expected the amount raised by his unit in the Rainbow Division would reach $50,000,000.

Applications for Honor Flags were received from 223 additional committees in the Second Federal Reserve District, bringing the total number of communities to be awarded the emblem up to 830. Seventy-three communities reported oversubscriptions, entitling them to stars in addition to Honor Flags already awarded. Deferiet, a town in Jefferson County, won first honors in the new list of honor communities, reporting a total subscription of $301,800, more than eighteen times its quota of $16,500. Thirty-three stars were awarded to this community. Natural Bridge, also of Jefferson County, reported an oversubscription of more than 400 per cent., winning six additional stars.

New Issue

SUN COMPANY
Ten Year 6% Sinking Fund Gold Debenture Bonds

Dated May 1, 1919 Due May 1, 1929
Authorized $20,000,000 Outstanding $6,000,000

Coupon debentures registerable as to principal and fully registered in denominations of $500, $1,000 and $5,000. Interest payable May 1 and November 1 in Philadelphia and New York, without deduction of Normal Federal Income Tax up to 2%.

Pennsylvania State Tax Refunded

Callable by the Company in whole or in part on any interest date at 101 and accrued interest; redeemable for the Sinking Fund, at par and accrued interest.

COMMERCIAL TRUST COMPANY, PHILADELPHIA, Trustee

THESE DEBENTURE BONDS are direct obligations of the Sun Company, incorporated in New Jersey in 1901, with a business history going back to 1886. The business comprises the producing, refining, transporting and marketing of petroleum and its products in the United States and abroad. Except for the purchase in part of crude oil it is independent of outside facilities from oil well to consumer. The Sun Company owns and operates 7 ocean-going tankships and also owns 775 steel tank cars.

THE TRUST AGREEMENT will provide that no mortgage or lien may be placed on the property of the Sun Company or the property of the other specified companies during the life of these Debenture Bonds.

ANNUAL NET INCOME applicable to interest on these Debentures, before the deduction of Federal Income and Excess Profits Taxes, averaged for the calendar years 1917 and 1918, $5,773,533, or 16 times the maximum interest requirement on these $6,000,000 Debentures. Earnings for the six years 1913-1918 inclusive averaged over 10 times the maximum interest requirements before and over 9 times after Federal Taxes paid, 1918 taxes being payable in 1919.

TOTAL ASSETS OF THE COMPANY, with interests in other specified companies (as set forth in the President's Letter), are as follows:

Book Value of Subsidiaries	1,964,278
Ships and Tank Cars appraised at	12,265,288
Net Current Assets	14,545,782
Total in excess of	53,775,348
Ratio to Outstanding Debenture Bonds	896%

SEMI-ANNUAL SINKING FUND PAYMENTS will retire 31% of these $6,000,000 Debenture Bonds during the first five years of their life and retire the remainder during the last five years.

THE TRUST AGREEMENT will provide that no dividends may be paid or distribution of profits made that will reduce the quick assets, including the appraised value of tank cars and ships, less all liabilities except these Debentures, below 125% of the principal amount of these Debentures at the time outstanding.

THE CASH PROCEEDS from these Debenture Bonds are to add to the Sun Company's working capital and to extend and develop its properties.

All legal matters connected with this issue will be subject to the approval of Messrs. Roberts, Montgomery & McKeehan of Philadelphia.

WARFIELD ANSWERS HARRIS.

Defends Railroad Owners' Plan for Return of Carriers.

S. Davies Warfield, President of the National Association of Owners of Railroad Securities, made public last night a letter he had written to J. P. Harris, Vice President of the Citizens' Savings and Trust Company of Cleveland, Ohio, and a member of the Committee of Seventy of the association, who recently issued a letter he had written to Mr. Warfield criticising the association's plan for a return of the railroads to private operation under responsible legislation. In his letter Mr. Warfield says:

I regret that you did not submit your analysis of the plan of the association to some of us who have been giving a great deal of time to the problem and have followed closely the hearings before the Senate Committee, as you would, I think, have found that both the bill (S5670) and the explanations of our suggestions before the Senate Committee accomplish exactly the reverse of your analysis. Indeed, so fundamental is your misconception of the entire matter that I am wondering if you could have examined inadvertently some other bill.

For instance, you take exception to the bill because the standard return contemplated by the plan is to be computed on the "property investment," whereas you say, "no attempt whatever is made to define what is meant by 'property investment.'" This misconception on your part is complete. It seems that you confuse "property investment" and "securities." The bill provides (Section 17, p. 25, line 17 et seq.) that

"The commission shall, as nearly as may be, establish and maintain freight and passenger rates, or levels of rates or charges in each rate-making district that will enable the carriers as a whole in each district and subject of this act, to earn an annual net railway operating income equal to not less than 6 per centum on the combined property investment account, determined in accordance with the accounting regulations of the commission."

You say: "The Warfield Plan makes no provision, whatever, for lean years." On the contrary, if you had read either the plan or the bill you would have found that, in addition to the one-third of their earnings over 6 per cent., the carriers receiving excess earnings may be permitted, "in accordance with regulations to be prescribed by the commission and when and to the extent found desirable in the public interest, to set up and maintain reserves out of such excess earnings deductible in the books, before the excess earnings reduction shall apply, such corporate reserves as a margin of safety for the protection of their credit, or for working capital or otherwise, &c." (S. 5670, p. 29, line 20.)

The letter continuing points out a number of items and concludes with a request that if further information on the plan is desired the writer be communicated with personally.

CORN PRICES SOARE.

May Touches $1.79, Due to Shortage and Planting Delays.

CHICAGO, May 12.—Sensational new skyward flights by prices in the corn market resulted today from meagreness of readily available supplies and from prospects of further wet weather delays to planting. Corn for spot delivery and to fill May contracts went to the highest prices so far on the present crop, May soaring to $1.77 after midday, an overnight rise of 8 cents a bushel. Before the session ended, May ascended 2 cents more, making the extreme gain for the day 10 cents a bushel.

There was a nervous close, with the market as a whole 5⅝c to 9½c up, as compared with Saturday's latest figures.

REAL ESTATE FIELD

The Union Chemical Glassware Company, Isaac Portman, President, which figured prominently in the recent activity in Bronx apartment house trading, yesterday transacted its first large deal in several weeks, purchasing from the Hyams estate the Acadia and the Aberard, two six-story elevator apartment houses at the junction of Seventh and St. Nicholas Avenues and 115th Street, known as 1,885 to 1,893 Seventh Avenue. They are two six-story structures and front 151 feet on Seventh avenue and 171 feet on St. Nicholas Avenue, with a southerly line of 108.8 feet. On the St. Nicholas Avenue side there are stores.

Mr. Portman has also purchased from the Thames Building and Construction Company the four and a half story American basement dwelling at 312 West Eighty-second Street, on lot 16 by 104.4, near Riverside Drive. He also resold to Morris Cohen, a client of Louis Rosenberg, the five-story new-law apartment at 525 West 180th Street, on a plot 48 by 100, Edward G. Schwartz, attorney, acted for Mr. Portman.

Wall Street Corner Sold.

J. Aron & Co., importers and exporters, have bought, under the name of the 95 Wall Street Realty Company, the eight-story Federal Building at the southeast corner of Wall and Water Streets, surrounded by the buildings which they own and occupy. The Federal Building measures 40.4 feet on Water Street and 64.3 feet on Wall Street, and was acquired from the U. S. Realty and Improvement Company, subject to a mortgage of $125,000.

The purchasing company owns two five-story buildings at 95 and 97 Wall Street, and a five-story structure at 112 Water Street, forming an L around the Federal Building. With the latest purchase its Water Street frontage is increased to 62.6 feet, and that on Wall Street to 105.9 feet.

Pearl Street Building Sold.

August Klipstein sold 112 Pearl Street, a four-story building, 23 by 70, adjoining the southeast corner of Old Slip, through William Alexander & Sons. The property was held at $55,000.

Brown Resells Lofts.

Frederick Brown sold to a client of S. Osgood Ball & H. H. Peck the seven-story loft building at 37 West Nineteenth Street, on a lot 25 by 92, near Fifth Avenue. In part payment Mr. Brown takes three three-story frame dwellings in Ridgefield, N. J., on Edgewater and Abbott Avenues and Linden Court. They occupy sites ranging from 110 to 64 feet in width and are about 100 feet deep.

Greenwich Street Sale.

Mrs. M. B. Phillip sold the building at 358 Greenwich Street to R. Brenner & Son, the present tenants, through Moore & Wyckoff.

Cohen Leases William Street Building.

E. A. Cohen, President of the Broadway-John Street Corporation, through the Cruikshank Company, leased the three-story building at 122 to 126 William Street, between John and Fulton Streets, from the Thomas B. Gilford estate, for a period of twenty-one years, with the privilege of two similar-termed renewals. The rentals will amount to approximately $800,000. Mr. Cohen plans to reimprove the site with a four-story building for the occupancy of insurance interests. Mr. Cohen recently has formed the 122 to 126 William Street Realty Corporation to carry on the project.

First Sale in Sixty-three Years.

John B. Dexheimer sold the three-story building, on a plot 25 by 92, at the southwest corner of Old Broadway and 130th Street, to the George J. Schnaitz Iron Works, owners of the adjoining property. The corner was last transferred in 1857. Harold L. Lewis negotiated the transaction.

Stuyvesant House Sold to Sisters.

The four-story building at the southwest corner of Second Avenue and Fifteenth Street, occupied for the better part of a century by the Rutherford Stuyvesant family, and last year sold to the Sloan Passers Union for its clubhouse, was sold to the Little Sisters of the Assumption, whose present home is at 310 East Fifteenth Street, on the block to the east. The former Stuyvesant house fronts 103.3 feet on Second Avenue and 43 feet on Fifteenth Street, across from Stuyvesant Square.

Private Dwellings.

The estate of Frederick Wells sold the four-story dwelling, with extension, 20 by 90 by 102.2, held at $40,000, at 44 West Seventy-fifth Street, to a client of Slawson & Hobbs, for occupancy.

The heirs of Marcus Franklin sold the four-story and basement dwelling, on lot 20 by 102.2, at 57 West Seventy-sixth Street, to the K. C. K. Realty Company, through L. J. Phillips & Co.

The three-story and basement dwelling, on lot 18.5 by 100, at 232 West 135th Street, was sold by William Goldstone to an investor.

John R. Dunlap sold the five-story American-basement dwelling, on lot 15 by 100.5, at 55 East Fifty-third Street, to a client of the Paterson, McL. Merrill Company, Inc., for occupancy.

Selma Stern sold the four-story dwelling, 19.6 by 100.5, at 250 West Seventy-third Street, to Rufus T. Ried, through the Wood, Dolson Company, Inc.

Harmon W. Hendricks sold the four-story dwelling, 25 by 100, at 10 East Forty-fourth Street, through Albert B. Ashforth, Inc. It is practically the last 25-foot parcel suitable for reimprovement between Fifth and Madison Avenues and Forty-second and Forty-eighth Streets.

The three-story and basement dwelling, on lot 18.5 by 99.11, at 323 West 135th Street, between Seventh and Eighth Avenues, was sold by a client of Simon Meyers.

W. M. Hagerson sold the three-story brownstone dwelling, on lot 12.6 by 100, at 131 East Fifty-sixth Street, to a client of the Douglas Robinson, Charles S. Brown Company.

The four-story and basement dwelling, 20.9 by 100, held at $50,000, at 19 East Ninety-fourth Street, was sold to a client of Pease & Elliman, for occupancy.

Tenement Deals.

The Franklin Savings Bank sold to the Dormond Realty Company, S. Meyers, President, the two five-story tenements, each on lot 26.6 by 20, at 2,447 and 2,449 Eighth Avenue, to a client of the H. M. Weill Company, who bought for speculation.

The estate of S. Goldberg sold the six-story house, 50 by 100, held at $35,000, at 51 and 53 East 108th Street, corner of Madison Avenue, to S. Levin, in an all-cash deal negotiated by Charles Berlin.

Frederick Brown sold to Jacob Ungar the five-story house, with two stores, on lot 25 by 100, at 1,363 Avenue A, through A. L. Meyer.

The Lawyers' Mortgage Company sold through S. Jaffe, 19 East 113th Street, a five-story flat, 25 by 100.

Bertha Levy sold to the 130 Delancey Street Corporation, formed at Albany, with H. Fulton, H. Mendes, and A. Barasch as Directors, the six-story tenement, on a lot 25.3 by 51.8, at 130 Delancey Street, assessed at $45,000.

The Bronx Market.

A. Rappaport and Morris Chachnow sold to a client of Marks & Marks the five-story apartment house, on plot 45 by 78 irregular, held at $52,000, at 1,002 Garrison Avenue, through Alexander Selkin and Carl Jaffe.

John Tully sold through I. Henry and T. Krakower to Samwil Construction Company, Samuel Williams, President, the five-story apartment, 50 by 100, at 522 and 524 East 142d Street.

Brooklyn.

Peter A. H. Schroder sold the four-story brick and stone apartment house at 667 Carroll Street to an investing client of F. C. Sauter.

The Anheuser-Busch Brewing Association sold 133 Nassau Avenue, northwest corner of Oakland Street, a three-story and basement brick flat and saloon on lot 25 by 100 to Joseph De Barbieri, who will make extensive alterations to the store. Joseph P. Day negotiated the sale.

The Alco Building Company sold the one-family semi-detached twin brick dwellings in Mapleton Park, 2,069 and 2,071 Sixty-fifth Street, to Joseph Dweck and Eli Hadd, for their occupancy, through Realty Trust.

Queens Borough Sales.

Cross & Brown Company sold for Abraham Altman a plot of seven lots at the southeast corner of Pierce and Seventh Avenues, Long Island City, to the Triangle Holding Company. This plot is to be immediately improved with a fireproof factory and loft building and leased to one or more tenants. The building is to be completed within four or five months.

Julia A. Arthur sold the two-family house, on plot 40 by 100, at 111 Twenty-fourth Street, Flushing, to George Ahern through J. Albert Johntra.

The Kew Gardens Corporation sold three plots, improved with modern dwellings, at Kew Gardens. A plot 70 by 100 at the northwest corner of Audley Street and Abingdon Road was sold to M. Samson; a plot 58 by 100, on the south side of Pembroke Place, east of Austin Street, was sold to A. Proudfoot, and a plot 66 by 101 at the southeast corner of Onslow Place, Beverly Road, was sold to D. Fernandes.

THE WEATHER

WASHINGTON, May 12.—Forecast: The Atlantic coast storm was central Monday night in approximately longitude 66 and latitude 43 and moving slowly east-northeastward. It has been attended by strong winds and gales off the New England and Nova Scotia coasts and rains within the last twenty-four hours in the North Atlantic States. Storm warnings remain displayed on the coast of Maine, except at Portland.

Another disturbance covers the Rocky Mountain region and the pressure is low in the Gulf States. This condition has been attended by showers in the Gulf States, the lower Mississippi, and the lower Missouri Valley, and at widely scattered points in the Northwest. Snow was falling Monday night in the Yellowstone National Park.

Cool weather for the season is general over nearly all parts of the country. In the Middle Atlantic and New England States, the upper Ohio Valley, and the lower Lake region the weather will be partly cloudy, with a tendency to somewhat higher temperature Tuesday and Wednesday. In the South Atlantic and East Gulf States, Tennessee, and the lower Ohio Valley the weather will be cloudy Tuesday and Wednesday, with occasional showers and no material change in the temperature.

Winds for Tuesday and Wednesday—North Atlantic, strong northeast and north, overcast weather and rain; Middle Atlantic, moderate north, partly cloudy weather; South Atlantic, East and West Gulf, moderate variable, cloudy weather, occasional showers.

FORECASTS FOR TODAY AND WEDNESDAY.

Eastern New York—Partly cloudy with rising temperature Tuesday. Wednesday cloudy.

The temperature record for the twenty-four hours ended at midnight, taken from the thermometer at the local office of the United States Weather Bureau, is as follows:

The commission announces an examination for plant quarantine inspector for men. Vacancies in the Federal Horticultural Board Department of Agriculture, for duty in the field or in Washington, D. C., at entrance salaries ranging from $1,200 to $2,500 a year, will be filled from this examination. Certification to fill the higher-salaried positions will be made from those attaining the highest average percentages in the examination. Competitors will not be required to report for examination at any place, but will be rated on physical ability, 10; education, experience, and fitness, 70; thesis or discussion, 20. Applicants must have graduated from a State Agricultural College, having taken the regular course in entomology or plant pathology; or from a college or university of recognized standing, having taken an equivalent course in either of these two subjects, or have had at least two years' experience in State or Federal quarantine or inspection work. They must not have reached their fiftieth birthday on the date of making oath to the application. On account of the needs of the service applications will be received until further notice. Papers will be rated promptly and certification made as the needs of the service require.

THEY NOW ARE IN PRISON

Army Authorities Search for Speicher on Charges of Desertion and Impersonating an Officer.

An Inspector of the Army Intelligence Office called at Police Headquarters yesterday and requested the aid of the Detective Bureau in a search for Frank Edward Speicher, 31 years old, who, according to the Inspector, escaped from the guardhouse on Governors Island at 9 o'clock last Friday night, with the connivance of two Army Sergeants, who are now in the Government prison. Speicher, according to the Inspector, is wanted by the army authorities on a charge of desertion and of impersonating an army officer. The Inspector said that the man also was wanted by the police of Jersey City, where he was released on $1,500 bail to await trial on a charge of embezzlement.

According to the Inspector, Speicher, who lived in Arlington, N. J., was drafted in June, made a Sergeant, assigned to the Motor Transportation Corps, and sent to Camp A. A. Humphreys, Va. He was an expert auto mechanic and chauffeur, the Inspector said. A representative of the Jersey City police called at the camp in October and lodged a warrant for Speicher's arrest on a charge of embezzlement. The charge, the Inspector said, grew out of the fact that Speicher, who had been a salesman for an automobile concern, had appropriated receipts from sales to his own use. Speicher was taken to Jersey City and was released on bail.

He obtained a Second Lieutenant's uniform, left his home, but soon returned wearing a Captain's uniform. Speicher, the inspector said, then succeeded in getting a number of representatives of automobile concerns interested in a syndicate to which, in view of his position in the Government, he told them, he could sell all automobiles and accessories discarded by the Government. Speicher, the Inspector said, forged an authorization from General Drake in charge of the Army Motor Transportation Service, permitting him to dispose of 1,000 cars and accessories in the storeroom at Camp Hallabird, Md. He was to sell the cars in lots of fifty at $400 each. Speicher, accompanied by a representative of the syndicate, went to Camp Holabird, where he showed a Sergeant at the storehouse his bogus authorization and then pointed out to his companion 1,000 automobiles and tires in the storehouse.

After returning to New York Speicher, according to the Inspector, received from the representative of the syndicate $7,500 as part payment for 492 cars and for an option on 2,250,000 automobile tires. Speicher then purchased a car for $3,500 and toured the country with his wife. The syndicate at this time notified the army authorities and Speicher was arrested in his automobile on April 11 in Danbury, brought to New York, and placed in the guardhouse on Governors Island.

Speicher made a full confession, the Inspector said. Speicher, who occupied a room with thirty-three other men on Governors Island, told the two Sergeants on guard in an outer room that the charge against him was trivial; that he was wealthy, and that he would give them $2,000 if they obtained him a pass so that he could leave the island. Such a pass was given to him, and last Friday night, after showing the pass to the sentry at the ferryhouse on Governors Island, he returned to New York, where he was met by one of the Sergeants. The latter went with Speicher in a taxicab to Sixty-fifth Street and Broadway, and then Speicher left to get the money he had promised the Sergeants. According to the Inspector, he returned later, saying that he would not be able to give them the money until the following morning. They were to meet in the same place.

When the men appeared the next day Speicher was not there. Both Sergeants then confessed their part in the matter. The investigation of the records shows, the Inspector said, that Speicher also was known under the aliases of Frank Loughery and Frank McQuade, and that in 1912, in Detroit, he was sent to prison following his conviction on a charge of forgery.

PRISONER CHAINED IN STOLEN AUTO

NEARLY ESCAPED IN VIRGINIA

Found Fredericksburg Jail Less Secure Than Chain That Held Him to Tonneau Footrest.

A mud-caked automobile drove up to Police Headquarters yesterday morning, with two bedraggled occupants. Idlers on the sidewalk saw Detective George J. Andrews of the Automobile Squad remove his goggles, step into the rear of the tonneau, and unfasten a chain which attached a pair of handcuffs to an iron footrest at the bottom of the car, releasing a prisoner, who was led into the building.

Detective Andrews reported to Inspector John J. Cray that he had brought back Harry Resin, 18 years old, of 77 Bay Twenty-ninth Street, Bensonhurst, from Raleigh, N. C., and had ridden the entire distance with the prisoner handcuffed and chained in the rear of the car he is alleged to have stolen.

The trip was not made without mishap. An enforced stay at Fredericksburg, Va., from Thursday until Sunday while the automobile was undergoing repairs, almost resulted in the escape of Resin from the local jail. When Andrews called for his charge he found that the prisoner had already removed part of the wall of his cell, and the detective believes that if the prisoner had had a few hours more to work he would have got away.

Resin was arrested in Raleigh on May 7, and Andrews started on the overland journey the following day. The trip from Fredericksburg was made in twenty-four hours of continuous travel, stopping only long enough for food.

Resin is charged with stealing the automobile belonging to Miss Lillian Duffy, a school teacher, of 6,768 Bay Sixteenth Street, Bensonhurst, on April 2 while the car was standing in front of her home. It was understood that he had headed South, and the police wired the towns along the route he was believed to have taken. When Resin rolled into Raleigh Chief of Police Barbour recognized the license number and arrested the fugitive.

When Andrews arrived in Raleigh he decided to bring back both the automobile and the prisoner. Stocking the car with a bottle of water and a basket of food and chaining the prisoner in the rear of the tonneau, he started north. Engine trouble developed on the way, and he stopped in Fredericksburg for repairs.

Both the driver and the passenger were cramped with fatigue and covered with grime when they reached headquarters, and the automobile looked somewhat the worse for wear.

To Dedicate Blashfield Fountain.

Exercises dedicating the Evangeline Wilbour Blashfield Memorial Fountain in the Queensboro Bridge Market, at First Avenue and Fifty-ninth Street, will be held at 4 o'clock this afternoon. Day, the Commissioner of Markets. Other speakers will be M. Loeb, President of the Queensboro Market Association; Royal A. Copeland, Commissioner of Health, and Alfred J. Talley, the Assistant District Attorney.

Flanders Quits Maxwell Motors.

Special to The New York Times.

DETROIT, Mich., May 12.—Walter E. Flanders, pioneer in the automobile industry, has resigned his connection with the Maxwell Motor Company, of which he was for many years President, and more recently Chairman of the board. Mr. Flanders's duties will be taken over by President W. Ledyard Mitchell, who announces that there will be no present important changes in personnel or method.

ARMY WILL DISPOSE OF VAST MEAT STORES

Agrees with Packers to Offer About Two Years' Product in Foreign Market.

WASHINGTON, May 12.—A method of disposing of about 100,000,000 cans of beef and more than 50,000,000 pounds of bacon, included in the surplus food stocks of the army, has been agreed upon between the War Department and representatives of the packing industry.

The Department announced today that it had accepted the recommendation of the packers that the goods be disposed of for export, to relieve the food situation in Europe, but that, should this be impossible, the director of sales would control the sale in this country, fixing the prices and method of distribution, with the packing industry acting as an agent.

The surplus products to be disposed of were said to represent the combined output of American packing houses for five months during the war, when the plants were kept in operation continuously, and to equal a normal production of a period of over two years. To place this quantity of packed meats on the market at this time, the Department's announcement said, would seriously affect prices on both canned and fresh meats.

The concerns represented at the meeting were Wilson & Company, Morris & Company, Armour & Company, The Cudahy Packing Company, and Libby, McNeil & Libby.

Sues for $5,745 Dental Bill.

Dr. William McAndrew, Associate Superintendent of Schools, was sued in the Supreme Court yesterday for $5,745 alleged to be due for dental treatment given by Dr. Howard T. Stewart at 507 Fifth Avenue from 1914 to 1918. It is alleged that the reasonable value of the treatment was $6,500, and that only $755 was paid. Dr. McAndrew insists that the sum charged is far in excess of reasonable.

Pardon Vested in Pershing.

WASHINGTON, May 12.—Secretary Baker today directed publication of a general army order authorizing General Pershing to "mitigate or remit" any sentence which under the Articles of War requires confirmation of the President before such sentence may be executed.

DRAFT OFFICIALS ON TRIAL.

The trial of Police Captain James Hanse of Freeport, Chairman of the local Draft Board there, and Seton C. Bens, member of the Draft Advisory Board, charged with conspiracy to defeat the selective service law, in giving exemptions and deferred classifications to several persons, was begun yesterday before Federal Judge Garvin in Brooklyn.

The complaint against the two men charges that Bens accepted a bribe of $1,200 and Hanse a bribe of $300 from Joseph Gitter, a wealthy millinery goods importer of Brooklyn; that Morris Sachs obtained exemption by giving real estate valued at $1,200, and that Nathan Schulman obtained a limited service classification on the payment of $800.

Joseph Gitter, who, together with his father, mother, and sister, is under indictment in connection with the attempt to evade service, was called as a witness yesterday. Gitter testified that he had a talk with Bens, a member of the Advisory Board, and it was agreed that he should give Bens a check for $1,200 for deferred classification. The witness also testified that Bens suggested that Gitter should take up a temporary residence in Freeport. He testified that at that time he was living at Bedford Avenue and Hooper Street, Brooklyn.

When the board was under investigation by the Government the witness testified Bens said to him: "Bo, you had better give me a note for $1,200 and we'll pretend it is a loan." The note was dated back, the witness said.

Because of the absence from the city of one of the counsel for the defense Judge Garvin adjourned court late in the afternoon until Thursday.

S. P. C. C. NEEDS FUNDS.

Appeal Made in Report Telling of Its Activities.

The annual report of the New York Society for the Prevention of Cruelty to Children, of which John D. Lindsay is President, was made public yesterday. In a foreword Mr. Lindsay says that the society is now in its forty-fourth year of work in behalf of neglected and helpless children, and that since its organization it has given attention to 416,637 complaints in which the welfare of 1,249,911 children became the subject of its investigation.

"If the society needed any justification for its existence or reward for its philanthropy," Mr. Lindsay says, "it might be found in the fact that during this period 239,809 young children have received its special attention, and with the single purpose of benefiting each child. During the last year the society prosecuted 504 criminal complaints, of which 373 resulted in convictions and the consequent rescue of more than a thousand children from lives of vice, or cruelty of various forms, and from destitution."

Mr. Lindsay makes an appeal for funds, urging that with increased resources the society would be able to extend its activities in caring for young children.

2 Times As Much Work Done
$7,000 Saved—Ditto
More than 1,000 employes are bonded by the National Surety Company every working day.
From three to seven different records must be made for each name.
These records contain history of risk, employer's name and address, rate, amount, agency, etc.
Duplication of this information is necessary, not only for different divisions of records, but also as protection against displacement and loss by fire.
Today seven girls with four Ditto machines do twice as much work and still save $7,000 over the old method.
Using the folder for the master copy prevents waste; eliminates the extra cost of making, using and destroying a separate master copy for each folder.
Ditto will also save time and money for you in your business.
Ditto used to be called the Commercial Duplicator.
Call Cortlandt 2672 and ask for the Ditto Man.
